FUTURE QUAKES PREDICTED FOR EASTERN AREAS

Expect New Tremors Expert Says.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Scientists predicted tonight that further earth tremors will follow the quake which early today jarred a wide section of eastern United States and Canada, an area inhabited by more than 40 million people.

"It can be recorded as certain," said Dr. L. Don Leet, Harvard university seismologist, "that there will be following shocks. Some may be small, some large—we don't know how large."

Another scientist, Wilber Stout, Ohio State university geologist, said there have been many such tremors in the past and there probably will be many in the future. He predicted, however, that none will be of major importance. Minor shocks, he said, are to be expected at intervals, although there is relatively little volcanic activity in the middle western areas.

First Since 1929.

This morning's earth shock was the first one of such proportions felt in the northeastern part of the United States since 1929. It was attributed to a geological stimulus of 35,000 years ago, occurring now, it was said, as a result of the earth readjusting the pressure on its surface. It is generally believed to have originated in the Laurentian fault, in Canada north of the St. Lawrence river. This fault has caused other quakes in the east.

The tremors caused comparatively little damage as they rolled across seventeen states and three Canadian provinces, but they aroused flurries of excitement. Many persons were awakened as the first rumblings were felt a few minutes after midnight [Chicago time] and thousands rushed out of their homes in their night clothes.

Blame Death to Shock.

The death of Mrs. Catherine A. Cook, 65, at Watertown, N. Y., was attributed indirectly to fright growing out of the earthquake. Two other deaths occurred yesterday in Helena, Mont., where a disastrous succession of earth tremors has caused untold damage in the last three weeks.

Helena felt another heavy jolt early today, but scientists said there was no connection between the Montana quakes and those that alarmed the eastern part of the country. About twelve hours before the eastern tremors occurred a severe quake rocked an area of 500 square miles in the vicinity of Helena, causing damage estimated at more than a million dollars in addition to the two deaths.

All the states east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river, as well as the Canadian provinces of New Brunswick, Ontario and Quebec, felt today's shocks.

Tremors Vary in Intensity.

The tremors were of varying intensity throughout this vast area. Government and state buildings in Washington were shaken slightly, steel filing cabinets in a state office at Albany, N. Y., were thrown to the floor and electric light fixtures torn down, rain spouts fell from buildings in Wheeling, W. Va., and in several cities buildings were afterward declared to be unsafe.

Railway tracks were broken and twisted in the vicinity of Doucer, Quebec, described as the epicenter of today's quake. Trafic on the transcontinental line of the Canadian National railways was disrupted. Several miles of tracks were reported shifted from their position in some places.

In Ontario a landslide occurred on the shores of Lac Menjobagues, about 300 miles east of Cochrane. A gaping hole 40 feet in width and more than 200 feet long was torn in the Canadian railway's right of way.

Large cracks appeared in Boston's 6 million dollar federal building. The openings extended from the 10th to the 13th floors in the limestone block wall of the 22 story building.

A 15 foot hole was torn in the wall of a brick structure occupied by an electrical supply house at Cortland, N. Y., when the tremors shook

POWERS STUDY BRITISH MOVE TO REVAMP LEAGUE

Fear Row Over Italy May Bring War.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 1.—Far reaching, though still nebulous, projects to save Europe from disaster held the attention of front line statesmen here today while their seconds were still enmeshed in the technical difficulties of enforcing economic sanctions against Italy.

This broadening of the diplomatic horizon has occurred primarily because of the new realization that whatever develops out of the immediate crisis over Ethiopia, Europe is heading rapidly toward another general war.

It is expected that the sanctions committee of the league of nations will be able tomorrow to fix the date—probably Nov. 15—on which all purchases from Italy must cease, but despite the league's relative success in applying article XVI of the covenant for the first time in its history, it is feared that the existing machinery will be powerless to stop a general European conflict.

Four Plans Under Discussion.

Among the projects discussed today as possible methods of staving off such a catastrophe were the following:

1. A British proposal for reorganization of the league on a broader basis so as to bring Germany—and, it is hoped, eventually the United States—into the fold.
2. A French suggestion to revive the four power pact between Italy, France, Germany, and Britain to pursue negotiations for peace in Ethiopia.
3. Reaffirmation and probably reinterpretation of the Locarno pact guaranteeing western European frontiers.
4. Organization of European security with the participation of Germany by interlocking western, eastern and probably Mediterranean security pacts.

Japan and Russia on Issue.

All these projects are interdependent and, in fact, involve still wider horizons, such as relations between Japan and Russia. How definitly any of them have been formulated is hard to say, but they are definitly in the wind.

The whole European horizon was taken in during a long conversation between Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs; Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, and Premier Laval of France this morning. Some of this panorama, at least, was communicated by Laval to Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate.

It is felt that the German and Italian grievances against the league have considerable foundation. Hence there is a growing belief that some kind of international new deal is necessary.

It is particularly clear to most delegations that a satisfactory solution of the Italo-Ethiopian question is impossible in the present setup. Either sanctions will be ineffective and the league will lose all its prestige—this seems unlikely at the moment—or else Premier Mussolini and the Fascist regime will be broken with unpredictable consequences. Apparently even the British are now beginning to feel that this would not be such a big advantage to them.

Would Pull League's Teeth.

Owing to the extreme position taken by Il Duce it is not believed any peace negotiations have much chance of success unless there is a complete new deal which would cover up the Italian backdown.

The French idea of reviving the four power pact would serve this purpose, but it does not seem likely that the British will consent—at least until after the elections on Nov. 14.

The British idea for reforming the league is to take the teeth out of article XVI and make the league a purely consultative body to which all countries could adhere. To compensate to Europeans for this, a special European security system employing collective military assistance against an aggressor would be established by completing existing or projected regional security pacts—an eastern pact, a Danubian pact, a Locarno pact, and a Mediterranean pact.

At the same time the league would be detached from all connection with the treaty of Versailles to make it palatable to the Germans.

2 ROBBERS SLUG TAVERN OWNER, SHOOT POLICEMAN

Park Policeman Joseph Isola, 46 years old, 530 Curtis street, was shot and critically wounded last night by two robbers he interrupted as they were slugging a café operator in Ada street a short distance north of Washington boulevard. A bullet struck Isola below the heart.

Joseph Posch, 50 years old, 2241 Campbell park, the victim of the bandits, suffered a fractured skull and one of his eyes was so severely injured that physicians at the county hospital declared he would lose the use of it.

Policeman Isola was taken to the Garfield Park hospital. He told investigators that he was walking beat in Washington boulevard when a one armed man who had been with Posch ran up and told him of the holdup. He hastened to the scene. The robbers fired on him and he fell. The two robbers fled in an automobile.

Posch said the one armed man was named McGavin and was formerly a congressman. They had both left the Posch place at 1380 Lake street a short time before they were attacked. The police are seeking McGavin. Charles McGavin was elected to congress from the 8th Illinois district in 1904. He has not, so far as is known, resided in Chicago for many years.

When it was announced at the hospital early today a blood transfusion may become necessary for Isola fifteen west side park policemen volunteered. They were given blood tests.

POLICE SEIZE 43 IN 5 BOMBINGS IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2 [Saturday].—[Special.]—Police early this morning held 43 persons in connection with the mysterious series of bombings in Milwaukee.

Nineteen were arrested in a pool hall at 1428 West Lincoln avenue, eleven in a pool hall at South Sixth and West Mitchell streets, and thirteen in a pool hall at South Fifth street and West National avenue.

The police asserted that the places where the arrests were made are "hotbeds of communism."

The first blast, last Saturday night, was directed against the village hall of Shorewood, the second and third against branches of the First Wisconsin National bank, and the final two were exploded Thursday night at the walls of two outlying police stations.

The city hall, heretofore wide open evenings, was locked last night, except the Market street door, which was guarded and no one was admitted without proving his identity.

2d Student at Harvard Gives Up in Beating

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—With the surrender of the second Harvard student charged with the brutal assault on Frank Foster, 67 year old Dunster house janitor, Chief Inspector John J. Canney of the Cambridge police announced tonight there would in all probability be more arrests. He said John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, was one of several students yet to be interviewed.

Bennett Y. Ryan, 22, member of the junior class, surrendered today to Inspector Canney, who earlier in the day had obtained a warant charging the young man with assault and battery on Foster.

Implicated by Companion.

Eugene George, 22, Harvard sophomore who surrendered Tuesday on a complaint also charging assault and battery, implicated Ryan in the beating last Saturday night after the Harvard-Dartmouth football game, police charged.

At the Baker Memorial hospital tonight Foster's condition remained critical. His most serious injury is a concussion of the brain in addition to a broken nose, fractured jaw, and the loss of the sight of one eye.

All of the students who attended a drinking party in Dunster house after the Dartmouth game will be interviewed, Inspector Canney said. Asked if John Roosevelt, a resident of Dunster house, had attended the party, Canney answered:

"I have been informed that John Roosevelt was there and I have been informed that he was not there. I'm going to talk with him."

Claims He Left Earlier.

Young Roosevelt tonight made a statement at his room when he heard the police planned to interview him.

"I was at the party, but only for about ten minutes immediately after the game," he said. "I had a dinner engagement at 8 o'clock that night in Concord. I had to get dressed. I had to call for the young lady I was escorting in Boston, and I had left long before the trouble started. It must have been before 6:30 at the very latest when I left Dunster house, because I was in Boston about 6:45."

A charge that young Roosevelt was in an auto accident at the party he attended in Concord was made tonight by Chief of Police Ryan. He said the youth was riding in a car that ran off the road into a hedge on the grounds of the Concord Country club and that a girl companion was thrown off the running board, but that no one was hurt.

This young Roosevelt denied, saying that the car merely was parked in the position the chief described and that there was no accident of any sort.

Convict Slain at Stateville; Inquiry Begun

State's Attorney William R. McCabe of Will county announced last night that he intended to question every inmate and employé of the Stateville prison, if necessary, to learn who yesterday stabbed to death William Neill, a prisoner serving a thirty year sentence.

The killing of Neill and the subsequent chorus of "I don't knows" by the twenty convicts who were in the prison yard when he was slain form the latest link in the chain of scandals that has marked prison administration in Illinois under the Horner régime.

Mr. McCabe is already investigating the easy escape from the neighboring Joliet prison of Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes on Aug. 3. Fernekes casually walked out the front door of the penitentiary. Captured last Monday by the Chicago police, he committed suicide on Tuesday by taking poison.

Another Robber Seeks Parole.

Another recent episode in prison affairs was the paroling by Gov. Horner's parole board of Nick Maentanis, participant in a $150,000 robbery in Lake Forest, after he had served only three years and eight months of a one year to life sentence.

William H. Mitchell, one of the principal victims in that stickup, staged in his own home, has been notified that one of Maentanis' companions, Dominic Di Nardi, who received the same sentence, is now under consideration for parole—this in spite of the fact that he long eluded capture and has served only one year. Mr. Mitchell replied, giving a number of reasons why he was opposed to the quick paroling of a criminal who had no hesitation in shooting when he was interrupted in his business of robbery.

No Clew to Murderer.

Neither Mr. McCabe nor Joseph E. Ragen, who was appointed warden of the Joliet-Stateville prisons only three weeks ago, found any satisfactory clew to the murderer of Neill, who was stabbed three times in the back. It was the guess of the Will county prosecutor that Neill might have been killed because he was suspected of being a "squealer."

None of the twenty or more prisoners in the yard would admit they saw the attack on the alleged informer. The knife used has not been found, nor have the authorities any idea how it was obtained. There is a rule against convicts carrying weapons. But it was recalled that Lawrence Marzano, another convict, was stabbed in the prison mess hall on Wednesday.

Neill, who was 35 years old, was sentenced to prison for the murder of Fred Seivert, a bartender, during the holdup of a saloon in Joliet in 1930. Last year he gave the authorities information on which Edward Fitzgerald of Pana was arrested and convicted of participation in the murder. Fitzgerald is serving a 14 year term in Menard prison.

Prisoners Deny Seeing Attack.

Prosecutor McCabe, who was attorney for Neill at his trial, learned a little about the killing from Edward Hatfield, a convict serving a term for burglary. Hatfield said that he was standing in a tunnel leading out of the prison yard when Neill staggered over from the yard and collapsed in his arms. If the wounded man made any statement before death Hatfield failed to hear it—he is deaf. The other inmates in the yard, one of whom must have been the killer, all claimed they did not see the attack on Neill.

One trouble maker, Fernekes, will bother prison authorities no more. His body was cremated yesterday and the ashes put in Graceland cemetery.

Flynn Accuses Him in Shortage Trial.

Canceled checks totaling $361,000 to show, according to the prosecution, that Robert M. Sweitzer, when he was county clerk, dipped into the county funds to bolster his private bank account, were introduced in evidence yesterday before a jury in Judge John C. Lewe's Criminal court. The fifteen checks were handed to the jurors for inspection.

The check evidence is part of the prosecution's case against Sweitzer, who is on trial charged with withholding $414,129 of public funds from Michael J. Flynn, his successor in office. Sweitzer, who held the office of county clerk for 24 years prior to his election as county treasurer in 1934, is accused of manipulating the tax redemption fund of the clerk's office.

Opposing Attorneys Clash.

The introduction of this evidence against Sweitzer, who was ousted from the treasurership by the county board after the disclosure of the $414,129 shortage, was fought by the defense attorneys. The quarreling became so bitter that before the day was over Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Salter and Defense Attorney I. Harvey Levinson were indulging in personalities. The culmination of the quarrel came when the defense attorney asked to talk to certain state witnesses before they testified. The prosecutor stood by while the defense attorney talked to the witnesses.

"You get out of here, you ——," said Attorney Levinson with considerable heat. "You may have been able to run the courts in Oklahoma, but you cannot do it in Chicago." [Salter was a state's attorney in Oklahoma before he came to Chicago as a special federal prosecutor in the trials of Samuel Insull.]

Settle Dispute in Chambers.

"You ought to live up to the ordinary code of ethics of your profession," retorted the prosecutor as the attorneys disappeared into the judge's chambers to settle the dispute.

Thirteen of the checks introduced in evidence, which show they were drawn against the tax redemption fund and deposited in Sweitzer's bank account, are as follows:

Nov. 8, 1917, $10,000; Jan. 15, 1919, $10,000; Feb. 8, 1919, $10,000; Sept. 9, 1920, $16,000; Aug. 21, 1925, $25,000; Sept. 11, 1925, $10,000; Nov. 12, 1925, $10,000; Dec. 18, 1925, $5,000; June 15, 1928, $25,000; July 27, 1928, $10,000; April 12, 1929, $10,000; Sept. 30, 1930, $15,000, and May 21, 1931, $5,000.

Two Involve $200,000 Item.

The other two checks involve the $200,000 which, the state charges, Sweitzer took from the tax redemption fund to make good a similar amount he had received from the county treasurer in 1922 as a fee for tax extensions. This $200,000 check from the treasurer, according to the prosecution's contention, Sweitzer never deposited in any county account.

The transaction should have been merely a bookkeeping matter, the state has pointed out, and the $200,000 should have been returned to the treasurer immediately after an entry was made on the clerk's books. Sweitzer, however, did not do this, prosecutors said, and took the money out of the redemption fund several years later [1928] to make good the amount just before George F. Harding, a Republican, succeeded the late Patrick J. Carr as county treasurer.

Checks Drawn on Two Funds.

The two checks show that originally Sweitzer drew against the general fee account for the check to the treasurer, but subsequently had to draw another against the tax redemption fund when he found that the money in the fee fund was not sufficient to cover the big check.

The audit which revealed the $414,129 shortage—as yet not introduced in evidence—will show, the prosecutors said, that Sweitzer in payments from time to time replaced $95,000 of the amount drawn by check from the redemption fund.

Flynn Is Principal Witness.

Flynn, Sweitzer's successor, and, like the defendant, a veteran Democratic political leader, was the day's chief state witness before the jury, which was handed voluminous documents and checks for inspection from time to time. Flynn, an able talker, was doing a task apparently not to his liking, it appeared to court spectators. He talked rapidly as he skimmed over his conversations and negotiations with Sweitzer at the time of the "turn over" of the clerk's office.

It was frequently noticeable during his testimony that he dodged certain questions by his rapid manner of speech, which ostensibly prevented his hearing the prosecutor in some of his efforts to interrupt him with additional questions.

The Graham Bank Incident.

Just before court was adjourned until Monday H. E. Jorgenson, an employé of the Chicago Title and Trust company, produced records of the defunct Graham & Sons bank, in which Sweitzer had a $75,000 deposit of tax redemption fund money, to show that after the bank failed in 1917 Sweitzer received $17,788 in dividends and another credit of $40,000 which represented an offset on his personal indebtedness to the bank.

The state charges Sweitzer did not deposit the $17,788 dividend payment in the clerk's funds nor did he reimburse the redemption fund for the amount received as an offset against his personal loan, claiming in his statement to Flynn, however, a complete loss of county funds in the bank's closing.

FLYNN'S TESTIMONY

The testimony of Flynn, who took the witness stand in the morning session, was somewhat of a disappointment to court fans, who expected to hear of certain incidents which Prosecutor Marshall V. Kearney, in his opening statement, had told the jury would be covered by the witness. He was not asked any detailed questions concerning the Graham bank and $200,000 redemption fund incidents.

Flynn started out by testifying that he succeeded Sweitzer on Dec. 3, 1934, and talked to him that day, but did not discuss office affairs. He was questioned as follows:

Q.—When did you talk to him about the office. A.—The following day. Higgins [John B. Higgins], the bookkeeper, was there. On the evening of Dec. 3 a statement was put in my desk by the bookkeeper. I asked the meaning of certain initials appearing on the statement.

Tells of Discussion with Sweitzer.

Q.—Tell us of the talk with Sweitzer. A.—I talked to Sweitzer about the statement. I asked him what the statement meant in regard to the makeup of liabilities and assets. He said part of the assets were in the Graham and other closed banks and in I. O. U.s from the cashier's cage.

The witness then identified two statements, the one prepared by Higgins, and another presented to him the next day by Sweitzer. In this second statement the entire amount of the shortage, including the cashier's cage item, was lumped in one designation of "in closed bank." In reference to the second statement the witness said:

"I signed this statement, subject to verification. I told him [Sweitzer] I thought there should be an audit. He thought that would be a good thing, he said, and agreed that since no audit had been made since 1872 it should be done."

Gets Explanation of Symbols.

Q.—Did you discuss with him the items which appeared in the original statement under initial symbols and ask him what they meant? A.—Yes; he said the G meant Graham banks; S, the Standard Trust and Savings bank, and Cage meant I. O. U.s which would be taken care of later. The I. O. U.s were supposed to be in the cash box.

Q.—Did you talk to Sweitzer about the $375,000 item at the time you signed the second statement? [It was the figure covering "Balance in closed banks" in the Sweitzer statement.] A.—Yes, we talked over the audit matter and he thought it was the proper thing to do.

Flynn then told of seeing Sweitzer from time to time and how the defendant came to him in February and told of his contemplated vacation in Florida.

Q.—What was said at that time? A.—He said that when the audit was ready he was willing to come in and straighten out any "difference."

When Sweitzer returned, Flynn testified, the audit was nearly completed and Flynn spoke to Sweitzer about the cashier's cage shortage, which was carried as $34,700 in a penciled notation on the original statement submitted to Flynn.

"I told Sweitzer that the audit was almost complete and that the cage account shortage was more than was shown on the statement," testified Flynn. "Along in April he came in and paid $40,000. He did not want to take his change of about $300 or so. I credited this amount to the tax redemption fund account."

Tells of Receiving Audit.

The witness then told of receiving the completed audit of the clerk's office accounts about May 10 and turning it over to Attorney John McInerney for examination. Later a formal demand for payment of the indicated shortage was drawn up by the state's attorney's office and forwarded to Sweitzer, he said. The questions vital to the state's case were then asked:

Q.—Did you receive the $375,157.50 [the amount of the shortage minus interest] or any part of it as shown on the statement? A.—Only the $40,000 I spoke of.

Q.—Did you receive the $414,129.41 [the full shortage figure, including interest] or any part of it after the demand of May 27? A.—No, sir.

Defense Attorney Short, on cross-examination of the witness, showed that Sweitzer was in accord with the plan for an audit of the office and that an "outside" auditor was selected although the county has an auditor of its own.

Higgins on Stand Again.

On redirect examination Prosecutor Kearney brought out that Flynn was unable to find any IOUs in the cashier's cage. When he asked the witness if he had any discussion with Sweitzer about closed banks he was blocked by defense objections to the effect that such testimony was not permissible under redirect examination. The objection was sustained.

The bookkeeper, Higgins, cousin of Sweitzer's wife, who on Thursday was a witness obviously unfriendly to the prosecutor, took the stand at the opening of court. He identified statements of accounts which he prepared for Sweitzer as the latter was about to leave office. Higgins was head bookkeeper of the office from 1928 until the end of Sweitzer's term.

He previously had refused to identify these statements. Prosecutor Salter questioned him as follows:

Q.—I will ask you if this is a copy of the statement you prepared for Mr. Sweitzer as he was about to leave office? A.—Yes.

This statement showed that Sweitzer in his final statement of the accounts of the office made to Flynn listed the money which he is accused of withholding under initial symbols. The listing was as follows:

"G—$75,591.66 [presumably closed Graham bank].

Tells of Listing Symbols.

The witness said he listed the figures as they were shown on the books by the bookkeeper who preceded him. He showed reluctance when Prosecutor Salter asked him if he talked to Sweitzer about the items after he became bookkeeper in 1928. When the prosecutor asked if he did not tell the grand jury certain things about these items the witness' memory apparently became refreshed and he gave what the prosecution considered damaging evidence against Sweitzer.

Q.—Now, I will ask you if you talked to Sweitzer about these items? A.—Yes, I did talk to him, but I cannot remember the year.

Q.—What did you say to him and what did he say to you? A.—I told him I was worried a little. I stated it was out of balance. I spoke about the $200,000. He said not to worry. He patted me on the back and said not to bother about it at the present time.

Q.—Now I will ask you if you ever submitted to Mr. Sweitzer a statement showing balance in closed banks at $375,000? A.—No.

COMMITTEE WARNS JIMMY WALKER NOT TO TRY A COMEBACK

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The city affairs committee bluntly warned former Mayor James J. Walker today that if he attempted "a raid upon the city treasury through a pension or otherwise, or to establish himself as a vindicated martyr," public opinion would quickly express itself as vehemently as it did three years ago.

A statement issued by the committee said:

"The city affairs committee would refrain from making any comment upon the return of this discredited public official, for it does not seek to hound any one, no matter how evil his ways, but in view of the outrageously impertinent statement made by this man at this time, claiming vindication, it finds it necessary to remind him as well as the citizens of New York that Mr. Walker is as discredited today as he was three years ago; that his various financial transactions, both personal and as mayor, still remain unexplained, and that his personal financial agent, Robert Sherwood, still remains a fugitive from the state of New York.

"No, we do not forget. If Mr. Walker will permit himself to fade out of the limelight and resume his activities as one of the seven million, as he suggests, good. But let him seek through any of the many political methods of which he is past master to attempt again a raid upon the city treasury through a pension or otherwise, or to establish himself as a vindicated martyr to a lost cause. and public opinion will quickly express itself as vehemently now as it did three years ago."

EXPECT A 20 PCT. SLASH IN RELIEF FOR TWO WEEKS

A 20 per cent reduction in the operations of the Illinois emergency relief commission for the first half of November was indicated yesterday as officials tried in vain by long distance to persuade the federal emergency relief administrators in Washington, D. C., to relax a curtailment edict. The order came through Thursday allotting $3,025,000 in federal funds to the IERC, leaving a $1,000,000 shortage on estimated needs for the first two weeks of the month.

The commission figured a week ago that only 9,000 cases would be transferred to federal works progress administration projects during November. WPA offices here, however, have been ordered to put the entire number of "employables" on relief in the state, estimated at 183,500, to work by Nov. 25.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the IERC, said that if the entire load of 183,500 were shifted as demanded by the federal government the commission might be able to take care of the remaining unemployable cases with the funds available.

Sweitzer Given Till Dec. 16 to File Quo Waranto Bill

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday granted attorneys for Robert M. Sweitzer an extension of time until Dec. 16 to file a bill of exceptions from the ruling dismissing the quo waranto suit brought by Sweitzer to regain the office of county treasurer from Joseph L. Gill, his successor.

RINGS A CURFEW ON WAUKEGAN'S MARRIAGE MILL

New Clerk Will Sell No Licenses After 5 P. M.

RUSSELL H. ALFORD.

Russell H. Alford took over the office of clerk of Lake county at Waukegan yesterday, succeeding Lew Hendee, who had held the position since 1910. Hendee's father occupied the office from 1892 to 1910. Alford is the first Democrat to hold a Lake county elective office since 1894.

Alford immediately announced that Waukegan's justices of the peace would no longer be allowed to operate the "gin wedding mill" which has been censured frequently by Cook county judges. Marriage licenses will be issued only between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. on weekdays and will not be granted Saturday afternoons and Sundays, he said.

Criticised by Judges Here.

Hendee, while he was clerk, issued the licenses at all hours of the night, it was often reported, and justices of the peace performed the marriages. As a result a number of annulment actions have been filed in the courts here, parties to the marriages asserting they did not know what they were doing.

Alford also declared that the standard fee for a marriage license would be one dollar. Hendee charged two dollars and presented the couples with an elaborate "special certificate." The former clerk has admitted receiving extra fees for issuing the licenses after office hours.

Wins After Court Fight.

Alford, who resigned yesterday as assessor of Waukegan township, was the Democratic candidate against Hendee, a Republican, in the election of Nov. 6, 1934. First returns gave Alford a lead over Hendee but the county canvassing board ruled that Hendee had won on a later count of the ballots.

Alford then brought suit in the Lake county Circuit court for a writ of mandamus to compel the canvassing board to recognize the original returns and certify him as clerk. The mandamus writ was granted and was sustained by the Illinois Appellate court. The Illinois Supreme court a week ago refused to disturb the ruling of the lower courts.

JAPANESE HONOR IS BESTOWED ON DEAN WIGMORE

Dean Emeritus John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school was given the Japanese Order of the Sacred Treasure by Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, at a dinner of the Japan-America society last evening at the Army and Navy club, 850 Lake Shore drive.

In conferring the order, Ambassador Saito commented on Dean Wigmore's contributions to Japanese culture through his studies on the classic laws of that country. Dean Wigmore was professor of Anglo-American law at Keio university for three years before coming to Northwestern and recently spent six months in Japan as the guest of the government.

Speakers Stress Understanding.

The growing understanding between the two countries was the theme of both Japanese and American speakers, who included, beside Ambassador Saito and Dean Wigmore, Charles H. Chandler, president of the Japan-America society; Count Aisuke Kabayama, vice president of the America-Japan society of Tokio; Baron Ino Dan, director of the Society for International Cultural Relations; Herbert M. Lautmann, president of the Chicago Bar association; Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, vice president of the Japan-America society, and Charles G. Dawes, who was toastmaster.

Colorful Gathering of 400.

Pine boughs, symbolic of friendship, and flags of the two countries flanked the speakers' table, and brilliant kimonos worn by some of the Japanese guests lent color to the audience of 400. At the reception preceding dinner Mme. Saito, Baroness Dan, and Mrs. Wigmore were in the receiving line with their husbands.

At noon yesterday Count Kabayama addressed a meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House. He defended his country's interests in Manchukuo.

"One should not criticize a thing as a whole because of the nature of some of its parts," he said. "One or two local events cannot serve as a criterion for passing judgment on a national policy which may concern a generation or more to come. Formosa, annexed by Japan 40 years ago, and Corea, under Japanese administration for 30 years, have profited."

Roomer Discovered Dead; Find Stock Certificates

Frank Sorrells, 60 years old, was found dead in his room at 5342 Blackstone avenue last night by his landlady, Mrs. Catherine O'Gara. In the room were stock certificates with a face value of $4,000 but a market value of far less than that, the police said.

COOL WEATHER AND FAIR SKIES IN SIGHT TODAY

Fair and continued cool weather, according to the official forecast, is to prevail today in Chicago. With temperate winds off Lake Michigan blowing over the city, it is not expected that the mercury will fall below the freezing point, however. The forecast indicated that tomorrow would be cloudy and cool.

The lowest temperature yesterday was 35 degrees at 8:40 a. m., a great contrast to the 78.4 degree maximum on Thursday, which set an all-time fall heat record here.

ARTISTS TO BEGIN DAUBING FEDERAL CASH NEXT WEEK

WPA Supplies $75,000 for Brush and Chisel.

The federal government's entry into the field of painting and sculpture will begin in Chicago next week with the creation of a large art center in which 114 artists will wield their brushes and chisels. From this center numerous art projects, all financed by federal Works Progress administration funds, will blossom.

The national WPA allocation for art is $1,152,663, although Illinois' share has not been set, $75,000 has been released for the center.

Mrs. Increase Robinson, WPA art director for Illinois and regional director for Illinois, Minnesota, and the Dakotas, announced yesterday that plans were practically complete to rent 20,000 square feet of space for her art center—the entire ninth and tenth floors of the Kesner building at 433 East Erie street.

Expect Approval Monday.

The headquarters staf of 114 artists will do their work there, where an inspirational view of Lake Michigan is afforded, Mrs. Robinson said. Final approval of the renting is expected from the treasury department at Washington by Monday morning.

During the last two days artists have been enrolled in the gymnasium on the second floor of the Garfield park administration building. The move to the lake shore will come none too soon, it was said, because there has been grumbling among the west side policemen who previously used the room for handball and other athletic pursuits.

According to Mrs. Robinson, the government artists will start first with project markers and safety posters, then branch into dioramas for the Chicago public library, its branches, and other institutions. The public will be allowed to view the work at certain hours.

Pay from $85 to $94 a Month.

The artists will be rated in two classes. The best ones in Chicago will draw $94 a month and those with a lower rating $85, Mrs. Robinson said. At least 90 per cent must be drawn from the relief rolls.

Another art project scheduled to start next week will be at the University of Illinois medical unit. Walls will be adorned with murals at a cost of $16,482 to the federal government. A similar project will start next week at the Elgin State hospital where murals, with a bit of sculpture thrown in, will cost Uncle Sam $5,400. Each of the projects will employ 12 artists.

Mrs. Robinson had a portfolio stuffed with art proposals of a wide variety, but she disclosed only one of them. This was for a mural painting to grace the walls of the bureau of water, city department of public works.

Objects of the Program.

President Roosevelt's letter directing the $1,152,663 expenditure for art proposed projects as follows: Mural and easel painting, sculpture, paint preparing, plastering, fresco preparing, scaffold building and picture framing, posters, work in metals, in wrought iron, in silver, lether work, pottery, weaving and basketry, museum work, lectures and criticisms, and the training of art teachers and rehabilitation of art teachers who have long been unemployed.

Harold F. McCormick Due to Quit Hospital in Week

Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company, will leave St. Luke's hospital in a few days or a week, depending upon his own wishes, according to his physician, Dr. S. W. McArthur. An operation was performed upon a small hernia ten days ago and Mr. McCormick's progress since that time has been "fine," the physician said yesterday.

Mrs. Roosevelt Pleads for Peace

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke on "The Way of Peace" in opening the Blackstone lecture series at the Blackstone hotel last evening. She was introduced by Gov. Horner.

MAKING A PARK SOME FUN FOR THE TAXPAYER

Benevolent New Deal Pays Workers' Fares.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Five days each week a special train departs from the Mount Vernon station for Bear Mountain park carrying 1,000 commuters. About the same time another train, carrying another 1,000, departs from Yonkers, and some time next week a third Bear Mountain special is to be added to the service.

The commuters on these specials return home from their labors at nightfall like other commuters, catching a regular train with the same accommodations. There is, in fact, little difference in their manner of arriving and departing for work except that they do not bother to purchase a commutation ticket. They travel to and fro and Uncle Sam pays the fares. They are workers for the PWA.

Four Millions Not Enough.

Approximately $4,000,000 has been allotted for the improvement of the 68,000 acres composing Bear Mountain park and 5,000 workers are toiling to make it a woods lover's Utopia and a bridle path enthusiast's dream. When the $4,000,000 is spent, there is more where that came from. The sum will not be adequate for the elaborate program under way.

If present plans are carried out the work relief officials will be able to keep an average of 5,000 men there for at least a year longer, by which time the acreage should be dressed up considerably.

Makes Great Show.

In the minds of the project originators, whose task it is to think up ways to spend the federal funds so that the largesse may be distributed to the greatest number, the Bear Mountain venture is a "natural." Critics are asking where else could one find 68,000 acres so near the metropolitan area in which to turn 5,000 loose. And some fun for the taxpayer.

The improvements now under way include a dam. When the dam is finished it will back up a stream and form a lake. Later other dams will be built and other lakes made. The lakes will be stocked with fish.

AGREE ON TERMS FOR UNIFICATION OF N. Y. 'L'-SUBWAY SYSTEM

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—An agreement between the city and the Rapid Transit companies leading to unification of the city's subways in a vast comprehensive system was completed today as the culmination of years of negotiations. Samuel Seabury, special counsel in transit matters, confirmed the completion of the negotiations.

Although every effort was made to guard the figures of purchase, at least temporarily, it was learned that the price for the three lines will be approximately 415 million dollars. The price for the I. R. T. and Manhattan elevated will be 230 millions in round figures and that for the B. M. T. 185 millions.

When the agreement is approved by the board of estimate it must be placed before the transit commissions which will hold hearings. This may take six months.

STATE RECEIVES BIDS ON $1,129,000 ROAD PROJECTS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Bids for proposed highway improvements to cost $1,129,915 were received today by the state division of highways.

The bids were on nine projects for the construction of 12.76 miles of pavement, 10.87 miles of grading and three bridge sections.

The projects and apparent low bids, subject to final checking, were announced by Ernest Lieberman, chief chief highway engineer. Projects in the Chicago area are:

ROUTE 19—1.58 miles of paving on Northwest highway from Ardmore avenue to Milwaukee avenue, Chicago; Contracting and Material company, Chicago, $172,697.

ROUTE 22—4.89 miles of paving from the north limits of Aurora to the south limits of Batavia, Kane county; Geneva Construction company, Aurora, $421,669.

ROUTE 59—5.19 miles of grading from Wauconda south to route 22 in Lake county; S. J. Groves & Sons company, Libertyville, $175,603.

MRS. ROOSEVELT OPENS CHICAGO LECTURE SERIES

Urges Governments Buy Munitions Plants.

Control of the munitions business by the government is one of the prerequisites to world peace, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told an audience at the Blackstone hotel last night. Opening the Blackstone lecture series, Mrs. Roosevelt spoke on "The Way to Peace."

"The nations of the world could buy out the munitions makers and make their business of war supplies a government business only," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "Then we might get somewhere on disarmament conferences but until then we are very unlikely to accomplish anything. It would really be a good investment, costly though it might be at first, but in the end the taxpayers have to pay the bill in any case, and the bill might come down under government ownership."

Chance for Personal Gain.

She said "that as long as there is a chance for personal gain in this business of war supplies, somehow or other, we will be buying them whether we make war or whether we stay at peace."

War, Mrs. Roosevelt added, has long been recognized as the best way to get rid of surplus population. "Famine and floods," she said, "have helped in certain parts of the world where populations have increased too rapidly but these are not the countries which give bonuses for big families."

Discussing organized movements for peace, Mrs. Roosevelt contended that women have done their part and it is now time for the men to join. She warned that some women's groups injure the cause of peace "because they believe facts are what they want them to be and not what they really are."

Tribute to Jane Addams.

After an introduction by Gov. Horner, Mrs. Roosevelt prefaced her talk with a tribute to the late Jane Addams. The opening of her talk was interrupted briefly when a photographer's bulb exploded, but she laughed and went on speaking. Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Washington, D. C., and after a five hour stay took a train for Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

While riding in a taxicab to meet Mrs. Roosevelt yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, 7420 Yates avenue, Democratic national committeewoman for Illinois, was bruised severely and shaken in an accident in Jackson boulevard near Michigan avenue. Mrs. Conkey, the only passenger in the cab, was thrown violently forward, striking her head on the back of the front seat. She was treated by a physician and was unable to meet Mrs. Roosevelt at the Grand Central station.

Neighbor Slays Another 'Borrowing' Electricity

Eskew King, colored, 33 years old, 24 East 30th street, failed to pay his electric light bill and the service was cut off. Yesterday, to remedy the situation, he climbed on his roof and started to splice a wire to the feed line of his neighbor on the west, John Crockett, colored, 32 years old. Crockett, resenting this action, emerged from his home with a pistol and fired at King, killing him. The police arrested Crockett.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A city official today threw the spotlight again upon the controversy between home owners in the Sunnyside Gardens, L. I., development, and the City Housing corporation, in which President Roosevelt, his mother and wife are interested financially.

J. Charles Laue, secretary of the board of taxes and assessments under appointment of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, was found in contempt of court for refusing to remove a sign from the window of his Sunnyside Gardens home. Mr. Laue is one of 200 home buyers who are being sued in foreclosure proceedings for failure to pay interest on their mortgages.

Sign in Window.

Mr. Laue pasted a sign to a window reading:

"Under foreclosure. If you rent an apartment you help to put me out."

Without Laue's presence in court Justice Thomas J. Cuff of Jamaica issued an order fining him $100 for contempt and giving him 24 hours to remove the sign. The order was served on Laue in his office in the Municipal building this afternoon. He immediately announced that he would not obey the order.

"I will refuse to remove the sign, nor will I pay any fine," Mr. Laue said. "I expect to be sent to jail. In fact I am willing to go to jail if it will help 500 buyers of homes in Sunnyside area win their fight for justice and a square deal."

Owners Charge Fraud.

Mr. Laue is president of the Home Owners' association and is leading in combatting the legal efforts of the City Housing corporation to enforce 6 per cent interest provisions and the payment of second mortgages as due. The home owners contend that there is really no value in the second mortgage, that they would be charged twice what it cost to erect their houses and that they were induced to make their purchases through fraud and misrepresentation.

For three years, they have been contending for an adjustment on their mortgages and have taken their battle to President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt without avail. Meantime, the company has carried two foreclosure proceedings to the final stages, and 14 others are coming for final disposition next week. Mr. Laue is one of 200 taken into court, but the action against him has not reached the final stages.

Roosevelts Spurn Pleas.

"We are doing everything possible to save our homes and to get a fair adjustment of our mortgages," Mr. Laue said, "but our pleas to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt have availed us nothing. The President is trustee for his mother in holding $15,000 of bonds. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, holds $1,000 in stock. At the time of the sale of the homes, she was a member of the board of governors of the City Housing corporation. She is now a member of the advisory board."

Among other holders of bonds or stock are John D. Rockefeller Jr., listed for $150,000; Felix Warburg, $50,000; Lehman Brothers, $25,000; E. S. Harkness, $100,000; Russell Sage Foundation, $250,000, and Ogden L. Mills, $30,000.

The home owners are planning a massmeeting for Sunday night, when further steps in their legal battle will be decided.

It's the New NEVA-WET Method

Here's a new process that makes it possible to shake most of the water out of your fur coat when you're caught in a shower or a snow storm. It doesn't make a raincoat of your fur coat, but it does repel water and goes far toward preventing matting, lack of lustre and sogginess.

Arrangements have been made to have some of the fur coats in our stock Neva-Wet processed. Coats not already processed can, upon request, be treated within a few days.

Coats now in our storage vaults, or in our possession for alteration or renovation, may also be processed. The charge for this service is very moderate.

While the grand jury was indicting one village president yesterday in the course of its investigation of vice and gambling in the western suburbs, the Dev-Lin, luxurious gambling resort in the hamlet of Tessville, reopened its doors to several hundred horse players.

The reputed owner of the Dev-Lin is Bill Johnson, gambler and close friend of Sherif John Toman. Several times in the last three months the sherif's county highway police, headed by Chief Lester Laird, have announced that the resort, near the intersection of Devon and Lincoln avenues, had been "closed for good." Each time it has resumed business after a short time.

One Man Police Force Busy.

Henry Proesel, village president of Tessville, and his one man police force, Chief Lorenz Schey, have contended that Schey has been too busy tracking down criminals among the scattered houses which constitute Tessville to notice the hundreds of automobiles which are parked day and night at the gambling resort. William Milota, assistant sherif, was notified yesterday afternoon that the Dev-Lin was open once more.

"I'll raid it tonight," he said.

Darkness fell, however, without an appearance by the raiders. The roulette, craps, and chuck-a-luck games which formerly were operated in the place have not been set up as yet, and after the horse betters finished their day business stopped. The Dev-Lin's windows were dark at 8 p. m. and Raider Milota and his men were still somewhere down the road.

Stickney Mayor Indicted.

The suburban official indicted yesterday was William C. Loeffler, president of the Stickney village board. He was charged with misconduct and malfeasance in public office. The indictment was returned a few hours after Loeffler, subpenaed by the grand jury, had refused to sign an immunity waiver and testify.

The principal witness heard yesterday by the jury was Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police. He is reported to have testified that Loeffler had dismissed Louis Marek, Stickney police chief, after Marek began raiding disorderly houses in the suburb and confiscating slot machines on orders from the state's attorney. Another witness was Assistant State's Attorney William J. Lancaster.

Lieut. Kelly, it is understood, also described twenty-five raids made by his men on Stickney resorts during the last eighteen months. The six village trustees and four policemen from Stickney had been heard previously by the jurors.

Cite Other "Bad Conditions."

In a supplemental report to Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court the jurors reported that their investigations had disclosed " a bad condition of lawlessness in the outlying villages and towns of Cook county."

They reported that they had discovered no "official criminality" in connection with vice and gambling in Cicero, but suggested that closer attention to business by the officials of that town would result in stamping out the lawless conditions existing there.

New Trial Is Ordered by Appellate Judge.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Holding that the jurors were permitted to hear too much irrevelant testimony the Appellate division today unanimously reversed a verdict awarding $25,000 to Mrs. Wilma Gould against her brother-in-law, Norman J. Gould of Syracuse, and others, and ordered a new trial.

Mrs. Gould brought suit for conspiracy last March, asking $500,000 damages. An eleven man jury before Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer awarded her $25,000 after she had testified how the bogus prince Mike Romanoff, among others, had been hired to "frame" her.

In handing down its opinion today the higher court said that "the large sum allowed as damages in this case may be accounted for only by the fact that the jury was influenced by incompetent evidence admitted during the trial."

Mrs. Gould is the estranged wife of the former head of the Seneca Falls Pump company. She insisted that she was "framed" so that her husband, Edward B. Gould, might obtain an absolute divorce. The testimony was enlivened considerably by details of an alleged frameup four years ago when the versatile Prince Mike had the rôle of co-respondent.

CITY BOLSTERS COURT FIGHT ON 'TOBACCO ROAD'

The city took another step yesterday in its fight to keep the play "Tobacco Road" closed. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes filed a brief with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the city's appeal from a temporary injunction issued by Federal Judge William H. Holly restraining Mayor Kelly and other city officials from interfering with the play or the Selwyn theater. The theater was made a co-plaintif with the producers of "Tobacco Road" and was ordered to fulfill its contract, even though its city license has been revoked.

The city's brief charges the play "is a shocking spectacle of degenerate exhibitionism from beginnning to end, abounding in foul, profane, and blasphemous language."

Judge Evan Evans of the Appeals court, held Wednesday in issuing a writ of supersedeas, that "where it is a question of public morals on the one side and dollars and cents on the other, we cannot decide in favor of dollars and cents."

The court will hear arguments on the appeal Monday.

SENTENCE WOMAN WEAPON TOTER.

Rosetta Levy, colored, 26 years old, 2206 North Austin avenue, was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell by Judge George B. Weiss in the Woman's court yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

DOUGHERTY ACTS TODAY ON RAPE CASE LENIENCY

Opens Quiz on Fines for "Disorderly Conduct."

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty was assigned yesterday to "take proper action" in the case of five men who kept two young girls prisoners in a Morton Grove farmhouse for a week, raped one of the girls, and after their arrest were allowed to plead guilty to disorderly conduct charges and receive a light penalty. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley directed Dougherty to ask indictments for rape if the evidence warrants that charge.

Mr. Dougherty said he would ask the juvenile authorities to have the two girls—one 15 years old and the other 16 years old—in his office this morning. Other witnesses also will be on hand. The girls are from Madison, Wis., and were hitch-hiking when on Oct. 23 they were picked up by Sam Favato, 19 years old, 2215 Lake street, Melrose Park, and Salvatore Cioffa, 24 years old of Maywood, who took them to the farmhouse where Heward Taylor, 43 years old, was caretaker.

Two Others are Visitors.

Rocco Sarle, 23 years old, 134 North 2d avenue, Melrose Park and Vito Spiezo, 20 years old, 1015 North 24th avenue, Melrose Park, were visitors at the farmhouse.

Mr. Crowley said Assistant State's Attorney William Rotchford, who appeared before Justice of the Peace Benjamin Babcock of Morton Grove at the trial of the five men and suggested leniency, told him only one of the girls had been raped. Rotchford said he agreed to let the men plead guilty only to disorderly conduct on the recommendation of Miss Marie Bell, representative of the Juvenile court, according to Crowley.

Her Version Differs.

When she was asked yesterday if she had made any recommendation, Miss Bell referred the questioner to Harry Hill, chief probation officer of the juvenile court. Mr. Hill said Miss Bell had suggested that warants be issued charging the men with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

He said Miss Bell was ready to sign warrants charging the five men with rape, although such a duty should not be imposed upon her as she was merely the custodian of the two girls.

Justice of the Peace Babcock and the prosecutor, before the case was disposed of gave her the impression they thought the best procedure would be to hold the five men to the grand jury on a charge of contributing to the girls' delinquency, Hill said Miss Bell reported, and she and the two girls left the court with the understanding that such would be the disposition.

Way Open to Prosecution.

Afterward, the record showed, Justice Babcock fined the prisoners $60 each after their guilty pleas, with the understanding they were to work out the fines. Mr. Dougherty said the fine for disorderly conduct would not be a bar to further prosecution.

Alex Giese, 18 years old, 1919 North Harding avenue, and John Meseth, 20 years old, 4528 Altgeld street, were held by Shakespeare avenue police yesterday on a charge of rape preferred by the father of a 15 year old girl.

URGES CONSTITUTION BE MADE SUBJECT OF TEACHING IN SCHOOLS

Agitation to change or nullify provisions of the Constitution of the United States comes principally from aliens, Samuel W. Hastings, chairman of the board of the International Business Machine corporation, declared last night in a Citizenship day address before the Americanization commission of Lake county.

Mr. Hastings presented an illuminated framed copy of the constitution to the Deerfield-Shields school, where he was speaking, with the request that the students be asked to read it, and be taught to appreciate it.

"We, the mature citizenry, have the job of seeing to it that the rising generation knows what the Constitution is," he said. "We must educate them in regard to it, and that education must begin here in the public schools. When our children appreciate the Constitution, the propaganda of alien-minded reactionaires will fall upon deaf ears."

County Board Group Votes to Build 2 Police Stations

The public service committee of the county board voted yesterday to recommend construction of new county highway police stations at Homewood and Willow Springs. The recommendation will be considered by the board at its meeting Monday and, if approved, as expected, County Architect Eric Hall will draw plans for the stations. Each station is expected to cost $15,000. The county plans to have the Homewood station constructed this year and the Willow Springs station next year.

Lieut. Col. Paul W. Baade Transferred to Capital

Lieut. Col. Paul W. Baade of the Sixth Corps area at Chicago has been transferred to the war department general staf at Washington, D. C., it was announced yesterday. Lieut. Col. Baade was assigned to the Sixth corps three months ago from Fort Benning, Ga.

CITY LOSES SUIT FOR $4,165,927 TO SANITARY BOARD

Municipal Judge John J. Rooney entered a judgment of $4,165,927 yesterday in favor of the sanitary district against the city for electricity furnished by the district in the period from 1928 to 1934. The judgment includes $600,000 in accrued interest.

Previously the sanitary district has gained four similar judgments totaling $4,309,303, including interest, for electricity furnished the city in the years from 1925 to 1928. These judgments were unpaid and the total due the district is now $8,475,230. This amount will be raised by the city through a special judgment levy authorized by the state legislature.

The debts were incurred by the city under the administration of a former Republican mayor, who used the money allotted for the sanitary district for other purposes.

Woman Is Bound in Home by Bandits; Robbed of $84

Mrs. Ethel Meinhert, 37 years old, was bound by two robbers yesterday in her home at 5021 Cottage Grove avenue and was compelled, under threats of the men to burn her feet, to disclose where she had hidden $84. Taking the money the pair fled. Mrs. Meinhert said they entered her home by posing as repair men for a utility company.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone Prepares for Retirement

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone today said sadly that he was facing the beginning of the hardest campaign of his career, the knowledge that automatic retirement at the age of 64 years is around the corner during the year to come. "I have lived so many places, and have so many friends in them I cannot decide where to live," he said.

GEORGIA LAWYER ASKS BAR QUIZ OF LIBERTY LEAGUE

Identity Is Revealed by Association Chief.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Carl N. Davie, an attorney of Atlanta, Ga., was revealed today as the "complainant" in the American Bar association's investigation of the committee of lawyers sponsored by the American Liberty league in fighting New Deal legislation.

This disclosure was made by William L. Ransom, president of the association, in a statement given out from his Wall street office late this afternoon.

Mr. Davie has been a member of the American Bar association since 1923.

Mr. Davie authorized today the following statement as to his relation to the matter:

"I have not been and am not now in any way connected with the New Deal or the present administration. I am at present engaged in litigation against the government, including two suits attacking the constitutionality of a so-called New Deal act."

A dispatch from Atlanta says that Mr. Davie is an "active" Democrat.

Explains His Motives.

Atlanta Ga., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Carl N. Davie, Atlanta attorney, said today he had requested "public or private censure or expulsion" from the American Bar association of the 58 members of the national lawyers' committee sponsored by the American Liberty league. He said:

"I wrote the bar association's committee and charged that this 'free lawyer' service constitutes an officious intermeddling in litigation that in no way belongs to them."

Davie said he acted under the bar association's canon of professional ethics which provides "it is unprofessional for a lawyer to volunteer advice to bring a law suit, except in rare cases where ties of blood relationship or trust make it his duty to do so."

"The motive prompting this effort is due to my conviction that if such conduct on the part of any attorney is subject to censure, and that if the lawyers whose names I have listed [the committee members] engaged therein, then they should be dealt with most vigorously and more severely than the lesser lights of the profession," Davie's letter said.

He added they should be given the opportunity "to deny the charges or defend themselves."

May Furnish Free Law Service.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Free law service may be launched soon by the American Liberty league's committee of 58 lawyers despite the impending investigation of the committee by the American Bar association, the league announced today.

The league's executive committee today instructed its lawyers' committee to look into an appeal from the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' union No. 536, of York, Pa. The union claims that it is unable to hire lawyers to defend an alleged invasion of its constitutional rights of peaceful assemblage.

Local police, led by the mayor, have broken up meetings of the union, according to the appeal.

An offer to defend any person unable to hire counsel to fight invasion of his constitutional rights has been extended by the committee.

Asks Jones if He Uses U. S. Funds to Muzzle Editors

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—James Hammond, publisher of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, asked Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, in a telegram today "whether through you the American government is going to muzzle editors and publishers by use of public funds."

Col. Hammond referred to the sale of bonds of the Tennessee Publishing company, Nashville, publishers of the Nashville Tennessean, by the RFC to Paul Davis, president of the American National bank of Nashville, and a brother of Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's "ambassador at large."

Hammond had sought to buy the bonds from the liquidator of the Canal Bank and Trust company, New Orleans, early last summer, offering $200,000. The RFC announced this week that the bonds had been sold to Davis for par, $250,000.

Sale Facts Obscured.

Hammond charged that facts of the sale "have been obscured," declaring:

"The RFC has used funds of the United States government to finance the purchase of a newspaper.

"Until the bonds are paid for, if they ever are paid for, the United States government is in the newspaper business."

"If it is to be assumed that the bonds will be paid for by the designated purchaser," Hammond said, "the RFC through domination of his bank will be in a position to dictate the policies of his newspaper."

Hammond declared that his offer to purchase last May was rejected "without explanation"; that the RFC purchased the bonds Sept. 20, but that the purchase was denied by the RFC from Sept. 20 until Oct. 8.

Exposed by Court.

"On Oct. 8," he continued, "when your spokesman in Washington was confronted with a Louisiana court order which exposed the deal, you announced by telephone from Texas that the deal had in fact taken place and that the board of directors of the RFC had authorized sale of the bonds to Paul M. Davis. . . ."

Hammond said at that time the spokesman said Davis agreed to pay $200,000, "but now you tell us that Mr. Davis is going to pay $250,000 for the bonds."

"You do not tell us," he said, "why the RFC, which was organized as a lending agency for the purchase of capital assets of banks in distress, should take the cash of the United States and invest it in newspaper properties. You do not tell us by what authority this was done.

Refuses to Answer Question.

"You have never answered my inquiries concerning the ownership of the Knoxville, Tenn., Journal, which property is held by the Canal Bank and Trust company. Am I to assume that your failure to give me an answer means that you want to dominate this newspaper as well as the Nashville Tennessean?

"The American Press and the American people have a right to know whether through you the American government is going to muzzle editors and publishers by use of public funds."

FRED C. HANKEL, MUSICIAN, ASKS SONS' CUSTODY

Fred C. Hankel, orchestra leader, whose affections were valued at $100,000 in an unsuccessful alienation suit brought recently by his estranged wife, Mrs. Olive Hankel, 1600 Albion avenue, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge Finnegan to seek custody of his two sons, Robert, 12 years old, and Fred Jr., 10, and to show why he should not be held in contempt for being $589 in arrears in support money.

Hankel charged yesterday that his wife, who has a separate maintenance suit pending against him, is not a "fit mother" to care for the boys. Referring to a voluminous notebook, he testified that for the last six months he has been trailing his wife three nights a week and on several occasions had found her in the company of other men.

In her alienation suit Mrs. Hankel named Mrs. Gertrude Reich Walker, estranged wife of Wirt D. Walker, vice president of the Arcady Farms Milling company. The court directed the jury to return a not guilty verdict.

HADLEY FATHERS '35 DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Berwyn Citizens Sign Blast at New Deal Rule.

"A new declaration of independence," demanding the overthrow of "the tyrannical government of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his bolshevistic advisers" was promulgated last night by Charles W. Hadley in an address before a meeting of Republicans at 6709 West 26th street, Berwyn.

As Mr. Hadley, former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and former state's attorney of Du Page county, closed his address, he suggested to his listeners that they sign the new declaration. More than one hundred members of the audience immediately advanced to the speaking platform and signed.

Text of New Declaration.

The declaration in which they concurred in criticism of the Washington administration's policies read:

"When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for a people to drive out of office the political band which has repudiated the constitution and seized tyrannical power, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to that decision.

"The history of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all leading to the establishment of an absolute tyranny over the United States. To prove this let facts be submitted to a candid world.

"He has brought pressure to bear on governors of the states to make them pass laws such as the state NRA and levy taxes that destroyed the independence of the people.

Assails Burocracy.

"He has erected a multitude of new offices and filled them with swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

"He has combined with others to subject our business, industry, and agriculture to jurisdictions foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws.

". . . For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world.

"For imposing taxes on us without our consent.

"For depriving us in many cases of the benefit of trial by jury.

"For nullifying some of our most valuable laws and altering fundamentally the forms of government.

"For recognizing Russia, a foreign government under which plots for the overthrow of the United States are being continually formed.

And a Slap at the AAA.

"For destroying large quantities of food and raising the price of what is left until it has become well nigh impossible for the great majority of the people to buy what they desperately need.

"Therefore, we, the undersigned citizens of the United States of America, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do declare that the United States of America ought to be freed of the tyrannical government of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his bolshevistic advisers. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

POTATO QUOTA IN '36 SET AT 226½ MILLION BUSHELS

All Over to Be Taxed Under Control Law.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Moving toward enforcement of the controverted potato control law, Secretary Wallace today announced a tax exempt allotment of 226 million 600 thousand bushels for 1936.

All potatoes harvested after Dec. 1 and sold in excess of that quantity will be subject to a tax of approximately 45 cents a bushel. The AAA estimated the 1936 production at 350 to 355 million bushels, and said that in the past 64 to 65 per cent of the crop has been marketed.

This allotment, the AAA contended, would tend to give next year's crop a purchasing power equal to that of the period 1919 to 1929.

Little Tax to Be Paid.

At the same time, however, an official said that if the crop next year is about the size estimated, then the allotment will permit movement of nearly all of the commercial crop to market without the tax. Tax exemptions stamps must be placed on all packages of potatoes sold.

Loud protests already have resounded against the law. Open predictions of defiance and potato bootlegging have been made. At one time Wallace said he would do everything possible to keep from enforcing the law, but at a potato growers' hearing the very next day the protests against this stand were so vociferous that he retracted.

Wallace also announced today state allotments totaling 222 million 68 thousand bushels, leaving a 2 per cent reserve of 4 million 532 thousand bushels to be used in correcting inequalities in the state quotas.

Based on Previous Figures.

The tax exemption allotment, the AAA said, was based on acreage, production and sales records of the various states.

The law provides for an increase or decrease of 5 per cent in the national allotment to meet changes in demand or supply conditions.

Total production last year was 385 million 421 thousand bushels, and the average farm price was 46.9 cents per bushel. A crop of 366 million bushels was forecast for this year with the average price as at present, 46.1 cents per bushel. In 1933, when the crop was 320 million 203 thousand bushels, the average farm price was 82.3 cents, an increase from the average price of 39.5 cents in 1932. The price in 1929 was 131.5 cents a bushel.

Maine received the largest state allotment, 32,799,000 bushels; New York was second with 18,321,00 and Idaho third at 16,833,000.

Other quotas of more than 10 million bushels went to Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado and Virginia.

CHOICE OF FOE AS LABOR DELEGATE IRKS NEW DEAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Designation by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, of W. L. Hutcheson, outspoken anti-New Dealer, and head of the Hoover labor committee in the last campaign as labor delegate to the forthcoming international labor organization conference in Chile in December is "offensive to President Roosevelt" and "shocking" to Secretary Perkins, it was learned today.

The transmission of Mr. Hutcheson's name to Secretary Perkins is proving a source of great embarrassment to the Roosevelt administration, as nominations by the American Federation of Labor for labor representative at ILO gatherings is usually tantamount to formal appointment by the President.

The name of Mr. Hutcheson, it was learned today, was presented by Mr. Green to the members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in Atlantic City on Oct. 21 and his suggestion was unanimously approved. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was absent.

NAMES TWO MEN AS BANKRUPTCY FEE SOLICITORS

Witness Tells Court of Paying $5,000.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered subpenas issued for James H. Benjamin, 134 North La Salle street, and Attorney Walter V. Fackler, 33 North La Salle street, after hearing a witness testify that they solicited and received $5,000 from him as filing fees for bankruptcy petitions under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act.

Both men are to appear before Judge Barnes next Thursday morning. The judge also directed the witness, Edwin Carl Roth, 30 years old, a salesman for the Roth-Adam Fuel company, 3300 Belmont avenue, to produce canceled checks showing payments to both.

Names Third Solicitor.

The last solicitation made—for $500—involved a third man, Roth testified. He declared that at Benjamin's suggestion he gave a check for that amount to a man introduced to him as E. J. Costello, who said that he had done investigation work for the congressional committee investigating real estate receiverships which is headed by Congressman A. J. Sabath.

Roth's testimony was given in Judge Barnes' investigation of the filing of 77-B petitions in which Attorney Barratt O'Hara, organizer of the Circle of Rebuilders, has been the principal witness. O'Hara also testified yesterday, producing several powers of attorneys and lists of bondholders gathered by his organization. He was given another week to present additional data, including records showing receipts and disbursements of the Rebuilders.

Sales of Coal Promised.

Roth, the principal witness of the day, declared that Benjamin induced him to part with the $5,000 on the representation that "the court" would return the money to him and that he, Benjamin, was slated to be trustee for a number of buildings and "you can sell all the coal you want."

None of his money has been paid back nor has he sold any coal as the result of his investment, Roth said.

Roth met Benjamin last January or February through a friend, he related, and went to dinner at Benjamin's home at 3520 Sheridan road. A week later, Roth and his wife "were dined royally" at Benjamin's home, he said, and soon afterward Roth made his first "investment," giving a check for either $1,100 or $1,400—he couldn't remember the exact sum. At Benjamin's suggestion the check was made out to Attorney Fackler, Roth said.

Benjamin promised him then, the coal salesman declared, that he would have his money back within three or four months. He said he was given a list of buildings which were to be placed in bankruptcy under 77-B—at a fee of $500 each—with his money. They included, he said, the Adams-Franklin building and the Pearson, St. Clair, Eastgate, and Washington hotels.

Another Check for $1,000.

Later Roth turned over another check for $1,000 made out to and later endorsed by Benjamin, he declared. The other payments followed.

"I went back after my money fifteen or twenty times," Roth testified, under questioning by Attorney James C. Leaton, friend of the court in the investigation, "but Benjamin told me he couldn't give it to me right then but would as soon as the cases were disposed of."

"He told me to keep quiet," Roth added, "and that soon I would meet somebody who would give me coal contracts. I said that I didn't want to meet anybody, I wanted my money. I went to his office the last time about three weeks ago and he said he'd have it for me in two weeks. That period expired last Saturday."

Another witness, Attorney Albert Lengeluttig, testified that he obtained six 77-B cases through Benjamin and Fackler with the understanding that Fackler would get one-third of the fees. Lengeluttig later dropped all of the cases, he declared. He also told of contributing $25 for a box at a testimonial dinner given for O'Hara at the Auditorium hotel last April 25.

Benjamin was identified at a hearing before Judge Barnes Thursday as an analyst for real estate reorganizations who helped in the drafting of the 77-B section when it was before congress.

VICTIM OF GAS REVIVED.

A fire department rescue squad yesterday revived Gustave Neuberg, 53 years old, after neighbors found him unconscious in his basement apartment at 6030 Sheridan road. In his mouth was a rubber hose which was attached to an open gas jet.

LAFFOON'S BOLT STIRS FEUDS IN KENTUCKY VOTE

Supports Republican for Governor.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Kentucky's governorship battle which ends at the polls Tuesday is raging with new bitterness from the public bolting by Gov. Ruby Laffoon, Democrat, from A. B. [Happy] Chandler, the Democratic nominee. Strife rides the Democratic party. Judge King Swope of Lexington, Republican nominee, is redoubling his attacks upon Chandler, while tomorrow and Monday Senator Alben W. Barkley and ex-Gov. J. C. W. Beckham are to appear in nine cities in behalf of Chandler. Not in years has Kentucky been torn with a more intense political struggle.

Feuds Still Blazing.

Feuds engendered among the Democrats by the run-off primary of Sept. 7 are still blazing. In that primary Chandler, who is lieutenant governor, ran against Thomas S. Rhea, the Laffoon choice, and each side hurled against the other charges of election corruption, ballot box stuffing, the moving of truckloads of voters from one precinct to another.

One phase was the sending of state troops into Harlan county by the governor for primary day, following the assassination of Elmon Middleton, county attorney, a few days before as an outcome of a war against slot machine racketeers. Some political camps tried to capitalize the slaying, and the sores and animosities are unhealed. Whether enough Laffoon-Rhea Democrats will bolt Chandler to swing the election to Judge Swope will be decided Tuesday.

Democrats Most Confident.

Republican headquarters says Swope has a better than even chance of winning. Democratic headquarters says Chandler will win by 50,000 or more. On governorship Kentucky is more or less a pendulum state. It elected Edwin P. Morrow in 1919 and Flem D. Sampson in 1927, both Republicans. In 1931 Laffoon, Democrat, won for governor by 72,000. Roosevelt took the state in 1932 by 125,800.

Chandler forces are now raising the cry that to elect a Republican governor would be a black eye for President Roosevelt. Gov. Laffoon, whose defeated primary candidate, Mr. Rhea, was an original Roosevelt man and organized the state for the President in 1932, says he is for Roosevelt, but is on the platform sinking his tomahawk into Chandler, saying the results will not affect the national situation.

Judge Swope, the Republican nominee, is charging that the New Deal sent Postmaster General James A. Farley in to close the breach among the Democrats without success.

JURY REPORTS REDS RULE IN SOME UNIONS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A county grand jury which investigated recent rioting in connection with a strike of ornamental iron workers today reported it was unable to return indictments in the cases of two bystanders killed because "our citizens were afraid to make positive identifications."

The report added it had heard sufficient evidence to be convinced that "a certain group of men, many of them avowed communists, are in control of certain of our labor groups." The American Federation of Labor two days ago announced a campaign, to start here, to purge its ranks of communists.

The report commended the efforts of the mayor's arbitration board.

RUNS FOR CAR AND IS HURT.

Vito Cali, 54 years old, 2908 Parnell avenue, received hospital treatment for an injured knee yesterday after he was knocked down while running to catch a street car at 69th street and Stony Island avenue by another man who caught the car.

80% OF YOUR DRIVING IS "STOP-AND-GO"

THE average motorist runs up 80% of his mileage in short, "around town" trips ... the costliest kind of driving.

To save money you need three kinds of power in gasoline ... power to start with a minimum of choking, power to accelerate without knocking, power to run without waste.

Super-Shell, America's first truly balanced gasoline, gives you all three. Saves gasoline every hour you drive for extra mileage.

SUPER-SHELL

GEORGIA MAY BE FIRST DEMOCRAT LABORATORY IN '36

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Georgia may be the Democratic party's first testing ground in 1936 on the Roosevelt, Talmadge and Long theories of government.

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, the late Senator Huey P. Long's "share our wealth" clubs organizer, has announced that he intends to enter the Georgia presidential preferential primary—if it is held.

President Roosevelt was given an overwhelming vote in the primary in 1932 and his friends believe he will again name this state's delegation to the national convention for renomination next year.

Gov. Talmadge, critic of both the New Deal and the wealth sharer's program, is considered by some political observers as possible presidential timber—but he has kept silent on his future plans.

NEWSPAPERS CAN WIN FOR G. O. P. IN 1936, SAYS KNOX

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Newspapers and the Republican party can name a Republican president next year, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, said here today.

All the newspapers have to do is to tell the simple truth in their news columns. The party can do the campaigning, he declared.

"The people of this country will never know the debt they owe to their newspapers for their stand during the last three or four years," he said.

"The newspaper men were the only group of business men in the country—the only ones—who stood together and fought domination from Washington. If they hadn't we'd have censorship today."

KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE.

Allegan, Mich., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Glenn Cook, 45, county road engineer, was killed early today when his car crashed into a bandstand on the main street of Otsego.

WINTER-TEX COAT

A Soft Fabric That Wears Well

You have often seen fabrics so soft and luxurious that you like to stroke them with your fingers. But it is difficult to weave a fabric of that type which wears well.

In the Winter-tex Overcoat you get the combination of the two. Winter-tex is a soft, fleecy coat with a deep nap that looks and feels like the most expensive imported woolens, yet it will always give you satisfactory wear. This coat is made by the makers of the famous Worsted-tex Suit.

If you looked at Winter-tex fabric through a powerful microscope you would see only the long fibres of pure virgin wool and the long fibres of luxurious Angora. No short strands are used. You would see how these long fibres on the outer surface of the yarn intertwine and form a natural long nap that does not wear off easily.

FUTURE QUAKES PREDICTED FOR EASTERN AREAS

Expert Says to Expect Further Tremors.

At Niagara Falls the sharp shock felt around the vicinity apparently caused no damage, a close inspection disclosed. No rock slides occurred in the gorge. It has always been feared that a quake might cause tremendous slides from the faces of the falls, entirely changing their appearance.

HOW QUAKE IS "SPOTTED"

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

A few minutes after midnight yesterday morning Chicago residents who were still awake felt an earthquake shock. Milton O. Swenson, junior meteorologist in the United States weather bureau, hurried to the basement of Rosenwald hall at the University of Chicago. He took a sheet of sensitized paper from the seismograph there.

He developed the paper, examined the curves which a jiggling beam of light had marked on it, and consulted some mathematical tables. Within a few minutes he was able to say that the quake had its center approximately 475 miles from Chicago, in a northeasterly direction from the city.

Several "Reports" of One Shock.

This is the way the seismologist is enabled to read the record: In the first place, an earthquake involves only one shock, one violent slip of rock along a great crack, or fault. The subsequent temblors at the quake center are the result of local readjustments of the rock layers, and the seismograph hundreds or thousands of miles away does not record them.

But while there is but a single shock, its impulses reach the distant seismograph by varied paths and travel over those paths at different speeds. There is a first, or primary wave, which cuts across lots through the plastic interior of the earth. It follows roughly the chord of that circle on the surface of the earth which connects the earthquake center with the seismograph.

Many Lines of Reflection.

A secondary wave follows much the same path as the primary wave, but moves at a slower speed. Moreover these two waves have reflections.

The reflected waves are so called because, moving through the plastic earth center, they strike the lower edge of the earth's crust of rock and bounce back through the central mass again to reach the recording point. Since they travel farther than the wave which they reflect, they reach the recording point later than it does.

Then there is a third or longitudinal wave, the one we ordinarily feel at a distance from an earthquake. It takes the roundabout path through the relatively thin rock crust. Since it has still farther to travel than the primary and secondary and their reflected waves, it reaches the seismograph after they do, and since the rock crust is stiffer and transmits impulses with less loss of force, it hits harder when it arrives.

Principle of Mechanism.

Seismographs are of a dozen types. All, however, are set on a column of concrete extending to bedrock and insulated from the surface of the ground.

The seismograph at the University of Chicago is the Milne-Shaw type, developed by two British scientists. It consists of two identical instruments. Each of them has a steel rod, or boom, one of which is set due north and south, the other due east and west.

One end of the boom is fixed on a jeweled pivot in the concrete pillar going down to bed rock. The other is free. There is a one pound weight fixed to the boom. When an earthquake wave travels through the bedrock to the base of the pillar, it moves it slightly.

The boom sways back and forth, exactly like a pendulum, except that it moves in a horizontal plane.

Light Leaves "Jiggly" Line.

The free end of the boom is attached to a mirror. This mirror moves the boom, and as it moves, its reflection of a beam of light is moved on sensitized paper, rotated by clockwork on a drum. It is the jiggling of the light which makes the seismograph's record of the shocks.

Two instruments are necessary because a wave striking the boom endon could not move it. The first movement of the boom, magnified by the light track on the paper, indicates the side of the instrument from which the shock came. The other instrument, set at right angles to the first, gives a single record by which it is possible to discern the direction of the shock within 90 degrees, or a quadrant of the compass.

The seismologist determines the distance from the center of the quake to his instrument by observing the time interval between the arrival of the primary, secondary and longitudinal waves and the reflected waves of the first two.

Actually the interval between any two of the waves is sufficient. A table of constants, the result of years of observation and calculations, tells him how many miles away the earthquake is if its waves arrive at certain intervals. Location of the quake center from distance readings on two or more seismographs is a mere matter of geometry.

City Safe from Severe Shock.

Chicago and the middle west need fear nothing worse than a mild shaking from the quake center whose disturbance was felt here early yesterday, according to Dr. Rollin T. Chamberlin, professor of geology at the University of Chicago.

OPEN INQUIRY IN SINKING OF LAKE VESSEL IN FOG

Motorship Rams Freighter and Saves Crew.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Federal steamboat inspectors opened an inquiry late today into the first major shipwreck of the season on the Great Lakes, which sent the Norwegian freighter Viator to the bottom of Lake Huron.

Capt. C. J. Steffensen of the Viator said his 231 foot vessel, bound for Chicago with a cargo of pulp, fish, and cod liver oil, was rammed and sunk by the motorship Ormidale in a dense fog yesterday, 10 miles south of Thunder Bay Island.

Saves All 18 of Crew.

Members of both crews were instructed to appear at once before Capt. William T. Kiel and Capt. William H. Dungan, inspectors, for questioning.

Norman Petersen, chief engineer of the 983 ton Viator, suffered chest and skull injuries in the collision and was taken to Port Huron General hospital.

Petersen was asleep when the accident occurred and Capt. Steffensen said that the bow of the Ormidale "missed his bunk by an inch." The door of his cabin was broken and he was extricated with difficulty from the wreckage.

Keeps Prow in Hole.

"The Viator was struck amidship at the engines, which were flooded immediately," Capt. Steffensen related. "The Ormidale held its prow in the hole in the side of the Viator while the crew of the Viator was transferred. That was done without panic. Then the Ormidale backed out of the side and stood by until the Viator sank."

HOW TEMBLOR MOVES

The diagram shows how an earthquake travels in waves to distant parts of the world, sometimes strong enough to be felt. The first wave of shock goes speedily through the earth's interior, registering directly, though relatively lightly, on seismographs. The secondary wave goes more slowly along the same path. Primary and secondary waves which are reflected by the earth's crust begin striking the crust again, registering on seismographs, if there are any, at such points. Finally the longitudinal, or third wave, the heaviest of all, reaches a given seismograph when the earth's hard crust transmits its undissipated wave of force. The seismograph indicates the time and intensity of the shocks by means of a jiggly line. By using two instruments placed at right angles the scientist can determine fairly closely the direction from which the tremors come. From the time between the various kinds of waves he can determine the distance from his instrument.

ITALIANS READY TO STORM KEY CITY IN ETHIOPIA

Supplies Pour South for Battle at Makale.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Tenseness gripped this city today with the prospect of an Italian advance upon Makale, the next major objective of the Fascists in Ethiopia.

Eritrea's capital was filled with movement and excitement. Truck loads of troops and supplies rolled through the city on the way to Ethiopia.

Hundreds of tons of supplies went over the newly laid roads to the front. Although today was All-Saints' day, a national holiday in Italy, the movement to the front here not only continued but increased.

Evacuation of civilians in the Wardair region, on the southern front, was reported in dispatches from the forces of Gen. Rudolfo Graziani. This was ordered as a precaution against possible incidents between the inhabitnat and nomads of British Somaliland.

Scene of Tribal Pilgrimages.

Wardair lies southwest of Ualual, and about 100 miles from the British Somali frontier. The tribesmen of both regions long have been wont to wander back and forth looking for pasturage.

The season now is aproaching for the British Somalis to make their customary pilgrimage. Since Wardair is in the theater of war Graziani desired to take every possible precaution against clashes between natives from opposite sides of the border.

Able bodied Ethiopians who, after submitting to Italian rule were enrolled in the Italian native units of the northern forces were used for the first time today to track down Ethiopian raiding parties. Detachments were dispatched into the Metebai, Tabor, and Scire regions beyond Adowa by Gen. Pietro Maravigna, and first reports indicated they were successfully clearing out the raiders.

Italian Plane Downed.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The government in a communique today announced an Italian warplane either had crashed or was shot down during an air raid on Tuesday at Bourana, near Dolo in the south.

The same communique said it was quiet on other fronts. The government denied reports of battles in the north and south.

(An exchange telegraph dispatch, not confirmed from any other source, reported that it was announced unofficially in Addis Ababa that the Italian northern armies had seized the stragetic objective of Makal at dawn.)

So many thousands of fighters were marching into the capital from remote regions that the emperor today was forced to reject several thousand volunteers, because all fronts already are overmanned.

Weeping, the rejected warriors pleaded that they would feed, shelter, and arm themselves. The ruler promised to accept their services later.

RAIN SLOWS UP ITALIANS

BY SIR PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Nov. 1.—Rain again is slowing down the Italian advance in southern Ethiopia. Mussolini's troops in Ogaden are said to be experiencing difficulties with tanks and heavy transport in the soft ground.

The column along the Webbe Shibeli valley is reported to have advanced another 20 miles, but the one following the Dawa river has been checked by Ras Desta Demtu's irregulars. No further progress has been made by the right flank.

It is now believed that, as soon as dry weather is assured, Gen. Rodolfo Graziani will attempt to make an intensive push along the entire front from the Webbe Shibeli to the British Somaliland frontier.

Reinforcements are arriving at Mogadishu, Italian Somaliland, from Eritrea and Italy and huge stocks of munitions and gasoline have been disembarked. Road building continues at high speed.

Foreign Ships Barred.

No foreign ships are allowed at Mogadishu except those carrying military stores, and no foreigners are permitted to land. There is greater secrecy than ever, confirming the impression that important operations are imminent.

The little Italian consulate on the outskirts of Djibouti is uncomfortably crowded. Diplomats and consuls from Ethiopia and the local consul himself are sleeping in a narrow passage. The local consul surrendered his bedroom to Count Vinci, until recently Italian minister to Ethiopia. The drawing room has been converted into a dormitory at night for secretaries from the legation at Addis Ababa.

Vinci has received orders to go to Massaua, Eritrea, to confer with Gen. Emilio de Bono, commander of the Italian colonial forces. Friends suggest he may leave the diplomatic service temporarily and return to the army, in which he distinguished himself in several campaigns.

ITALY CLAIMS DEATH TOLL AMONG MEN IN AFRICAN WAR IS SMALL

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—An official announcement today said only one Italian officer and four Italian enlisted men have died in combat in Ethiopia, exclusive of native soldiers fighting for Italy.

The announcement said during October one officer and 27 other Italians, including several subalterns, died of illness or accident in the East African campaign. A total of 193 Italian officers and men died of various causes from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, the announcement said.

The number of workmen who died of accidents and illness during October was announced as 10, and the total number of workmen who died since Jan. 1 was stated as 198.

SAILOR WHO DIED SAVING 2 GIRLS IS CITED AS HERO

Fernald William Posselt, an enlisted man in the United States navy, who was drowned Aug. 19, 1934, when he went to the rescue of two girls caught by the undertow in Lake Michigan, received a posthumous award yesterday from the Carnegie Hero Fund commission. Officials of the commission at Pittsburgh sent a bronze hero medal to Posselt's father, Ferdinand W. Posselt, 2448 Irving Park boulevard, in recognition of his son's feat.

The girls, Dorothy Strand, 25 years old, and her sister, Bernice, 21 years old, both of 4107 North Damen avenue, had gone to the beach at Wilson avenue with Posselt and another man. The girls were caught in the undertow but with the assistance of Posselt they stayed afloat until George Bowler, a life guard, reached them. Bowler dragged the girls to shallow water and returned to get Posselt. The sailor, who was not a skilled swimmer, sank before Bowler could reach him.

Daughter Is Born in Egypt to Mrs. Robert Hockman

A cablegram yesterday informed Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hockman, 415 East Madison avenue, Wheaton, that a daughter was born on Wednesday to their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert W. Hockman, in the American Missionary hospital at Assuit, Egypt. The child's father, a physician and a former resident of Wheaton, is in charge of the Ethiopian hospital at Jijiga. Mrs. Hockman was in Addis Ababa when the conflict with Italy broke out and was removed with other women of the missionary colony.

FAMOUS EXHIBIT IS ADMITTED TO BE FAKE BY BRITISH MUSEUM

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The British museum today publicly admitted harboring a forgery for sixty-two years—the so-called Cervetri sarcophagus, long one of the most prominent and most popular exhibits in Greek and Roman galleries.

While outside the British museum the authenticity of the piece was always doubted by experts, it has only just been condemned by museum experts and its removal from public exhibition sanctioned by the trustees.

The sarcophagus was sold in fragments to Castellani, famous Roman dealer, by one Pietro Penelli, who said he had excavated it at Cervetri. The fragments were purchased with the rest of the Castellani collection by the British museum in 1873.

Franchot Tone and Bride, Joan Crawford, Visit Here

Italy Cuts Railway Service in Fight Against Sanctions

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Italy's railroads will enforce a reduction in services as a result of the nation's determination to fight sanctions with discipline. An order, effective Nov. 6, will take 47 trains off regular lines to save fuel.

KING BACKS DUCE IN HIS 'MISSION OF CIVILIZATION'

Claims War Is Necessary for Italy's Life.

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Italy's titular ruler, Victor Emmanuel, for the first time in public today backed Premier Mussolini's war in Africa.

Declaring the war is for Italy's "life, security, and future," the king appealed to foreigners to spread word of Italy's "mission of civilization."

Heretofore the king's approval of Il Duce's campaign has been tacit through his presence when Mussolini spoke and in acts supporting the campaign. He spoke at the University of the City of Rome.

Jesuits Propose Mandate.

The suggestion that Italy be given a mandate over Ethiopia was made by the Jesuit publication, Civilta Cattolica, as a possible solution of the present crisis.

The proposal was made in the November issue in an unsigned review of the book "Must War Come?" by John Epstein.

"If the league of nations judged that a mandate over Ethiopia was necessary," said the reviewer, "and Ethiopia accepted in order to aid in the effective abolition of slavery and in civil and administrative reorganization, would it not conform with justice and wisdom to confer the mandate upon Italy, which has reason and precedent to expect it, inasmuch as she has not received up to now any mandates while other nations have many of them? So may be avoided not only : European conflict, but the current colonial war."

Profiteers Are Punished.

On the economic front Italy was punishing small profiteers by having their stores closed for a period of days.

British goods were cleared from many shelves for fear of raiding students, who yesterday smashed windows and today broke one more in a store displaying English goods.

GERMANY'S EXPORTS OF COAL AND IRON TO ITALY TAKE BIG JUMP

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Coal exports from Germany to Italy increased 33⅓ per cent in the first nine months of 1935 and exports of pig iron doubled, official figures disclosed today.

The pig iron shipments jumped more than 400 per cent in the month of September over those in August from 6,700 tons to 27,000 tons.

Coal purchases in September were 613,000 tons, against 587,000 in August and 4,976,000 for the first nine months of 1935, against 3,429,000 during that period in 1934.

BRITISH CABINET FIGHTS TO INSURE BALLOT VICTORY

Leaders Hire Air Fleet to Stump Country.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—With polling day two weeks away—Nov. 14—the British election machinery is rapidly picking up pace. Members of the national government, opposition leaders and candidates for seats in parliament are addressing hundreds of meetings daily.

Last minute candidates still are entering the contest with the result that at the close of nominations Monday, the electors are expected to be faced with the imposing total of 1,300 candidates. From this number the voters will choose representatives for 615 parliamentary seats.

The national government so far has arranged to contest for 578 seats, the Liberals, 160, and the Laborites, 544. This means that the number of M. P.s elected without a fight will be one of the smallest on record.

Get Fleet of Airplanes.

The government party is leaving nothing to chance. In addition to an intensive speechmaking and publicity campaign government leaders have secured the services of a fleet of airplanes. By traveling in planes the most prominent speakers will be able to cover many campaign rallies. With London as headquarters, the air fleet will transport speakers to constituencies throughout Great Britain.

Three of the most prominent members of the government, however, find little opportunity to avail themselves of the latest electioneering facilities. They are Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, who is dealing with government affairs at Whitehall; Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare and Capt. Anthony Eden, minister for league of nations affairs, both of whom are tied up at Geneva. Nevertheless none of the three will face really serious opposition and their reelection is taken as a matter of course.

Government Favored to Win.

A lively "election insurance" market is developing at Lloyd's with the odds 9 to 1 in favor of return of the national government. That the next administration will be able to boast anywhere near as large a majority as hitherto is much more doubtful, however, the general estimate being between 100 and 150.

The monotony of the campaign addresses was enlivened last night by an outburst from Ramsay MacDonald, lord president of the council, in defense of his son, Malcolm.

Addressing a meeting at Wheatley Hill, Seaham, MacDonald was interrupted by a questioner who wanted to know whether he had anything to do with the appointment of his son to the colonial secretaryship. MacDonald, in replying, complained bitterly about "mean slanders." He insisted the appointment was made on merit alone. He also added that he was not prime minister at the time, so he had no hand in the matter.

BRITAIN 'BORROWS' AUSTRALIAN CRUISER FOR 'WAR ZONE' DUTY

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The British admiralty announced today that the Australian government had placed its cruiser, Sydney, at the disposal of the British government for use in the Mediterranean.

The offer was accepted, the admiralty announced, and the Sydney is now en route to Gibraltar, where it will replace the British cruiser, Achilles, of the Leander class, which will return to England for recommissioning.

In another reshuffling of the British fleet in the Mediterranean the battleship, Ramillies, left Portland to relieve its sister ship, The Resolution, which started back to England on Oct. 25 from Alexandria, Egypt, and arrived last night at Gibraltar. The admiralty also announced the arrival of the cruiser, Colombo, and the submarines, Pandora and Proteus, at Aden, Arabia, across the gulf of Aden from British Somaliland and Ethiopia.

E. C. WENTWORTH WIDOW IS SUED IN ESTATE DISPUTE

Suit to collect $35,848 from Mrs. Sylvia Wentworth, 1408 Jarvis avenue, widow of Edward C. Wentworth, attorney and realtor, was filed in Superior court yesterday by the Northern Trust company as administrator of the estate of Mrs. Barbara Wagener, who died in 1927 at the age of 91 years.

According to the suit Wentworth was named executor of Mrs. Wagener's estate, estimated at $73,000. Under her will he was directed to manage the estate for five years, using the income to care for "needy and worthy old women of Klein-Oerlach and Gross-Oerlach, Germany." The suit charges that Wentworth illegally reinvested part of the estate in securities which proved worthless and as a result was directed by the Probate court to repay $44,700 to the estate.

The suit alleges that shortly before his death in 1931 Wentworth turned over most of his holdings to his wife with the result that after his death his own estate was found to be of little value. The bill asks that the widow be enjoined from disposing of any property and that she be required to list the securities she received from her husband in order to satisfy the debt which has been reduced to $35,848.

TORIES DEFEAT LABOR IN BRITISH CITY ELECTIONS

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Midnight returns from closely contested municipal elections in England and Wales tonight showed 32 Conservative gains and 24 labor losses. The returns were from 101 out of 365 towns.

Socialist-Labor candidates were given setbacks in industrial areas. The Conservatives, apparently as a result of considerable electioneering assistance from the national government, made surprising gains from labor in such industrial centers as Birmingham, Liverpool, Leeds and Manchester.

In Hull and Sheffield the composition of the municipal councils remained about the same. At Leeds, the Tories regained control of the council.

ITALIANS BUILD STONE FORTS ON ETHIOPIAN FRONT

Black Shirts Toil in Heat Building Roads.

BY MORTIMER DURAND.

[Special Correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph and Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY AT EDAGA HAMUS, Northern Ethiopia, Nov. 1.—I traveled today in an Italian army truck to Edaga Hamus, about 45 miles east of Adowa. Hundreds of men were working on a new road which is being hacked from virgin rock.

With swinging picks and pneumatic drills they were breaking down bowlders. Long lines of Black Shirts were passing stones from hand to hand down the mountainside toward the valley.

Even in the hottest hours of the day the men were undaunted. Stripped to the waist, their bodies glistening with perspiration, they were singing at work.

Sees Bust of Mussolini.

On the way to the camp of the "October 28" division, at an altitude of more than 9,000 feet, I saw a bust of Mussolini carved by a soldier in local stone. It was arranged at the head of a semicircle patterned with cactus and colored stones.

The front line here consists of low stone forts loopholed for machine guns overlooking the plain toward Makale, a town which Italy expects soon to enter.

"I returned today from reconnoitering without catching sight of the enemy," said an officer of the Askaris, who took a lift on the truck on which I was traveling.

Forward posts are on the side of a mountain which towers like a colossal Norman fortress nearly 10,000 feet high and overlooks a flat plain. Outposts are located a half mile beyond the forward posts.

Plenty of Good Water.

I talked to Gen. Sall-Qra, head of the labor army responsible for road making and for sinking and maintaining wells and supplies of all kinds. As yet the only serious fighting has been against the terrain. Contrary to expectations, the provision of water does not provide the most difficult part of the task.

"We have found good wells in so many places," said the general, "that it has been possible to maintain supplies with a minimum of pipe lines."

The labor army is working at full speed preparing for the coming advance. All night long trucks carry ammunition toward the front and mule trains continue where motor roads end.

From Edaga Hamus, however, it is just possible to reach the frontier by truck. Yesterday, after traveling as far as an army truck could take me, I proceeded afoot up a rocky track to Amba Bati on the summit, mounted a mule and rode to the walled village of Enda Mariam.

Later I proceeded to a most easterly post toward Danakil on the extreme left of the Italian line. A knee high stone wall overlooks the gorge and streams. The opposite mountainside, covered with scrub, betrays no sign of life.

GREECE TO VOTE TOMORROW UPON RETURN OF KING

Nation Acts to Quell Any Disturbance.

ATHENS, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The government tonight took steps to maintain order in Sunday's plebiscite on restoration of the monarchy.

It made public a "law of necessity," specifying stiff penalties for all "persons who in any way disturb order or security or the country's calm, or directly or indirectly incite the populace to rebellion." Violators will be sentenced to deportation.

Alcoholic drinks will not be sold Sunday and Monday, when Turkish coffee will be the strongest available drink. Moving picture houses will close early.

Warned Against Loitering.

There will be no election displays and only newspapers will make public the results. The populace has been warned not to loiter on the streets.

Violation of these laws will bring punishment of a year's imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

Former King George II. is expected to return to Greece from England after the plebiscite. Only after George's return will celebrations be held, Gen. George Kondylis, the regent, has announced.

Meanwhile frequent but unconfirmed reports circulated that George had asked former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, an opponent of the monarchy, to aid him in reaching a medium between liberalism and Fascism.

Compromise Is Sought.

It was reported George would ask Venizelos to make suggestions as to how to reach a compromise between the Fascist group, headed by Gen. J. Kondylis, and the Liberals, led by former Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris.

Some observers believed Kondylis, who directed the bloodless coup of three weeks ago in which he took the regency and announced for restoration of the monarchy, could not coöperate in any cabinet with Tsaldaris.

Posters of George and Tsaldaris appeared and with them was a speech by Tsaldaris. Observers saw this as possible implication that the former monarch approved Tsaldaris' policies.

The Populist party, supporting Tsaldaris, declared in a statement, "The Hellenic people can rest assured that under the king's scepter their liberties will be guarded."

A shipping strike at the port of Piraeus, which yesterday was reported as the only disturbance throughout the country, was settled when workers were granted a pay raise of 20 per cent.

52,000 Jews Immigrate Into Palestine for Record

JERUSALEM, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Immigration into Palestine reached a new record in the history of the country with the immigration of 52,000 Jews during the first ten months of 1935. This is an increase of 10,000 Jewish immigrants over the total number for 1934.

CONVICT STONE QUIZZED ABOUT BANK ROBBERY

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Cletus Stone, one of three convicts who joined Basil Banghart in a break from the southern Illinois prison at Chester last Columbus day, tonight was plied with the questions of officers investigating recent robberies in St. Louis.

Stone, the last of the quartet of convicts who sent a commissary truck crashing through the prison gates to be captured, was arrested last night in St. Louis county. Arrested with him were his brother, Carl Stone; Mrs. Basil Banghart, wife of the convicted Touhy gangster, and another woman, who said she was Miss Helen Barkley of Knoxville, Tenn.

Police today said the Stone brothers had been identified in one drug store robbery here and officers were questioning them in connection with a recent bank robbery at Henderson, Ky. Several guns were found in their automobile, deputy constables said.

Banghart, "the wow" of the Touhy gang; Stone, and two other convicts commandeered a commissary truck at the prison on Oct. 12, circled the yards, and drove it head-on through the gates. Banghart and two of his companions were captured an hour later after Banghart had been wounded by pursuing guards.

FOUND DEAD: UNIDENTIFIED.

The body of an unidentified man about 40 years old, who had apparently died of natural causes, was found yesterday in the rear of 1212 South Ashland avenue.

TRAPPER FIGHTS TO SAVE LIFE OF MAN HE SHOT

WHITECOURT, Alta., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Otto Schmid, trapper, who told Royal Canadian Mounted police he shot Eric Moeller, fellow veteran of the German army, is making valiant efforts to save his victim's life at this snowbound post, 165 miles northwest of Edmonton. The shooting occurred last Wednesday.

After the shooting Schmid shuffled 35 miles through the subarctic night to report the affray to authorities. Then he started back driving a dog team across the bitterly cold plains to bring the wounded man to a hospital.

Schmid and Moeller, both trappers, were recently involved in a court case over the thefts from food caches on the trap lines. According to police information, Schmid, after an altercation, shot Moeller below the heart.

A doctor left Edmonton for Whitecourt when the shooting was reported and will attend Moeller if Schmid manages to get him back.

The Escalators Are in Operation

The first step—we might almost say "stride"—in our Program of Rehabilitation is completed. The Escalators are in operation. They have been constructed solely for the convenience of you—our customers—and we are trusting to your first ride on them, gliding effortlessly from floor to floor—to wipe out the memory of any inconvenience you may have been caused while they were under construction.

. . . . .

We should like to thank you, by the way, for the patience you showed during that period. From start to finish, throughout the necessarily long-drawn-out process; we invariably encountered a courteous understanding of the situation that made us more than ever glad we had undertaken it.

. . . . .

And may we repeat that the installation of the Escalators is only the first step in our Program. A store has a particular kind of affection for a city it grows up with, as Carson's has with Chicago, and wishes to make itself as considerate as possible to that city's people—especially when it has so many very loyal friends among them.

. . . . .

We have many other new developments in store for you in addition to the Escalators. In fact, within the next thirty days we expect to have another very important announcement to make.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

A PROTECTION FOR THE TAXPAYER.

Senator Searcy of Springfield believes that an effort will be made at the special session of the Illinois legislature to pass a law suspending the requirement for referendum on municipal bond issues. The New Dealers in Washington would like such a law. Their grants of easy money to municipalities for public works cover only part of the costs. The local governments must raise the rest. As long as the requirement of a referendum remains, the problem of raising the local contribution is a difficult one because the voters have frequently shown themselves reluctant to go more deeply into debt. This annoys the New Dealers and it also annoys many local government officials who would like to spend the taxpayers' money as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Searcy is determined to defend the right of the voters to pass on bond issues and in so doing he will have the support of the great majority of intelligent citizens. The fact that a federal bureau has approved a project offers no evidence that it is either useful or necessary. The record of the Public Works administration in approving wasteful appropriations is rapidly becoming one of the great financial scandals in American history.

If the voters have reason to think they are being offered a bargain they will vote favorably on a proposed borrowing, but they should not be prevented from deciding the issue for themselves. The question whether local taxpayers should go into debt for a particular project cannot safely be left for decision to a combination of federal and local tax wasters.

BRITANNIA RULES THE WAVE.

Mr. Baldwin last week wanted to know what help the league of nations might expect from nonmembers, particularly the United States. What Germany, now out, might do or not do can be of the greater material consequence, but Mr. Baldwin evidently was not without hope that the moralities against Italy would appeal to American sentimentalities and that the league might get somewhere in the United States.

Mr. Hull, as secretary of state, replied in short order, reciting what the United States has already done. The new American neutrality program went into effect before the league of nations had done anything. In fact, the league hasn't really done anything yet. It has merely given notice that presently it will apply penalties of nonintercourse. America has embargoed arms, ammunition and implements of war; it has made the carrying of munitions unlawful in American ships, it has warned Americans they travel at their own risk on Italian ships, and it has told American merchants that all trade with the belligerents is without the protection of the American government.

Mr. Hull underlined that last item of the American neutrality and said he wished to use his reply as a means of reiterating and emphasizing it. Thus Mr. Baldwin learns that if Great Britain or the league should blockade Italian ports or otherwise try to stop shipment of goods into Italy the United States would not take issue in behalf of its own commerce. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull have surrendered the freedom of the seas and the right of neutrals to trade where they can sell their goods.

All previous American diplomacy for the protection of foreign commerce has been junked. The new policy scuttles a traditional principle dating back to the first days of the republic. It was contended for as late as the world war, in which Great Britain was a persistent offender. The new ruling conforms precisely with the British formula for control of the seas.

No American shipper whose markets were closed and whose sales were lost by stoppage of shipments could make any complaint to his government, because his government has washed its hands of him. His government doesn't recognize his right to conduct business under what used to be the law of nations. The league has outlawed Italy, but the American government has outlawed its own citizens. If the Roosevelt precedent is to remain effective for the United States, Great Britain has won the greatest of its sea fights and with it the permission to stop American trade whenever it is involved with another country. In the present instance the rule applies although there has been no declaration of war. The United States is the only nation which recognizes that the African episode is a war.

FALLACIES OF MILITARY CENSORSHIP.

It is difficult for any civilian to find justification for the war department's attempt to suppress publication of photographs of the wreckage of the experimental bombing plane which crashed the other day at Wright field. Any pretense that they would reveal military secrets is not permissive in view of the fact that views of the plane as a going concern have already been shown in many newspapers.

The burocratic temper, civilian or military, is prone to censorship. It is far from averse to publicity provided it can direct it, but it is at least as important that the mistakes or failures of government be known to the governed as its successes. In wartime military censorship has theoretically a compelling force in that it is supposed to be essential to keeping profitable information from the enemy. But in practice in all armies it transcends this purpose and more often merely hides from the nation concerned failures and weaknesses of the high command well known to the enemy. Censorship of this familiar kind, it may be well argued, is more costly to an army and a nation than any knowledge it is able to keep from the enemy. Its only benefits are protecting individuals from deserved criticism and in retaining in rank and command men who have proved unfit. Not merely thousands but millions of soldiers in the vast multitudes under arms in the late war were sacrificed because censorship sheltered not them but incompetence in high rank.

But whatever justification for proper censorship there is in war, it dwindles sharply in peace. Yet the self-interest of a military hierarchy remains. It is human to wish immunity from criticism, and censorship takes advantage of civilian ignorance to withhold from the public knowledge it ought to have. Military efficiency is as little served in peace as in war by the suppression both of knowledge and of alert and frank discussion which under the pretense of military interest the military hierarchy imposes largely for the benefit of incompetence, inertia, and mediocrity. In the terrific arbitrament of war unfitness is exposed, though even then tardily and at tragic cost. But in the piping times of peace it digs itself in and censorship is its front trench. We apply the term not merely or even chiefly to suppression of press publicity. More important and to civilians less apparent is the discouragement of free criticism and discussion by officers of the army and navy, a blight upon originality, initiative, and progress. The younger men ought especially to be freed from it, for it is essential to their intellectual growth and their preparation for future responsibility. It is indeed essential to military efficiency and progress and therefore to the security of the nation.

WHO WANTS A FACTORY?

[Baltimore Sun.]

The federal government has built a factory at Reedsville, W. Va., with which it does not quite know what to do. In fact, it does not know whether it really owns the factory, though it was built on its own land and with its own money. The question has been submitted to Controler General McCarl for solution, but the best he has been able to say is that to him it appears that the government has "at least some interest" in the plant.

It was originally intended that a postoffice equipment shop should be set up in connection with the subsistence homestead project at Reedsville. The homesteaders were to work part time in the shop, thus providing themselves with sufficient cash to meet their more essential needs and to eke out their incomes by farming little garden plots. The PWA advanced the money needed to build the factory, but when the furniture industry complained that it was running at only twenty per cent of its capacity and could well furnish the government with all the postoffice supplies it needed congress refused to vote funds to operate the shop.

Nevertheless, upon the insistence of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and others, the administration went ahead with its plans, somewhat modified, to build a factory at Reedsville. This building is now about completed, but there is no one to operate the shop and no money with which to run it. Moreover, the administration has lately been swinging away from the idea that the way to solve the unemployment relief problem is to settle the jobless in subsistence communities, where they might raise their own food and pay for their homesteads out of the wages to be earned at part time jobs in factories that might be attracted to these settlements.

So the government has little interest left in its Reedsville factory except that it would like to know what to do with it now that it has it on its hands. Perhaps private interests could be induced to buy it. They would have a source of cheap labor to draw upon, but they would have very little in the way of transportation facilities and would be far removed from their sources of raw materials. Upon second thought it would perhaps be foolish to have private interests buy the factory in view of the many factory buildings now standing empty or only partly used. The best solution might be to set the Reedsville shop aside as a public monument.

Let it be a testimonial to the sort of vain and thoughtless experimentation in which the Roosevelt administration so often has engaged.

WHEAT IMPORTS.

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

When the officials of the AAA take their vote among American farmers on the popularity of crop control measures they might extend it to include the wheat producing sections of Canada and Argentina.

There, it may be imagined, the vote would be enthusiastically for the New Deal, especially for that part of it which calls for restriction of American wheat production. As a consequence of the AAA scarcity policy doors have been opened to Canadian and Argentine wheat, in spite of the high duties that must be paid to get it here.

The crowning paradox of the AAA policy is the fact that in Minneapolis, the heart of the flour milling country, great quantities of foreign wheat have been ground into flour for domestic users, while American wheat growers were being paid for wheat they didn't raise. A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun reports that "milling officials produced records to show that they are importing and grinding millions of bushels of Canadian wheat; that they are importing a lesser quantity from Argentina, and, what is actually absurd from their point of view, they are actually hauling eastern wheat to this city to be milled."

Imported wheat pays a duty of 42 cents a bushel. Upon every bushel of wheat ground in this country a processing tax of 30 cents is collected by the government. The Chicago price of wheat at present is 95 cents a bushel; in some western centers it is even higher. Can any one doubt that these prices, duties, and taxes are reflected in the rising prices of bread?

The drouth and the dust storms are blamed by the administration for the wheat shortage, which they promise is only "temporary." Yet it was the government's wheat restriction policy which made the drouth really serious and its policy of withdrawing cultivation from marginal lands that contributed to the dust storms. It will not find it so easy to curtail criticism of its policies as it was to curtail production of a vital food commodity.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

IF THEY KEEP SHOVING each other around in Europe and stepping on each other's toes and daring and double daring and saying, "All right, knock that chip off my shoulder, you big cheese!" some nice morning they'll wake up and find out they've got a nice, big, healthy war on their hands.

THANKSGIVING DAY is coming and if turkey goes up in proportion to pork chops I guess I'll have to sell my automobile to buy a fair sized Tom turkey. Or at least I could get a nice roasting chicken for the car. Oh, well, chicken is nice on Thanksgiving day; you just call it a little turkey.

AND ANYHOW the serving of turkey on Thanksgiving day is just an old Spanish custom. The Pilgrim Fathers had turkey on Thanksgiving day, but they didn't have to go down to the market and mortgage their houses and barns and their farms to get one. They'd just pick up a piece of cordwood or else take little Willie's ball bat (or did little Willie have a ball bat in those days?) and stroll over to the woods and look around until they saw a nice fat wild turkey roosting on a low bough of a tree and walk over and smack him one with the club on the left ear and take him home. But from that custom we got the superstition that one must always have a turkey on Thanksgiving day if he didn't want to be considered poor white trash. But as for me, I'd lots rather have cohn pone and pot likker. Or hamburger and mustard on rye bread. But if I had those delectable viands my children (if I had any) would slink in utter shame if the other children found out they didn't have turkey and stuffing on Thanksgiving day. No, you have to have it; it's become a law or something.

LESSON.

I have given myself time.
 I have said:
"It cannot be long to wait Till love is dead."

I have been patient and slow
 From the start;
Lived with my head alone, to Rest my heart.

I have asked the days to come
 Quietly kind,
And soften the thoughts that still Shriek in my mind.

But peace bred of time is too long
 In the making,
And a heart need break only once
 To keep aching.

I. F. S.

AND THE ITALIAN SOLDIERS may suffer quite a bit in Ethiopia with the temperature at 156 in the shade (and there not being any shade), but the old law of compensation still holds good in their case. They get their food from the quartermaster, free gratis, as the saying goes, and they don't have to buy their salt pork and pay for it out of their own pockets.

THE THRILLING ADVENTURES of the Vice President, Mr. Garner, in the Far East will be a lesson to future Vice Presidents. If they stay in Washington, they're done for; the President, the cabinet, the senators, and the great statesmen eclipse them to such a degree they're never heard of. But if they go to Japan and set up a wall about having to call on the Japanese emperor in their sock feet they'll be good front page stuff for weeks. Who ever heard of Mr. Garner or knew whether he was Vice President of the United States or vice president of the West Grandview Fun, Frolic, and Bridge club, until he sent out the story that he might have to go in his socks if he dropped in for a cocktail party with the mikado? Nobody. After this every Vice President is going to make a bee line for Japan as soon as he gets elected.

ELEMENTARY LESSONS for Auto Drivers. Lesson I.—Trains do not always go forward. Sometimes they back. When they back they do not have the engine headlight on the tail end of the train. The engine headlight always stays on the front of the train on the engine. There are only some red lanterns on the back of the train. But trains do go backward. Try it yourself; stand still and then instead of walking forward walk backward. You see, it can be done. Well, trains can go backward just as well as you can. This may seem incredible, but it is true. Go down to a switchyard some day and see for yourself. And when trains do back up don't you be there with your automobile. Lesson II. soon to follow.

THE ROAD TO ADDIS ABABA.

(The road to Addis Ababa has provided a test for the whole Italian military machine.—News item.)

The road to Addis Ababa shines
Reaching glasses dissolve each mile.
The Big Parade in latest style!

Batteries, after a quiet spell,
Eloquent speak of a newer Hell,
And a vulture circles above the heat,
Bird carnivorous, sensing meat.

Mussolini! Italy!
The road to Addis Ababa winds
In heat that strikes and dust that blinds.

The road to Addis Ababa runs
Feeling the press of advancing guns,
A vulture circles the blue above
And somewhere I read that "God is Love."

PINK DISEASE.

About thirty years ago a German physician, Selter, published a description of what appeared to be an entirely unknown condition affecting young children. The disease was characterized by lack of interest, nervousness, loss of speech, mental disturbances, and profuse sweating. The hands and feet were swollen, reddened, and cold. Frequently the hair fell out to the point of baldness.

It was not until 1914 that a New Zealand physician, unaware of Selter's original report, described fourteen cases of the same type. This aroused so much interest that an intensive study of the occurrence of the disease was made, with the result that several hundred instances have now been recognized. The name "pink disease" was attached to the malady by Charles Clubbe of Sydney because of the pinkish rash which is usually present.

According to a recent investigation by A. J. and Ian Wood the disease presents three stages. The early symptoms simulate those of an acute cold, with an elevation of temperature to 100 or 102 degrees F. Fatigue and listlessness continue for several weeks, and the most outstanding change occurs in the disposition of the child, who becomes petulant and intractable. The onset is so gradual that parents may find difficulty in recognizing the progressive character of the malady. A mother may relate that she has been compelled to be up practically all night with the child for weeks, and that the youngster rarely sleeps more than an hour or two at a time. The appetite wanes, weight decreases, and there is great weakness. Because of this loss of muscular power cases of pink disease are not infrequently thought to be infantile paralysis [polio]. Toward the end of the first month the typical rash appears on the trunk and is strikingly prominent during the periods of excessive sweating. The skin itches intensely, causing the child to twist and turn from side to side.

The second stage lasts about a month and during this period the hands and feet are swollen and the skin is pinkish or slightly bluish in shade. The extremities are icy cold and the circulation is poor.

Gradual recovery begins in the third stage, which usually coincides with the conclusion of the third month of illness. Complete recovery requires from two to three months additional time. The resistance of the child is so low that intestinal upsets may occur.

Inasmuch as the cause is unknown, treatment is directed toward the management of symptoms. If open air sleeping quarters with some sunshine can be provided, the discomfort of the second stage will be less severe and the child will improve more rapidly. Light, soft clothing is recommended because of the rash and the itching. Silk is better than wool or cotton if extremely thin garments of this material can be provided. A tepid bath twice daily, followed by an alcohol rub [very dilute], then dusting the skin with a sterile, nonirritating powder, will prove comforting.

Where scrupulous cleanliness of the skin is not enforced, ulcerations, boils, etc., are quite common. Infections of the mouth are often troublesome and cotton swabs soaked in hydrogen peroxide may be used to keep the mouth and the tongue clean. Great thirst occasioned by the sweating must be alleviated, and large quantities of fluids and salts will be required. Because of the loss of appetite in the early stage it may be necessary to vary the diet rather widely. Milk with added vitamins, raw eggs beaten up in milk, liver extract, meat juices, raw fruits, and the juice of uncooked vegetables have been recommended.

With good nursing the mortality is low and most of these little patients will be restored to normal health. Since the course of the disease is prolonged, parents should be impressed with the fact that though the outlook is favorable the family is in for a real siege. Great patience is required in handling the child.

VIOSTEROL.

S. B. writes: My baby is 2 years 2 months old. Each winter I have given him halibut liver oil with viosterol, fifteen drops daily in some orange juice. Should I continue? He weighs 36 pounds and is 37 inches tall. His appetite is good. He drinks a quart of grade A vitamin D milk daily.

REPLY.

Since your baby is the height and weight of the average 4 year old child, it would appear that he is receiving and digesting plenty of food. Your physician can advise you best as he can examine your son. My suggestion would be either to reduce the dose of vitamin concentrates or omit the medicine entirely for a period of from two to four weeks—resuming the dosage at a lower level.

MINERAL OIL.

Mrs. J. M. W. writes:

1. Is it harmful for one to take mineral oil continually once a day for years? I find it to be the mildest laxative for one suffering from indigestion, constipation, and piles.

2. Is it all right for a person over 65 years old, suffering from chronic indigestion, to eat only two meals a day if he feels better going without supper?

REPLY.

1. Taking any laxative continually for years is not recommended. Why not attempt to find the cause, or regulate the diet so that laxatives will not be required? At any rate, vary the type of laxative used.

2. If a person feels better as a result of eating but two meals each day, he should follow that procedure. He should be sure, however, that he is obtaining enough food to supply the needs of the body.

HAS BEAN IN EAR.

V. M. writes: When I was about 8 years old I saw a man apparently put beans into his ears and then make them come out of his nose. Of course, I did not realize that this was only a trick, and tried it on myself. I put a bean into my right ear and never got it out again. I am now 27 years old and am troubled with pain in this ear. My hearing is not affected. Do you think I have any reason to worry?

REPLY.

You should see an ear specialist and abide by his advice. The bean has probably fallen out long since. At any rate it would be covered with wax and have become either a "has-bean" or a wax bean. A careful examination of the ear canal is indicated.

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Probate period of a year ended on an estate a few weeks ago. Estate is in charge of administrator. It consists entirely of personal property and over 80 per cent is in cash. The balance is in bonds in a receivership property for which there is not a ready market, and a judgment against one of the heirs for an amount exceeding his legacy. 1. Is it necessary to delay distribution of the 80 per cent available at this time, pending settlement of the 20 per cent which will be somewhat slow in clearing up? 2. Administrator's attorney says Probate court will not approve partial distribution even though administrator and practically all of the heirs desire it. Is he right? 3. Attorney seems inclined to prolong settlement for reasons not apparent to administrator. Would it be irregular or involve unusual expense for administrator to dismiss him and hire attorney in whom he has greater confidence to conclude final settlement?

W. D. M.

1. We see no necessity for further delay.
2. Not unless the court feels that the entire estate ought to be closed up.
3. It seems probable that the total attorney's fee would be increased by such step, otherwise we see no objection.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PARTITION PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can an heir to an estate consisting mostly of farm land force a sale of some of the land under the pauper act? This heir, who is one of ten heirs, is destitute. The estate is located in Minnesota. D. M.

Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SALE OF EQUITY

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two sisters own undivided interest in the home of their mother, deceased, whose estate is being probated. One sister is administratrix. The home, which is mortgaged, is about to be foreclosed. The sisters wish to dispose of their equity. 1. How will the sisters sell their interest so as to give good title? Holder of mortgage wants them to quitclaim. 2. Can this be done while estate is in probate? He wants to get deed from sisters so as to avoid foreclosure. 3. How can he do this? 4. Can you [after judgment] attach and sell membership in Chicago Board of Trade?

J. W.

1. If the property is covered by guarantee policy they will have to give the title company a surety bond to protect against claims. Take the matter up with the title company.
2. Yes, but on such a sale we doubt if the expense of bringing down the guarantee policy before the probate is completed would be worth while.
3. Employ an attorney.
4. It can be reached by appropriate legal proceedings. Leave the steps to the attorney whom you employ.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT DANGEROUS.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—While looking for a flat in the vicinity of 74th and Vincennes I noticed a crowd of young children playing on the stairs of a house. The stairs seemed ready to collapse, and if anything happened it would mean the death of those innocent youngsters. Why are these places allowed to stand in a city like Chicago? Ten little lives in danger and nothing done about it. M. D.

The condition of the porch in question is not such as the term dangerous implies and does not warant action by this department.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—An experiment in spiritual healing of mental cases, greater in scope and significance than any hitherto attempted in Great Britain, is soon to be made with the full support of the Church of England.

This was announced by the bishop of Salisbury, Dr. St. Clair Donaldson.

"There is need to fortify our spiritual ministration with scientific knowledge, and our medical methods with spiritual faith," the bishop said.

"There are obvious difficulties, for the mutual relations of the spiritual, the physical, and the psychological elements in the human makeup are not yet clearly defined.

"The whole work will be done in close coöperation with the medical profession. A doctor will be in charge of the home, and the whole scheme, including the adaptation of the building and plant, will be under the supervision of the ministry of health through the commissioners in lunacy."

One of the most beautiful estates in England has been chosen as the scene of the experiment—historic Milton abbey, at Milton Abbas, Dorset. Milton abbey was a mansion built by the first earl of Dorchester in 1771 on the site of a religious institution founded by King Athelstan nearly 1,000 years ago. This has been taken over from the ecclesiastical commissioners by the Rev. John Maillard, who last February, with the authority and approval of the bishop of Chichester, opened St. Stephen's, Brighton, as the first spiritual-healing church.

Sick and suffering people have flocked from all over the country to his services there and to other churches in which he has conducted special services, and large numbers of men and women have declared themselves cured.

The Rev. Mr. Maillard has estimated that the home will cost $500,000 to start with, and $50,000 a year afterwards. Some of the cost will be borne by the patients, of whom there will be about sixty at the beginning.

The home will be run similarly to other mental homes and hospitals, but to the most up-to-date methods of medical healing will be added all that is known by the church of spiritual healing.

"Mental cases are the hardest problems the medical world has to tackle," the Rev. Mr. Maillard said, "but with the knowledge and influence of the church and the physical knowledge of the medical world we hope to make immense strides in the treatment of such cases."

THE LANGUAGE OF OPERA.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—I have just returned from an operatic performance, disgruntled at having had to listen to almost three hours of hopeless gibberish set to splendid music. An occasional word less cruelly distorted than others told the enlightened few that French was the objective of our polyglot performers.

Just why must we be subjected to badly pronounced German, French, and Italian at every concert which involves the human voice? It is a rare occurrence when either the audience or the singer has a full understanding of the evening's proceedings. There are occasions when the singer's comprehension is so complete that his meaning is conveyed to us. Less frequently the voice is beautiful enough to make us forget everything else.

However, the Italians listen to Massenet, Wagner, and Schubert sung in Italian; the Germans listen to Verdi, Debussy, and Saint-Saëns in German—and I don't think you will ever hear "Ich liebe dich" bellowed over the footlights of the Paris opera by a 300 pound alien.

For how many years must we sit back, slightly bewildered but still game, and clap dutifully for more? I submit the question for editorial consideration.

Robert Ware-Mabley.

MR. BURNS IN LOW DUDGEON.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Some one has just sent me a clipping, purportedly from last Saturday's book page in The Tribune, in which Fanny Butcher, in refusing to write a plug for Hemingway's "Green Hills of Africa," takes a whack at baseball reporters in the following language: "To nonhunters it sounds a little like a baseball reporter's story about a baseball game. It contains all the fancy words, the slang, and the language [including the foul] and it's snappy reporting, but who ever cuts out the story of a baseball game and pastes it in a scrapbook?"

Won't you please tell Miss Butcher that baseball writers haven't employed slang since Charley Dryden and Ring Lardner were in the racket, and that must have been when Miss Butcher was a child?

It's quite a jolt to have a smart gal like Miss Butcher put on the blast via Africa after all the striving of our craft for cultural expression worthy of her shelves.

And as for no one clipping baseball stories and pasting them in scrapbooks, I have four scrapbooks filled with such clippings, all written by one fellow.

Edward Burns,
Tribune Baseball Reporter.

ABOUT CANDIDATES.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Your editorial of Oct. 28, "The Republican Candidate," is brutal in the way it eliminates possible nominees. For example:

"We will consider quite rightly that a state with ten million or fifteen million population is of more influence in electing an American candidate than a state with two or three hundred thousand population." There go Landon and Borah out on the ash heap!

"We want a man who is understandable to all [the people]." There go Vandenberg, two federal Supreme court justices, Col. Roosevelt, down the chute!

"We do not want a man who must start under the handicap of being associated with those unpopularities grouped in the phrase 'the old deal.'" There go Knox and Hoover out the window!

"We cannot afford to choose a man who has allowed to gather around him other men who merit the ill repute they bear." That kills off all the "dark horses" at present in favor with the "insiders" on the national committee!

But, wait! You give us a ray of hope.

"We want a man who in his life and character reflects those simple, homely virtues that represent the American people." At last you name him. Andy Gump!

Lucifer Match.

AN EFFICIENT RESCUE.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—In answer to Mr. Westcott in today's Voice of the People regarding the rescue work on the I. C. tracks at 33d street and Cicero avenue. I was there myself and saw the efforts made to release the man in the wrecked car. I have been a railroad man for twenty years and have had some experience in that time with wrecks. I did not know any of the men working for this man's release. They may have been firemen, policemen, or aviators, but they surely did a nice bit of work as shown from the fact that the man was released from the almost hopeless predicament which he was in, and he was, so to speak, uninjured.

Track jacks and blocks were used to raise the caboose, which was the quickest and most sensible way to raise it. The only obstacle was the crowd, which was handled very courteously by the police, and trafic was handled on the crossing very commendably.

Railroad cranes are kept under steam at all times, but cars lifted from men, with any hope of saving a life, must be handled carefully, and I think a great deal of credit should go to the men who did this rescue work regardless of the time it took to do it. The man was unhurt. I do not work for the I. C. and I do not live in Cicero.

J. T. Hughes.

ANOTHER VERSION.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—An automobile accident occurred at the Cicero avenue crossing of the Illinois Central railroad on Oct. 22, when a motorist drove into a train that was being backed over the crossing. Warnings were given by flashing light, bell, whistle, and fuses on the rear of the train, and automobile trafic was halted at the crossing. The motorist drove around the standing trafic and into the train. The train was moving ten miles per hour. The automobile and its occupant were carried 150 feet and lodged under the end of the caboose.

The accident occurred at 6:12 p. m. Within eight minutes the yardmaster was at the scene with jacks and a crew of men. Additional tools were found to be necessary, and a tool car was brought from the nearest location, arriving within twenty-eight minutes of the accident. Escaping gasoline made it impossible to use an acetylene torch to cut away the wreckage and release the man. Everything was done to effect his safe release as quickly as possible, and he was released within two hours. It would have required a great deal more time to obtain a wrecking crane. Cicero firemen and Chicago policemen rendered valuable assistance. Fortunately the man sustained only slight bruises.

This explanation is given in answer to a letter published in the Voice of the People Oct. 26. A. M. Umshler, Superintendent, Illinois Central Railroad.

UNCLE SAM'S HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Reduced to living in a bandbox hotel kitchenette within easy hoofing distance of the loop, I am simply overcome with the solicitude of one James McAndrews, M. C. [master of ceremonies, I presume], house of representatives, who has franked, of course, an eighteen page bulletin, "House Cleaning Made Easier." After spending some twenty years in an eleven room home, I am so grateful to learn that "dusting furniture often helps to keep it in good condition."

This one also is particularly enlightening: "So far as possible, refrigerators should be kept clean by preventive care!" Until this bulletin came I had assumed that until the neighbors or the health authorities protested, nature should take its course.

Eighteen pages of pish and drivel—an insult to the intelligence of even the dumbest of my sex. Mrs. Shillelah.

REDS ARE BLAMED FOR SHOOTING OF CHINESE PREMIER

Nanking Police Arrest 11 in Assassin Plot.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 1.—Nanking police officially charged today that the attempted assassination of Premier Wang Ching-wei of the Chinese Nationalist government was the result of a communist plot. Nevertheless, general opinion is that the group of young men who plotted the shooting were inspired by motives more directly concerned with Sino-Japanese politics.

All Japanese news reports as well as statements by Japanese officialdom place this interpretation on the critical wounding of the premier. A report from Japanese sources admits that sentiment against Wang in Nanking recently deepened as a result of the presentation of further Japanese demands both in north China and directly to the Nanking government. The premier was generally regarded as pro-Japanese.

An official report issued through the Central News agency announced that eight suspects in addition to the assassin and two accomplices are under arrest.

Assassin Critically Wounded.

The assassin, who himself was gravely wounded, was identified as Sun Feng-min. He is about 20 years old. Wang Chang-wei was a similar age when he attempted to assassinate the Manchu prince regent, the father of Emperor Hsuan Tung, who is now Henry Pu-yi, emperor of the Japanese puppet régime in Manchukuo. Wang was arrested and sentenced to life imprisonment. He served two years and then was liberated in the revolution of 1911.

Details of the shooting and critical wounding of the premier were announced tonight by the police.

Sun Feng-min, the assassin, entered the Kuomintang [ruling Chinese party] conference as a newspaper man connected with the small and recently formed Chenk Wang news agency. He registered as a reporter with the secretariat yesterday.

While Premier Wang Ching-wei and other members of the central executive committee of the party were posing for a picture Sun mingled with the photographers. When the picture was being snapped he stepped forward and fired several shots from a small Browning revolver. Three bullets struck the premier. One hit his cheek, another his arm, and the third entered his chest, fracturing a rib.

Four Officials Wounded.

Four other officials were wounded. They were Chu Weng and Chang Chi, members of the judicial department of the government; Cheng Chung-ming, vice minister of railways, and Kan Hai kwang, a member of the military affairs commission. Chu Hung-chun, janitor in the building, was also slightly wounded. The assassin was shot down by a gendarme.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, virtual Chinese dictator, and Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, former war dord of Manchuria, stood near by when the assassin began shooting. Chang captured one of the assassin's accomplices.

SHANGHAI GREETS GARNER AND HIS TIRED JUNKETERS

Party Begins Another Sightseeing Trip.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 2 [Saturday].—Vice President Garner, wearing a four gallon Texas hat; Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, and the 41 congressmen on the great junket to the Philippines, reached Shanghai this morning for another round of cutaway and full dress functions.

The congressional party was somewhat surfeited by entertainments in Tokio and Kobe, and many members were heard to sigh wearily before the docking of the President Grant that the prospect of seeing Shanghai held no thrills for them.

Nevertheless, the devotion to the public trust vested in these good-will evangelists obliged them to carry on. Mr. Garner accepted his responsibility by posing for photographers in a ricksha while the others stared in wonder at the ancient junks and sampans in the Whangpoo river.

Marines Greet Visitors.

A company of American marines and a delegation headed by Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinese finance minister, and Mayor Wu Teh-chen of Shanghai greeted the party at the boat and escorted them to the Cathay hotel, where automobiles awaited their pleasure for sightseeing.

The day's program also included tiffin as guests of the mayor, then as guests of Dr. Kung and a formal dinner and reception as guests of Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general. As a courtesy to the congressional party, Chinese officials deferred the declaration of martial law to handle the situation resulting from the attempted assassination yesterday of Premier Wang Ching-wei at Nanking.

Economic Structure Wrecked.

The ironical aspect of the visit here was the cordial welcome tendered the members of congress who helped pass the New Deal silver purchase act.

Operations of the New Deal policy have wrecked China's whole economic structure and Americans here claim it has put nearly all their business in bankruptcy or receivership.

The congressional party will leave Shanghai tomorrow morning, stopping again at Hongkong en route to Manila for the inaugural of the new commonwealth government on Nov. 15.

Dern Arrives at Manila.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 2.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Secretary of War George Dern arrived here at 8:45 a. m. today to represent President Roosevelt at the inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth Nov. 15.

Mr. Dern's ship, the cruiser Chester, arrived from Hongkong amid a parade of flower decked launches, with saluting planes overhead.

Full military honors were paid the secretary, while 200 policemen mingled with the welcoming crowd to forestall any oppositionist demonstrations.

Recovery of Mae Marsh Predicted by Physicians

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Mae Marsh, star of the silent films, showed decided improvement today in a Santa Monica hospital where she was taken ten days ago when suffering from a ruptured appendix. Physicians said that barring complications she will recover.

GERMANY OPENS SCHOOL TO TRAIN FLYERS FOR WAR

Goering Stresses Need of Strong Air Fleet.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—The German air force must be ready to "guarantee national safety in the air even if fate imposes a ratio of material strength of ten to one against us."

Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of aviation, delivered this statement today as he opened one of the most impressive military centers in the world—an academy for air war and air technique in Gatow, near Berlin.

"Mind vanquishes matter," Goering said in his speech. "The heroic spirit creates a passionate will for action. Only a strong sword protects peace. The German people need a strong air force to protect their honor and freedom."

Pays Tribute to Hitler.

The minister of aviation paid tribute to Reichsfuehrer Hitler "whose struggle and work laid the foundation for our reconquered freedom and honor."

"Gratitude will compel us," he said, "to continue the work indefatigably in the spirit of Hitler and the spirit of the aces of the world war."

The size of the new air war academy, its boldly conceived organization and its vast possibilities are the objects of admiration of all military attachés accedited to Berlin. Its 1,700 acres lie between the air fields and hangars of Doeberitz and Potsdam on the shore of Havel lake.

The academy is divided into technical and tactical departments for officers of the air force. A "war school of the air force" provides both infantry and air training for future aviation officers.

Hitler and his entire staf, as well as Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, were present at the inauguration.

War Flag's Design Revealed.

Meanwhile secrecy shrouding the design of a new German war flag was lifted when a reproduction of the banner was distributed in a number of state offices. From afar the flag appears to be bright red with a white center bearing a big swastika. There is a small iron cross in the upper left hand corner. A narrow black line embedded in a slightly broader white stripe forms a straight cross dividing the flag into four sections.

A number of old army officers were upset to see the red predominate so strongly in a war flag. Some of them declare they will attempt to induce Hitler to change his mind about the design.

Orders have been issued to builders to prepare for continuing the construction of military barracks. It is asserted in financial circles that the government is preparing to spend another $500,000,000 in buildings. Many of the buildings will be taken over by the army.

GERMANY ORDERS BIG RESTRICTION IN SALE OF BUTTER TO PEOPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Producers of butter were ordered today to sell only to customers who dealt with them as early as last August, and to give them only the same proportion of their production as was sold to them this summer.

Farmers who send butter to individual customers are allowed to send only half the customary portion.

Rumors prevail that butter and fat cards will be introduced in the near future, apportioning a quarter pound or less weekly per person. These rumors are denied by official quarters, which insist that within a few weeks Denmark and other countries will make up the difference between Germany's production and needs.

Admits Collecting Taxes on Race Track 'Winnings'

Samuel Crawford, 32 years old, colored, 521 East 46th street, pleaded guilty yesterday to four charges of obtaining money under false pretenses before Judge James H. Corcoran in the Evanston Municipal court. Sentence was deferred to Nov. 15, when Crawford promised to make restitution. He was alleged to have taken $80 from four housewives as "taxes" on horse race winnings they never received.

SIGHT "MYSTERY" FLEET OF U-BOATS NEAR GALAPAGOS

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Dispatches from the Galapagos Islands today said an unidentified fleet of submarines was maneuvering near San Cristobal Island last night. The submarines were described as equipped with electric projectors. Off Barrington Island, the dispatches continued, was a ship of large tonnage, presumably the "mother ship."

Other dispatches from Balboa, Canal Zone, said the submarines were not from the United States and hence it was presumed here that they were Japanese.

However Ecuadorean government officials have been unable to investigate because of the lack of an adequate boat. The Galapagos Islands lie 730 miles west of the Ecuadorean coast and belong to Ecuador.

U. S. Heir Hurt as Mount Falls on Him During Hunt

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, Nov. 1.—(AP)—James Cameron Clark, millionaire American sportsman, was injured seriously while hunting near Wysall, Nottinghamshire, today. Clark, heir to a thread fortune, was thrown heavily when his horse struck the top bar of a timber fence. The mount somersaulted, falling on its rider. Clark's wife, the former Lady Irene Cubitt, witnessed the accident. Assisted by other members of the hunt, she dragged him from beneath the horse.

RECITES PERJURY CASE AGAINST BEATEN FLORIST

Prosecutor Says Javaras Changed Story.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty testified yesterday at the preliminary examination of Peter Javaras, Oak Park florist, that Javaras had repudiated in court his previous identification of two union men accused of slugging him.

Javaras was arraigned before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court on a charge of perjury. He has already served a ten day jail sentence for contempt of court imposed by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court.

Two Assailants Pointed Out.

The perjury charge against Javaras grew out of a beating he received last July 12 for his refusal to join the Florist Drivers' union. Javaras is part owner of a cash and carry florist business in the yard of his home at 1145 North Harlem avenue in Oak Park.

Dougherty testified at the hearing yesterday that two days after the slugging, in the Oak Park police court, Javaras pointed out Fred Bohlman and Larry Monahan, business agents of the Excavating, Grading, and Asphalt Teamsters' union, as the men who had assaulted him.

The prosecutor testified that Javaras changed his testimony when he was called as the chief witness against Bohlman and Monahan in Judge Harrington's court on Sept. 17. Judge Harrington directed a verdict of not guilty for the two union agents and imposed the ten day sentence against Javaras.

Argues Failure to Show Crime.

Javaras' attorney, Charles H. Soelke, argued at the hearing yesterday that the state had failed to prove in court that a crime had been committed. He contended that the state's case hinged upon Javaras' identification, and that the florist had not willfully given conflicting testimony. The aparent change in his client's testimony, Attorney Soelke argued, was attributed to his client's imperfect knowledge of the English language.

Attorney Soelke asked for additional time in which to produce previous court rulings on the points he had raised, to show that there is no probable cause for holding Javaras to the grand jury. Judge Hartigan continued the hearing until Wednesday and directed the defense attorney to file his briefs in the case by then.

WHITE PINE RUST DISEASE PERILS TREES IN STATE

White pine blister rust, which kills trees in a short time, has been discovered by federal experts on former Gov. Frank O. Lowden's farm near Oregon, Ill., and Stanley S. Locke, state forester, announced in Springfield yesterday that the spread of this disease threatens destruction of white pines in the northern part of the state.

The infestation threatens the pines in the Cook county forest preserves. There also are tracts of pine near Waukegan. Experts are said to be concerned over the danger of the disease spreading to trees in Starved Rock state park near Ottawa, Lowell park at Dixon, Deer park at La Salle, the Oregon cemetery, the Winnebago forest preserves, and the White Pine state park in Ogle county near Oregon.

As a means of preventing the disease from spreading, the state conservation department advised local officials and timber owners to destroy wild currant, gooseberry, and cultivated black currant bushes near native or planted white pine trees.

Passengers and Crew Stay on Board Stranded Steamer

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Passengers and crew of the Aluminum line steamer Sorvangen, stranded today on a reef at Morant Point, Jamaica, were reported in no danger. The eight passengers remained aboard the ship with the crew as the 2,400 ton freighter rested easily near the spot where the liner Rotterdam grounded a few weeks ago with more than 500 persons aboard. The Sorvangen radioed it was not leaking.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Pheasant Set Free.

November 1, 1935.

A COUPLE of the boys on the Wheaton farm left their work for a few minutes the other day to rescue a pheasant. They heard a ringneck flutter his wings about 25 yards away, and although they couldn't see him they felt sure they could find him. After a search in some heavy weeds near by they discovered a cock pheasant entangled in such a way that he couldn't fly. The boys succeeded in getting the bird "straightened out," and let him go.

I see a number of pheasants every time I take a short walk around the place this time of the year. Yesterday I was on my way back to Carl Henderson's house, and Rusty, Carl's shepherd dog, was with me. I climbed over a fence and looked back to see where Rusty was. He was looking for a "loophole" in the wire fence which would let him get under. A German shepherd isn't naturally a bird dog, but Rusty must look like one to the pheasants, because as he was snooping around the fence he scared up a ringneck. The noise which the bird made as it flew away evidently startled Rusty, because he dropped to the ground, pricked up his ears, and didn't take his eyes off the bird until it was out of sight.

If the ringneck scared Rusty, maybe he got some satisfaction out of the fact that he scared a whole flock of wild teal. About 30 or 35 of these fast-flying wild birds dropped down on one of the ponds. When Rusty and I approached the pond the whole flock got up off the water. I sat down on the ground and called Rusty to me. The teal circled over the pond for about five minutes before they finally decided that we weren't going to harm them, then they dropped down for some more rest.

The items occupying the attention of the boys on the Wheaton farm just now are fall plowing, corn husking, the new swan house, and the new swan pool.

The swan pool is being built near the northeast corner of the farm. The concrete foundation is almost completed, and the water pipe line is being put in. Next spring the big, graceful birds will move into their new home. Of course many of the swans will be left on the old swan pond.

Speaking of waterfowl, Clarence Thurow was telling me that he has been seeing plenty of ducks on the Fox river, which runs through the Yorkville experimental farm. The boys have also been noticing big flocks of geese going over. The other day about 200 or 300 geese, flying in their regular V formation, met an airplane. The birds weren't very enthusiastic about battling an airplane propeller, so they "turned tail" and flew back north for a few miles. Pretty soon they came over the farm again, though, headed for warmer zones.

The workers on the Yorkville farm are concentrating on the job of corn husking. I made the rounds with Louis Thurow on one of the big mechanical pickers the other day, and watched the machine go down the rows of corn, snap off the ears, husk the corn, load the ears into a wagon which was pulled alongside, and dispose of the shucks out the back end of the machine.

FIVE ARRESTED AS MEMBERS OF SWINDLING RING

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter Thomas, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

The arrest of five men, including a La Salle street broker and a former New York gambler, as alleged members of a ring which defrauded investors in Illinois and Indiana was revealed yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Eugene O'Connor after the men were turned over to Will county authorities for prosecution.

The broker is Harold Gould, 35 years old, who has an office at 208 South La Salle street and formerly was a partner in the firm of Gould, Mack & Co. John Jarecki, state commissioner of securities, has ordered Gould to show why his license should not be revoked.

Ex-Gambler Known in East.

The one time gambler is Meyer Solomon, 52 years old, alias Meyer Boston, who gave his address as 187 West 76th street, New York City. Meyer and his brother, Sam, well known on Broadway as the Boston brothers, were held as material witnesses in the murder of Arnold Rothstein. They were said to have been kibitzers in the famous high spada game when Rothstein lost $300,000 which he failed to pay.

The others arrested are Jack Glasser, 39 years old, 2214 Granville avenue; Jack Steinman, 52, of New York, who formerly operated a brokerage house in Kansas City under the name of Steinman-McCord company, and Philip Marshall, 36, of 520 Addison street. All are charged with conspiracy to operate a confidence game.

A woman and three other men are being sought.

The arrests were made following conferences between Prosecutor O'Connor, Commissioner Jarecki, John Flynn of the securities exchange commission, and State's Attorney William R. McCabe of Will county. The agencies represented coöperated in an investigation.

Charges Forged Check Used.

"Securities were taken from investors by what we call the '100 per cent system'—take everything and give nothing," Prosecutor O'Connor declared. "Two of the men we are looking for would approach the holders of securities, representing themselves as agents of the corporation which issued the bonds. They would say a merger involving that company was about to take place and advise the owners to sell them the bonds at par value.

"In one case Miss Rita Donahoe of Bloomington was given a forged certified check for $9,000 for $9,000 in utility company bonds. A. J. Ruddy, 314 Hunter avenue, Joliet, turned over $2,400 in securities on the promise a check would be mailed to him. It wasn't.

"Marshall was seized at his home, where some of the bonds were found hidden in a piano. He said he had received them from Solomon, alias Boston, to be sold at 25 cents on the dollar. Solomon claimed they were given him by a man he met in a poolroom."

CHARGE KILLING OF PUPIL, 19, TO HEAD OF SCHOOL

Youth Is Shot During Prank on Halloween.

La Tour, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Charles F. McClure, school superintendent, whose movement to guard his school against Halloween pranksters resulted in the death of one of his students, was charged tonight with manslaughter.

Conviction on the charge of slaying Glenn Aldridge, 19, filed by County Prosecutor Wallace Cooper at Warrensburg, would carry a penalty up to ten years' imprisonment.

McClure, held under $5,000 bond, sobbed out a heartbroken story of the incident after Aldridge died today in a Kansas City hospital from shotgun wounds in his chest.

"I didn't intend to shoot him," the 35 year old school superintendent cried in the Warrensburg sherif's office, where he went after learning of the youth's fatal wound.

"He ran against my gun and it was discharged. I only planned to frighten them."

Indiana Boy Killed.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A fatal accident marred the Halloween parade here last night. Raymond Hill, 14, high school junior, attired in a dress borrowed from his mother, and wearing a false face, suffered a crushed skull as he fell against a truck bearing a float. The boy's feet apparently became entangled in the dress as he attempted to board the truck. He died today in the Clay County hospital here.

Two Hurt in Auto Crash.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Everett Browning and Arch Walker, pupils in Manilla High school, were seriously injured early today when their automobile crashed into a coal chute which Halloween pranksters had placed across a road southeast of Homer, Rush county. Browning may be fatally hurt.

FREES WOMAN OF EXTORTION.

A charge of attempted extortion against Miss Fannie Heinal, 28 years old, 1925 Jackson boulevard, was dismissed by Judge George B. Weiss in the Woman's court yesterday.

MRS. EDITH LIGGETT, WIFE OF EDITOR, IS GRAND JURY WITNESS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edith Liggett, wife of Walter W. Liggett, crusading editor who faces trial on charges involving a 19 year old girl, today appear before the Hennepin county grand jury in connection with charges against Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld, alleging violation of state and federal laws.

Blumenfeld figured in a fight last week in which Liggett received a severe pummeling and in which he charged he was set upon by a half dozen of Blumenfeld's henchmen after he had refused to be bribed to cease assailing Blumenfeld in his newspaper, the Mid-West American.

Meanwhile Liggett, who is still confined to bed as a result of the beating he received, obtained a writ from Judge James C. Michael in Ramsey County District court ordering Hennepin county authorities to show cause why a hearing on his petition that the state pay expenses of Liggett's witnesses, scheduled for tomorrow, should not be delayed for a week, and that they show cause, in view of his injuries, why the trial should not be postponed until Dec. 2.

MIAMI WILL JAIL ALL FELONS WHO FAIL TO REPORT

Miami, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A plainly worded ordinance requiring persons convicted of felonies to register within 24 hours after reaching the city was looked upon as a big stick today in the hands of police seeking to keep hoodlums out of Miami this winter.

The ordinance gives authorities grounds for jailing any criminals or suspects so neglectful or ill advised as to fail to register.

Miami police reported today 178 persons had registered since the ordinance was adopted.

The ordinance, yet to be tested in the high courts, provides jail sentences up to 90 days and in Miami Beach a similar law sets up fines up to $500.

25 Mexican Rebels Shot in Raid by Army Flyers

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper El Universal from Guadalajara today said two federal planes bombed and fired machine guns at rebels near Santa Maria del Valle in the state of Jalisco, killing and wounding 25.

CONVERTS AUTO INTO EXECUTION ROOM FOR THREE

Cleveland, O., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A verdict of double murder and suicide was returned by Coroner A. J. Pearse today in the deaths of three persons who died in an automobile which had been converted ingeniously into a lethal gas chamber.

The dead were identified by relatives as Tremaine E. Davis, 38; his wife, Mrs. Grace Loomis Davis, 44, and their son, Tremaine Jr., 13.

The apparent motive for their deaths was lack of money. Police found a total of but $12 in the victims' clothing. They said the car used as a death chamber was not fully paid for and Davis was in debt for a loan of $322.

Reconstructing occurrences from his investigations, the coroner said Davis attached a length of garden hose to his coupé's exhaust pipe and brought it into the closed interior through a hole cut in the floorboard. He said he based his verdict of murder and suicide on th theory that Davis applied the device to the car without the knowledge of his wife and son.

Wolf said Davis' car radio was tuned in on a Cleveland broadcasting station, indicating the family listened to a radio entertainment as the lethal fumes entered the closed coupé and overpowered them. The car was found today in a parking lot.

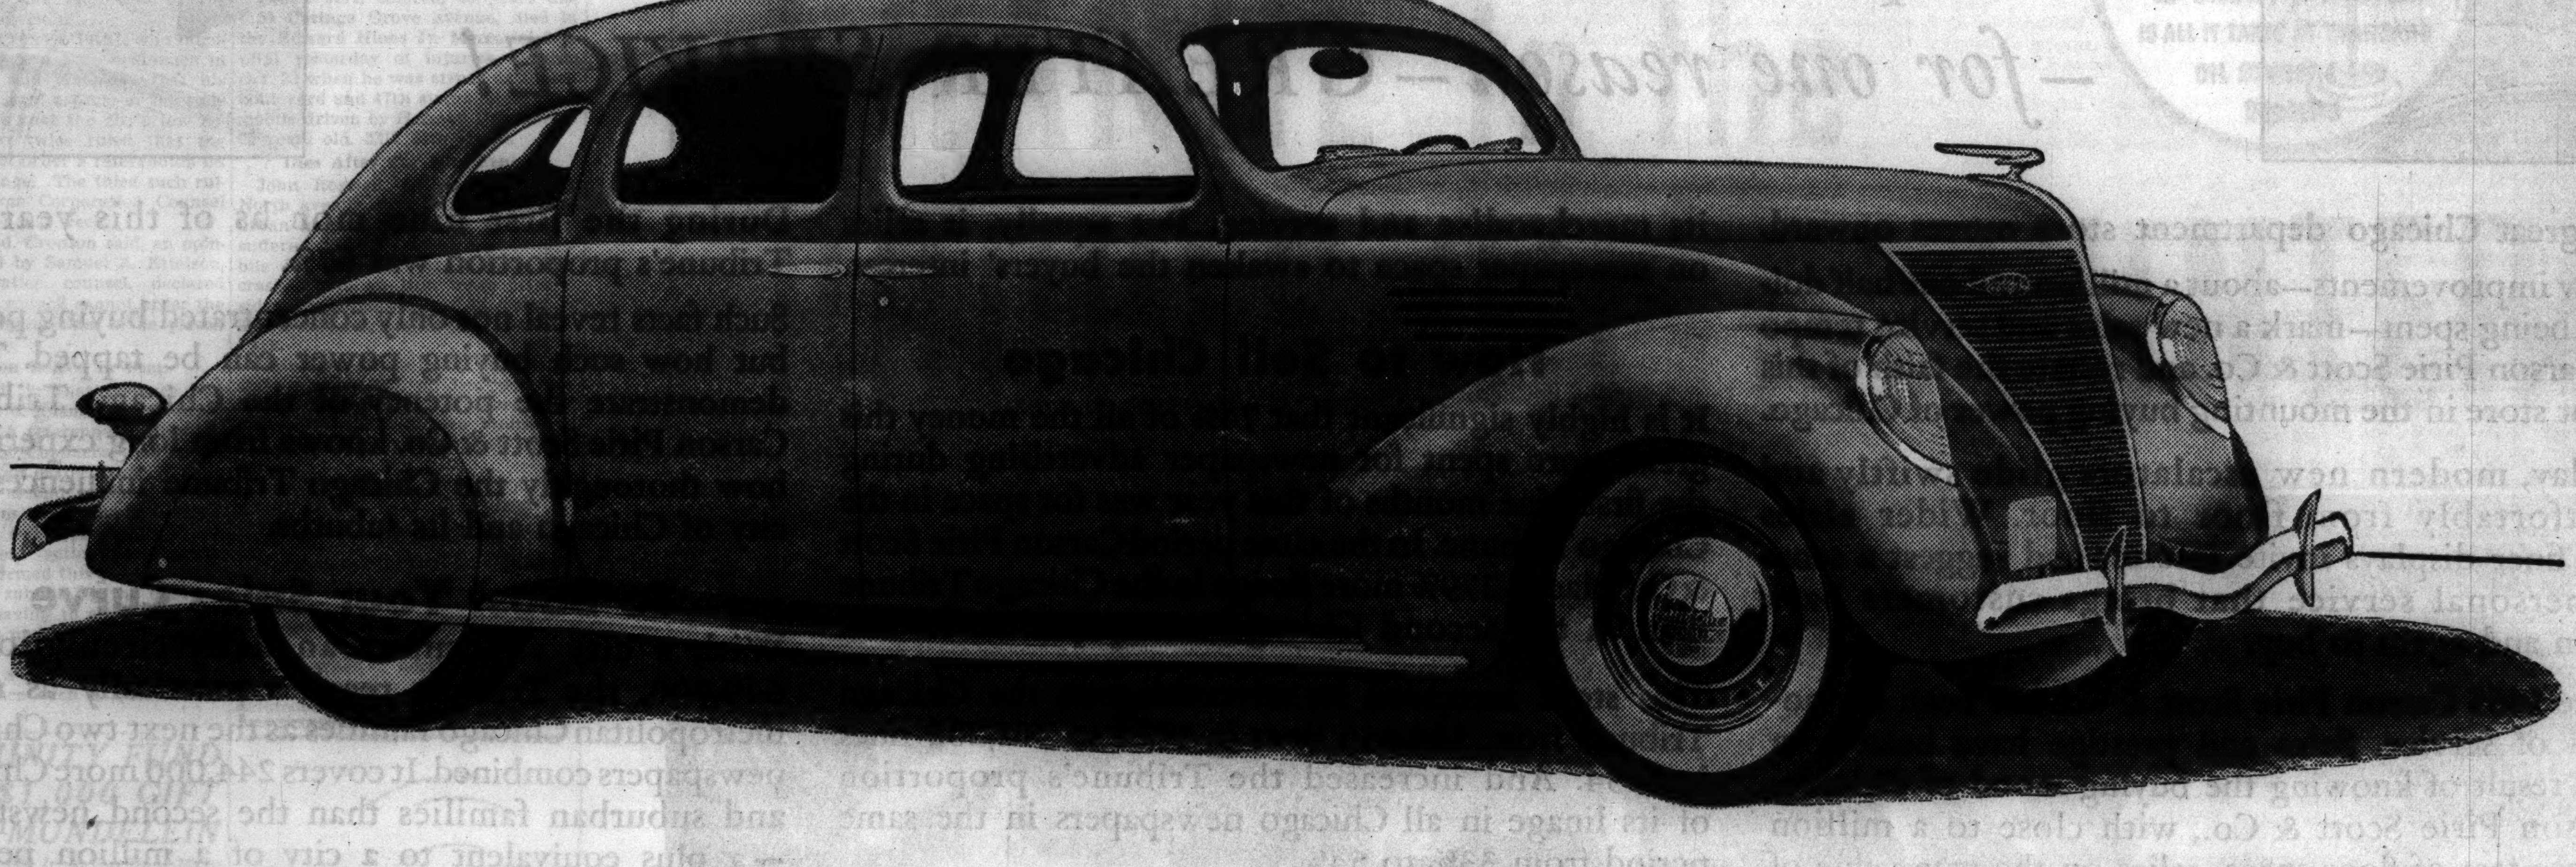
LINCOLN ZEPHYR



The new twelve-cylinder car that brings Ford and Lincoln standards of value to the medium-price field

It has a 12-cylinder motor, a motor of the V-type, proved so efficient in Lincoln and Ford cars. This engine develops 110 horsepower. The wheelbase is 122 inches. The springbase is 133 inches. The bore and stroke is 2¾ inches by 3¾ inches. The roomy body accommodates six people and luggage.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is, above all things, a new car, new in idea, performance, appearance. But it does share the background of experience, the creative engineering skill that have developed the Ford and the Lincoln cars. It is built in its own specially equipped division of the famous Lincoln precision plant. Workmen trained for years in building the Lincoln bring to it methods and precision they have learned so well. It reflects the Ford skill in organizing production that combines quantity with quality, that gives value at a price. Only thus could a car of such power, size and beauty be offered for so little. Only thus could it represent in the medium-price field as genuine a value as the Lincoln and Ford cars in theirs.

As you inspect the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR for the first time, you will be impressed by the sweeping beauty of its every line. It employs fully the principles of aero-dynamic design. Streamlines flow from end to end and from side to side. But grace of line, in this case, does more than express a style trend. It reflects principles of design and construction as new as the car itself.

Steel trusses make possible the bridge, the airplane fuselage, the Marconi tower—structures of light weight but great strength. Steel trusses underlie the flowing curves of this new car. Body and frame are one, welded together. Here is a steel bridge, the body, a rigid structure, supported at two points, the front and rear springs. The roof and roof-members, with the floor and floor-members, carry the stresses.

The first result of this new construction, obviously, is great safety under all conditions.

Great comfort follows inevitably. The center of gravity is low; passengers step directly onto the floor of the car; and the weight of all passengers is poised between the axles. There is no "back-seat" ride.

Soft transverse springs minimize the "up-and-down" motion, the jounces, the bumps of the road that rob riding of comfort. We have no hesitancy in saying that this car, with its smooth V-12 power, offers a new rhythm of motoring. The gliding ride results naturally from its design.

Plan to spend at least an hour at the exhibit. A new understanding of the motor car awaits you. Arrange for a demonstration. Performance is as refreshing as appearance.

A Fortune Spent–

in improvements by Carson Pirie Scott & Co.
–for one reason–GREATER SERVICE!

A great Chicago department store moves onward. New improvements—about a million and one half dollars being spent—mark a new sales and service tempo at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. and restate the faith of this great store in the mounting buying power of Chicago.

Today, modern new escalators glide swiftly and comfortably from floor to floor. Wider aisles and finer displays invite interest and suggest a sense of personal service that brings customers back again and again to buy.

Since 1865 Carson Pirie Scott & Co. has been a synonym of service. Sales and prestige have been won as a result of knowing the buying mood of Chicago. Carson Pirie Scott & Co., with close to a million square feet of floor space, relies on the true value of its merchandise and service. But equally, it relies on newspaper space to awaken the buyers' interest.

How to Sell Chicago

It is highly significant that 74% of all the money this great store spent for newspaper advertising during the first nine months of this year was for space in the Chicago Tribune. In the same period Carson Pirie Scott & Co. placed 279% more linage in the Chicago Tribune than in the second Chicago newspaper on its list.

This store increased its advertising in the Chicago Tribune from 538,036 lines in 1924 to 701,262 lines in 1934. And increased the Tribune's proportion of its linage in all Chicago newspapers in the same period from 33% to 54%. During the first nine months of this year the Tribune's proportion was 67%.

Such facts reveal not only concentrated buying power but how such buying power can be tapped. They demonstrate the potency of the Chicago Tribune. Carson Pirie Scott & Co. knows from long experience how thoroughly the Chicago Tribune influences the city of Chicago and its suburbs.

To Boost Your Sales Curve

With a city and suburban daily circulation of 649,000, the Tribune reaches practically as many metropolitan Chicago families as the next two Chicago newspapers combined. It covers 244,000 more Chicago and suburban families than the second newspaper —a plus equivalent to a city of a million people.

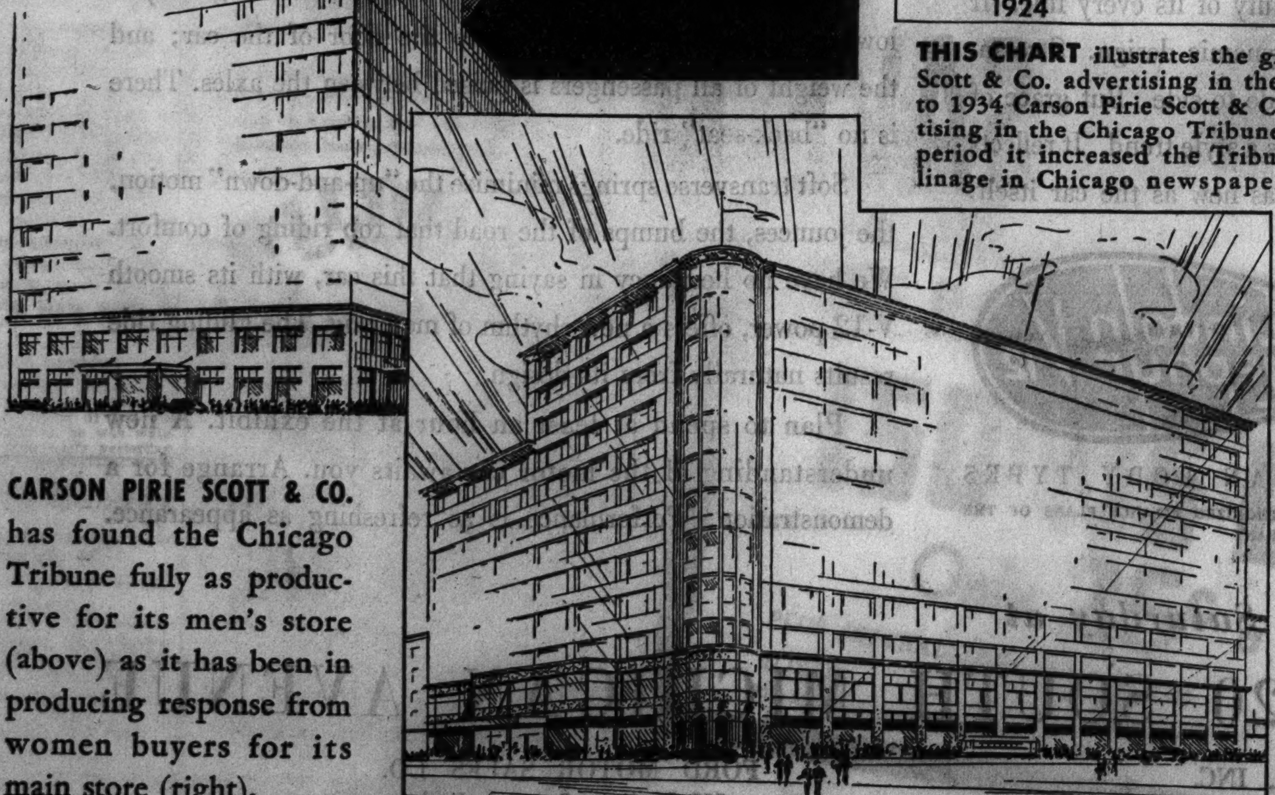
There is no major market in America more easy to sell in big volume than Chicago. Regardless of the type of product you sell, you can build active dealer support and consumer demand through Chicago Tribune advertising.

Carson Pirie Scott & Co. is but one of Chicago's leading institutions who know the key to selling in Chicago is consistent advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

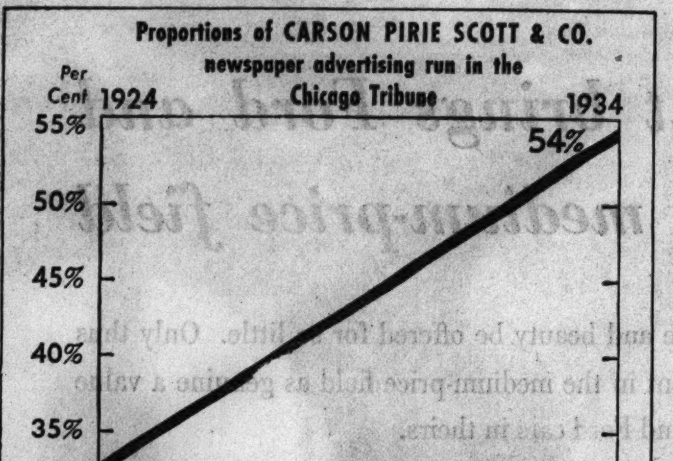
Department stores as a group place more advertising in the Chicago Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. The Tribune leads all Chicago newspapers in volume of retail, general, automotive and financial advertising.

Why not get the facts about today's selling opportunities in the Chicago market? Ask a Tribune representative—or your advertising agency —to give you the complete story.

READER INTEREST is essential to advertising response. Chicago merchants put more money in the Chicago Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper because it reaches 60% more city and suburban families daily and 42% more on Sunday than any other Chicago newspaper.

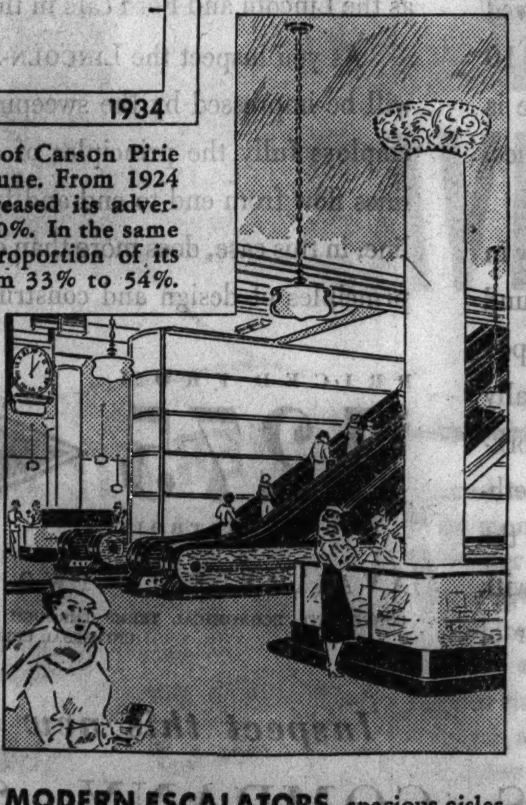


CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO. has found the Chicago Tribune fully as productive for its men's store (above) as it has been in producing response from women buyers for its main store (right).



THIS CHART illustrates the growth of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. advertising in the Tribune. From 1924 to 1934 Carson Pirie Scott & Co. increased its advertising in the Chicago Tribune by 30%. In the same period it increased the Tribune's proportion of its linage in Chicago newspapers from 33% to 54%.

In 1924 Carson Pirie Scott & Co. placed 30% more linage in the Chicago Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. In 1934 the Tribune's lead over the second newspaper was 133%.



MODERN ESCALATORS, spacious aisles and modern displays simplify the handling of the thousands of customers who trade daily at Carson Pirie Scott & Co's great stores.

PREDICTS SAFER TRAFIC IF CITY'S TIME IS CHANGED

Ald. Lindell Backs Plan After Research.

The ordinance for adoption of eastern standard time in Chicago, which comes before the city council for final action on Monday, will prove a powerful influence in the reduction of Chicago trafic accidents, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], vice chairman of the council's committee on trafic and public safety, said yesterday after he had completed a study of the committee's accident records.

"I went impartially into the records because I was undecided on the question of changing Chicago's time," Ald. Lindell said. "I found that eastern standard time, by providing an extra hour of daylight during the afternoon trafic rush, would reduce accidents for the rush period 29 to 48 per cent. This has convinced me. It seems to me that any alderman concerned with lowering trafic fatalities ought to support the time measure for this reason alone.

Goes to Files for Comparisons.

"By comparing rush hour accidents under summer daylight time with those under central time, I found that eastern time, bringing extra daylight, should accomplish the following monthly reductions in such accidents: October, 29 per cent; November, 33 per cent; December, 48 per cent; January, 43 per cent; February, 40 per cent, and March, 30 per cent, an average of 37 per cent for the six months.

"This is during the hours when the people are going home from work, when they are fatigued, and when they are less alert. Daylight at such a time is invaluable to motorists and pedestrians alike."

Massen Takes Similar View.

Ald. Lindell's position is similar to that taken by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the trafic committee; Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court, and engineers of the Chicago Motor club.

Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], who introduced the eastern time ordinance in the council, said yesterday that his study of the legal aspects of the time change shows that the city's law department has twice ruled that the council cannot order a referendum on the time change. The third such ruling came from Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes last week.

In 1919, Ald. Cronson said, an opinion approved by Samuel A. Ettelson, then corporation counsel, declared that the city council cannot order the issue of changing time to be placed on the ballot.

Question Raised in Past.

The council in that instance had asked for an ordinance which would require such a referendum, after the Association of Commerce had urged the adoption of eastern time.

In 1920 a second opinion, drafted by Leon Hornstein, assistant corporation counsel, and approved by Frank S. Righeimer, acting corporation counsel, reaffirmed this position. "The only way of submitting the question of daylight saving to a popular vote is to proceed under the public policy act of 1901," the opinion said. This act requires a petition of registered voters to place such a question on the ballot.

COMMUNITY FUND GETS $1,000 GIFT FROM MUNDELEIN

A gift of $1,000 from Cardinal Mundelein, together with other large pledges, yesterday brought the total of the 1935 Community Fund to $1,950,000. The goal is $3,200,000.

A $500 pledge from Mayor Kelly was announced at the final report meeting of the individual gifts division of the campaign, held at noon in the Chicago club.

The division, which has turned in 1,900 of the 2,000 pledge cards assigned to it, raising more than $1,500,000 of its $1,654,000 quota, was disbanded formally at the luncheon, although workers holding the unreported cards will continue working on them, said James D. Cunningham, chairman.

Forty-five per cent of the individual subscriptions procured this year were new subscriptions, Philip D. Armour, general chairman of the campaign, told the workers in expressing appreciation of their work.

Appeals Second Conviction After Auto Deaths of Two

Ernest Schneider, 30 years old, twice convicted of manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident on Dec. 23, 1933, in which John A. Kochanneck and Nathan Cohen were fatally injured, yesterday filed with the Illinois Supreme court an appeal from the 1 to 14 year prison sentence which was imposed after his second trial. Schneider alleges in his petition that improper evidence was admitted in the trial. His first conviction, which brought a life sentence, was reversed on an appeal to the state Supreme court.

SLUGGED BY TWO GUNMEN.

Jack Pollack, 43 years old, owner of a printing concern at 525 South Dearborn street, was slugged and robbed of $63 and his watch by two gunmen as he was walking at 520 Plymouth court early yesterday.

OCTOBER TRAFIC TOLL IS 98, HIGH MARK FOR YEAR

9 More Deaths Than in September.

Automobile accidents took a heavier toll of lives during October in Cook county than during any month so far this year, figures compiled by the coroner's office showed yesterday. The number of auto fatalities for the month was 98, an increase of nine over the month of September. During October of last year 133 persons were killed in automobile accidents.

For the first ten months of the year, however, the number of auto deaths was 802 as compared with 1,030 deaths during the same period in 1934, the coroner said. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 628 persons had been killed and 14,443 injured by automobiles within the Chicago city limits since Jan. 1.

Woman's Auto Kills Widow.

Mrs. Jennie Carucio, 60 years old, 1136 Oakdale avenue, a widow, was fatally injured in Lincoln avenue near George street yesterday by an automobile driven by Mrs. Regina Krohn, 58 years old, 4725 North Malden avenue.

Mrs. Carucio was returning home from St. Alphonsus church at Southport and Wellington avenues when she was struck. Mrs. Krohn was taken to St. Joseph's hospital suffering from shock.

Frank Jerf, colored, 40 years old, 4154 Cottage Grove avenue, died in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Oct. 23 when he was struck at Drexel boulevard and 47th street by an automobile driven by Herman Hawkinson, 25 years old, 3317 64th street.

Dies After Car Hits Fence.

John Roswell, 40 years old, 5426 North avenue, died in the West Suburban hospital last night of injuries suffered Tuesday when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into an iron fence after it sideswiped another car in front of 2134 North Harlem avenue, Elmwood Park.

Harold C. Russell of Oswego, a state sales tax auditor, died yesterday in St. Charles hospital, Aurora, of pneumonia that followed injuries in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

Two Dead and 2 Dying After Train Hits Auto

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Leslie Hawkins, 40, and Allen Dunn, 60, were killed, and Dunn's wife and Clarence Shute were so seriously injured they are not expected to live, when a northbound Illinois Central passenger train struck their automobile near Pinckneyville today.

DAIRY FARMERS SIGN NEW PACT WITH DEALERS

Base Price to Producer on Evaporated Quotation.

The Pure Milk association, marketing agency for 15,000 producing dairymen in the Chicago area, announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached with the Associated Milk Dealers for a new price scale to be paid for milk delivered to the distributors.

This price scale will be based on the evaporated milk price, which is announced monthly by the federal department of agriculture. For a fixed percentage of his established base [the farmer's quota each month] the producer will receive 50 cents a hundred pounds [46.5 quarts] more than the evaporated milk price.

Penalties for Surpluses.

For the amount delivered over the fixed percentage, which is 90 per cent for November to 85 for December, the farmer will be penalized. He will have the total return for all his milk reduced by three-fourths of a cent a hundred pounds multiplied by each 1 per cent delivered over the fixed percentage. Thus, if in November he delivers 94 per cent, his price for the whole will be reduced 3 cents a hundred pounds.

Officials of the PMA estimated that under the agreement the farmers will receive $1.81 a hundredweight [3.89 cents a quart] for the 90 per cent of base in November, the evaporated price standing at $1.31. This compares with $1.79 [3.84 cents a quart] in August, when the retail delivered price was 11 cents a quart, and an estimated $1.54 [3.3 cents a quart] in September and $1.70 [3.6 cents a quart] in November, with the retail delivered price at the current 10 cents.

Retain Right to Withdraw.

The agreement is to hold for ten months. PMA members, however, have the right to withdraw from the association between Nov. 15 and Nov. 30 if they are dissatisfied with the plan.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN GOES ON AND JUDGES LOCK UP MORE CARS

Edward Pipola, 3024 Broad street, a student at Crane Technical High school, allowed Judge Eugene Holland, in the Safety court, to impound his automobile rather than pay a $100 fine for passing a street car on the left side.

Frank Talaca, 18 years old, 2004 Throop street, arraigned before Judge J. M. Braude in the Boys' court on a charge of disorderly conduct after police had found a pair of lead knuckles in his car, agreed to have the car demolished. He told the judge he paid $7.50 for it.

Judge Holland sentenced Elmer Robinson, 24 years old, 710 West 63d street, to ten days in the Bridewell on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He fined Chick Calabrese, 22 years old, 1447 West 63d street, $100, telling Calabrese, who was sober at the time of the arrest, that he was as guilty as Robinson for allowing the latter to drive in an intoxicated

APE WHEEZES FOR SCIENCE AS DOCTORS CHEER

Light Thrown on Cause of Whooping Cough.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

More than 150 members of the Central Society for Clinical Research, meeting in the Drake hotel, were considerably diverted yesterday when a colleague, to prove that he produced whooping cough in chimpanzees by means of virus-free bacteria, played a phonograph record reproducing a chimpanzee's cough.

It is the first time that a record has been made to support a scientific theory, according to the experimenter and speaker, Dr. Gerald S. Shibley, associate professor of medicine at Western Reserve university, Cleveland.

That "Excellent Final Whoop."

Ignoring the amused glee with which his chimpanzee soloist was received, Dr. Shibley declared as the record neared the finish: "Now listen for the excellent final whoop." He was rewarded with loud applause and laughter.

Dr. Shibley's experiments, requiring four years of work, throw new light on a dispute of long standing. Medical men have long debated whether whooping cough was caused by a virus [an invisible "something" about which little is known], or by the living micro-organism or bacterium which Dr. Shibley called the "bacillus hemophilus pertussis," or just plain "bug."

Those who blamed bacteria for the cough were unable previously to prove their theory because they could not grow the bacteria in such a way that they kept their potency through various subcultures necessary to prepare them for injection in experiments. This difficulty has been overcome by Dr. Shibley, he said, by the use of a special type of culture which includes human blood.

After Dr. Shibley perfected this culture, he spent long months training five young chimpanzees to hold out their hands for blood counts, to cough on slides, and to open their mouths so throat cultures could be made.

Masked Attendants Stand By.

In the laboratory attendants wearing masks and sterile gloves and gowns waited. They sprayed bacteria grown over a two year period near a chimpanzee's head. He then developed the symptoms man develops in whooping cough, proving, according to Dr. Shibley, that only the bacteria cause whooping cough.

To obtain the phonograph record a chimpanzee was placed in a crate with a window in it, and taken to a radio broadcasting studio. For seven hours Dr. Shibley and two assistants waited for him to cough. When he went to sleep, he coughed to perfection.

Yesterday's meeting, the society's eighth annual one, will continue today.

Youth Guilty of Beating His Baby Brother to Death

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—After considering the case for three hours, a jury today found Sylvester Lancaric, 17 years old, a former altar boy, guilty of assault in the second degree in connection with the death of his 3 year old brother, John, whom he beat, kicked, and tied to a bedpost in their home last May.

Past Is Linked to Present in Barnes History

Doubts Western Civilization Can Survive.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"The History of Western Civilization," by Harry Elmer Barnes. [Harcourt-Brace.]

MANKIND has advanced in 50,000 years from cave life to the modern city [which, incidentally, has been surpassed in some respects by cities which have perished] but the question which is asked in this book is whether westerners, particularly, will be able to go ahead or whether we will be extinguished as another geological failure.

Prof. Barnes, who is a journalist and teacher, lecturer on the history of civilization in the New School for Social Research in New York, at the end of his treatise quotes Dr. Harlow Shapley, astrophysicist, on the relative virtues of man and the cockroach in the line of survival. Prof. Barnes says he is not a pessimist, but he seems to agree with Dr. Shapley that the cockroach, who has survived 200 million years of cosmic changes, has a better chance than man, with his restless, experimental mind and his refusal to put his native intelligence to work on the sound knowledge that is available.

Mankind, according to Dr. Barnes' conclusion, is still pre-scientific in thinking and in life interests, still moved by primitive supernaturalism, lack of precise and logical thinking, credulity and ignorance of scientific methods and results. Individuals have placed knowledge at his disposal but socially he will not use it. There is only a fair chance, this writer thinks, for successful survival. Politically, he thinks, this chance lies in the control by an intelligent minority who have become social minded. Democracy is not a law of nature, like evolution, but must be rebuilt decade after decade.

Prof. Barnes anticipates critics who would say that this is not a scholarly work of history, but primarily journalistic in outlook and method, by referring to the "pedantic futility" of many such scholarly works. What he has attempted here with courage is a perspective of men in the western world from the old stone age to the New Deal and the latest implications of science. It is history taken out of its old departments, where ages and periods were rigidly marked off from each other, and presented in the light of all the sciences.

Not kings and battles and dates, but the changes in human life as seen through biology, archeology, anthropology, sociology, and other sciences. It is the sort of thing that is needed by the general reader and all non-historians at least. It is heavily documented and has received the scrutiny of sixty specialists in advance of publication. The specialists now may look over their fence and get a glimmer of what it all means.

One thing that is seen in this vast perspective of man's sorry and glorious history is that ruling customs and institutions come out of slow processes, with many threads reaching back into the unknown past. They pass as slowly. Rome never fell. It lives today. Ages do not end in the neat way that the school histories have it. There is always what Prof. Barnes calls "the hangover," the momentum of habit and custom and fears. He speaks of "the great fact of the continuity of history," and through his picture of the economic history of the middle ages one may trace the way to the "new capitalism" of Henry Ford.

The world war is treated from the standpoint of disillusion. It advanced dictatorship rather than democracy. No doctrin of progress is held here, but only change. There are no modern times, only sharp changes. The old and the new exist side by side. There is the advance of the few and the "cultural lag" of the many.

The first volume gives a splendid vista of civilizations that have long passed over the horizon, but the effects of which are still with us in many unrecognized ways. He gives a new view of the old Gallic culture, the Byzantine empire and feudalism. The second volume seems more like a social treatise from the liberal viewpoint. His summarization, however, of twentieth century trends in science and religion, philosophy, education, literature, art, and music, is worth reading many times. One of the best features of this "new history" is the chapter recapitulations in which the changes recorded are related back to their origins. His social philosophy is thickly interlarded in the second volume. He regards Karl Marx, in a way, as outmoded as Adam Smith and Herbert Spencer.

"The parroting of Marx," he writes, "is as indefensible as the reverent citing of Smith and Spencer by the 'rugged individualists.'" A special section is given to the Russian experiment.

"If capitalism is to endure," he concludes, "it must make provision for safe and decent working conditions, for an income sufficient to make each self-supporting adult an effective purchaser, and for sufficient leisure to produce a broad need for consumer goods."

War in Africa Brings Volumes About Ethiopia

Publishers in a Race to Describe Country.

WHEN war seemed imminent between Ethiopia and Italy publishers searched feverishly for writers who had been in Abyssinia long enough to tell something about that prospective front page subject. Out of date books were revamped for 1935 consumption and in some instances renamed. Now, with fighting under way, the fireside war correspondent has an imposing list of books on Ethiopia to choose from.

Perhaps one of the most authentic and entertaining is "Abyssinia on the Eve," by Ladislas Farago [Putnam]. The author is a newspaper man sent to Ethiopia when things began to look promising from a war standpoint to the cable editor of a Berlin paper. Farago's picture of Africa's last independent nation [with the exception of Liberia] is a vivid one.

Dr. Ernest Work, professor of history at a small American college, who spent considerable time in Ethiopia as a governmental educational adviser, discusses the present war from the diplomatic standpoint in his "Ethiopia, a Pawn in European Diplomacy" [Macmillan].

The author analyzes the part played by the European powers in the history of this strange little nation, and the result is a source book of great value to any editor or person interested in world affairs. It has seventeen maps.

Carleton S. Coon, anthropologist and author of "The Riffian," has written an entertaining account of a Harvard expedition to Abyssinia and Arabia in "Measuring Ethiopia and Flight Into Arabia" [Little-Brown-Atlantic Monthly]. As the journey was made in 1933, there is no war background to the author's lively account of his travels. But his 1935 comments on the African situation today are instructive and illuminating. His book is one of the most readable of the Ethiopian crop.

"Burners of Men," by Marcel Griaule [Lippincott], the story of a French scientific expedition across part of Ethiopia, which won the 1934 French Prix Gringoire, fails to live up to the startling jacket and enthusiastic publisher's blurbs of promised thrills and terrors extraordinary within.

The author may appeal to the awarders of the Prix Gringoire, but we doubt if any Yankee jury would pin a medal of honor on the breast of M. Griaule, for this translated work is baffling to the ordinary American. There is little coherence, only a thin narrative and practically no personalities—never is a member of the expedition mentioned by name. The book is an odd jumble of comments, weirdly worded descriptions and quotations from the childlike dialog of the natives.

A new edition of "Abyssinia Today," by Col. C. F. Rey, has been published by Lippincott under the title "The Real Abyssinia." The author, who spent ten years in Ethiopia, is a recognized authority on that country.

Some of the other recent up-to-date books about Ethiopia are:

"Abyssinia and Italy," a brief handbook on the present crisis prepared by the information section of the Royal Institute of National Affairs [Oxford university].

A revised edition of "The Last of Free Africa," by Gordon MacCreagh [Appleton-Century].

A reprint of "The Abyssinian at Home," by C. H. Walker [Macmillan].

Incidentally, a very short book, called "War Tomorrow: Will We Keep Out?" published by the Foreign Policy association, makes it look as if we mightn't. A.C.

This Biography Has Frankness That Intrigues

'Old Jules' Wins Atlantic Monthly Prize.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Mrs. Astor's Horse," by Stanley Walker. [Stokes.] Published on Monday.

"If This Be I," by Margaret Deland [Appleton-Century.] Published on Monday.

"The Longest Years," by Sigrid Undset [Knopf]. Published Oct. 22.

THE biennial prize of $5,000 offered by the Atlantic Monthly for a book of nonfiction was awarded this year to "Old Jules," the life story of a Nebraska pioneer, Jules Sandoz, a Swiss immigrant in the '80's who took up a claim on government land, who lived to become almost a monumental belligerent figure in a district torn by wars between cattlemen and settlers, battles between settlers and lawyers, and conflict among the settlers themselves.

His story is told by his daughter . . . his story and her own . . . and the biography is an impressively honest portrait. Old Jules was, according to the standards of most readers [and certainly all gentle ones] a fiend out of hell and his daughter does not hesitate to paint in the fire-snorting nostrils, but she does it without sentimentality. She might so easily have gone all soft and squashy about his cruelty. Instead, she makes it of the same heroic size as his courage and his physical strength.

He started his life in the west with a tragedy—he fell sixty feet to the bottom of the well he had been digging when his two companions playfully slacked and jerked the rope which was hauling him up. Alone, with a supperating foot, he crawled to the roadside for help and awoke in the Fort Robinson hospital to threaten to kill Dr. Walter Reed if he amputated the useless foot. For months Jules just barely didn't die and then he just barely lived and finally he was well, but a cripple for life.

Deeply in love with Rosalie, who refused to leave Zurich to share his life in the unknown land, he married one woman after another—any one who would have him. Estelle, who refused to build the morning fires—"Jules closed her mouth with the flat of of his long, muscular hand, dumped their supply of flour and sugar to the old sow and pigs . . . and left her forever." Henriette, a Boston governess, a friend of his sister's who stood him as long as she could and finally went insane. Emilia, a modiste, who came to America to marry him and two weeks after the wedding ran away one night and escaped his tyranny forever.

And finally Mary, who was to have met her brother, Jacob, in Rushville, and who met only Jules, who promptly took her to his house and when her brother did not appear persuaded her to marry him. She turned over to him her savings, a hundred dollars, and with them her life. She bore him six children out of hatred. Of them the author of "Old Jules" was the oldest girl, and she writes of her father angered by her baby cries "towering and bearded in the lamplight," whipping her "until she lay blue and trembling as a terrorized small animal."

And yet Jules had a courage rare even in his kind . . . he did not hesitate a moment to shoot through his hand when a snake bit him and he found that cutting away the flesh was not effective, he acted as obstetrician when babies were born far from a doctor, and he feared no living or dead man or creature. Old Jules was, in fact, what the heroes of so many earthy novels have been, and his biographer has made him live.

"Old Jules" has such obvious honesty in every sentence that it is strangely intriguing. Perhaps no one is ever so thoroughly known by his admirers as he is by those who hate him. It is refreshing to read a book written with an honesty so impelling.

* *

"Mrs. Astor's Horse" Is Book of Daffiness.

While Old Jules was living the last of his braggart, pig headed life in Nebraska, public opinion was being molded and the public was being entertained by a series of "daffy didoes." Stanley Walker, author of "The Night Club Era," has written twenty-three chapters on "daffiness" and, as Mr. Nunnally Johnson says in his foreword, "When a man sets out to write about daffiness it goes without saying that he has hit on one of the richest deposits of literary pay dirt turned up since Gutenberg carved out his first font of type."

Mr. Walker has chosen probably the prize title of the year for his tasty tales of tacky taste. He calls his book "Mrs. Astor's Horse," and explains, "It was in the late nineteenth century that the gilded, overstuffed magnificence of Mrs. Astor led the peasants to say of any one who was rather ostentatiously dolled up, 'She is dressed up like Mrs. Astor's plush horse.'" Ostentation, fantastic beyond belief, fills Mr. Walker's highly amusing pages. He has a gift for telling a tale gayly, and his material is full of amazing facts.

"Mrs. Astor's Horse" may not be literature, but it is grand entertainment. Some of the chapters are immoderately better than others, but all generate a horsy hee-haw at what utter fools we mortals be.

Margaret Deland Writes of Childhood.

Before Old Jules slapped everybody down in Nebraska, and long before Mrs. Astor was Mrs. Astor at all, a little 6 year old girl had her picture taken in Allegheny, Pa. From that picture, over seventy years later, there grew a delightful book of unconventional reminiscences. That little girl was destined to become a widely popular novelist, Margaret Deland. She was "Maggie" at the age of 6, and it is Maggie and her first contacts with abstract ideas that Mrs. Deland writes of in "If This Be I." Maggie discovering war, patriotism, love, law, justice, compassion, honor, death, truth, fear, gossip, savagery, God, vanity, nature. . . . Maggie, adjusting herself to God and the civil war and her fellow humans as most children adjust themselves to religion and conflict and society, but doing so in the fashion of the 1860's.

The author of "The Awakening of Helena Richie" looks upon "Maggie" with wondering questioning, "Am I Maggie or Margaret?"

* *

Sigrid Undset Uses Her Childhood in Novel.

In the eighties another little girl destined to fame as a writer lived her childhood years in Christiania, Norway, and in Trondjhem, and that little girl is the subject of other unconventional reminiscences, "The Longest Years." Sigrid Undset, the first woman to receive the Nobel award for literature [1928], has already written factually about her childhood in "Marbacka" [a lovely book!]. In "The Longest Years," published last week, she uses that rich and colorful material in what she calls a novel, but what is really an embroidered memory of her own youthful days before the tragedy of her father's death when she was 11. She calls her heroine Ingvild. Her father's name was Ingvald. He was, as is the hero of this "novel," a well known archæologist. The little heroine who was so old for her years mentally, but so humanly youthful, is a projection of Sigrid Undset herself.

The book has, because of that life blood, a touching, tender quality as well as the strength of reality.

Three Novels of Lincoln Published in One Volume

"Great Captain," by Honoré Morrow [Morrow], brings together in one volume her three popular novels about Lincoln, "Forever Free," "With Malice Toward None," and "The Last Full Measure." This omnibus edition has a preface by William Lyon Phelps who declares that these "three novels on the domestic and public life of Abraham Lincoln are founded on patient and scrupulously accurate research studies."

THESE AUTHORS PRESENT NEW BOOKS

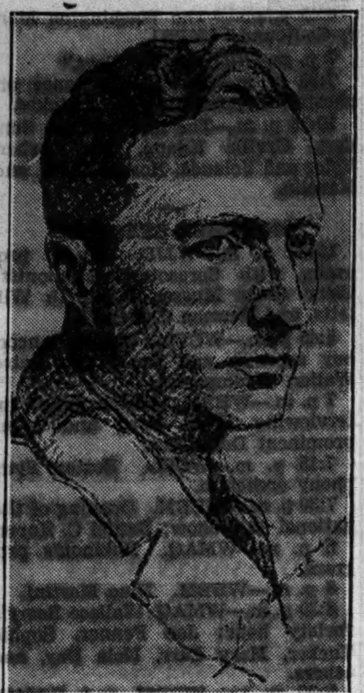
Mari Sandoz is the winner of the Atlantic Monthly $5,000 nonfiction prize with her stimulatingly honest life of her father, "Old Jules."

Sigrid Undset, first woman to be awarded the Nobel prize for literature, has written an autobiographical novel of her childhood, "The Longest Years."



Stanley Walker is the author of a hilarious volume on American bad taste, "Mrs. Astor's Horse." Three of these books were published this week. All are reviewed today.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

TO David Lamson the very thing happened that overtakes so many heroes of detective fiction. He was accused, tried, convicted of murdering his wife, brutally and without any conclusive reason. Now he has been remanded for a new trial with every chance of acquittal, but he spent thirteen long months in the condemned row at San Quentin prison and what he learned there he has put into a gallant book called "We Who Are About to Die" [Scribner's].

He writes without bitterness, he judges without animosity, and the trained mind and facile pen he took with him to prison have given substance to what he endured and watched other men enduring in that tragic backwater. He does not write as if he were sorry for himself, just once does he claim innocence, but he tells the stories of criminals, petty and vicious, as if he understood them all.

He wants to do something about prisons but doesn't know just what and in this lively description of prison life, prison talk, and prison conditions he seems to be feeling a way toward some punishment which will correct, not brutalize, and fit itself more exactly to its crime.

The book ends with the text of the decision of the California Supreme court which granted David Lamson a new trial. After reading this description of the possible crime of which he was accused and what his book, by indirection, tells you of himself, the story of imaginary murder trials will seem less exaggerated. For that such a man could have been brought to face such a situation is frankly incredible. The book is one that ought to be read both for itself and for the light it throws on one of civilization's most bitter problems.

Two old faithfuls have stories out this week. S. S. Van Dine and H. C. Bailey. In "The Garden Murder Case" [Scribner's] Philo Vance wages a vigorous campaign against unrecognizable murder and demonstrates how much he knows about horse-racing, a sport which seems to have had a humanizing effect. H. C. Bailey "In the Sullen Sky Mystery" [C. C.] deserts Mr. Fortune and turns to his second flight sleuth, the psalm-singing. Joshua Clunk, whose devious ways are puzzling if effective.

And for those who cheered loudly "The Deadly Dowager," Edwin Greenwood has produced "The Fair Devil" [Doubleday, Doran] in which he proves that it's just as easy to be terrible when young as at an advanced age. It is funny in the more ponderous British manner but just a little too incredible to seem true. To use the same formula twice with continued success is not easy.

Frank Morley Pens Gripping Adventure Tale

London Publisher Writes of Young Americans.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.] — Many publishers are authors, but the directors of the London firm of Faber & Faber must be the most authorly of any in the world. The senior partner, Geoffrey Faber, writes books about publishing; T. S. Eliot is one of the chief influences in both poetry and criticism at present living; an ex-director is George Blake, the novelist, and Frank Morley [brother of your own Christopher] not only expounds Charles Lamb but produces now and again adventure books which revive memories of Marryat.

He has a new tale, "War Paint," almost ready for publication, and this goes on being lively and exciting from the first page to the last. His heroes are two young Americans, one from New England and the other from Maryland, and their adventures begin upon the first page, while they are in London, and end again in England with pleasant romance, while all the intervening pages deal with life at sea and thrilling exploits in North America with the fur traders of a century ago.

Mr. Morley wastes no words. He never psychologizes or sophisticates his characters. He tells his story. One cannot leave it, for the author writes for boys of all ages and knows that what boys of all ages need is unadorned adventure. Lest he should be thought too simple he adds some notes justifying various episodes or mathematical problems; but the notes are all at the end of the book and spoil none of the sport while the book reading is in progress.

But Mr. Morley will have to look to some at least of his laurels, for London publishing has received a new recruit in the person of Philip Guedalla. Mr. Guedalla has joined the firm of Methuen as supplementary literary adviser and "scout," and it is hoped that his wide acquaintance with the authors of what are called "serious" books [to distinguish them from novels] will bring to the Methuen list a new richness in every field.

Tells of Adventures in Jungle Hunt for Museum Specimens

Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mammals and reptiles at the New York zoölogical park, who has to his credit several interesting books of adventures in jungle hunting for specimens, has collaborated with William Bridges, curator of publications in the same zoo, in a new volume of tropical animal research. "Snake-Hunters' Holiday [Appleton-Century], however, is more Bridges than Ditmars; in fact, Ditmars merely introduces his young collaborator and then turns the book over to him, winding it up with a few brief comments in the last chapter.

Bridges tells the interesting experiences he had in their search for vampire bats and the bushmaster [the new world's deadliest serpent] in Trinidad and British Guiana. Bridges, a Gotham newspaper man, writes a lively narrative.

Gaar Williams' Folks Live in Swank Album

"The most amusing book of the year" is what practically everyone will say when they see Gaar Williams' "Among the Folks in History." It looks exactly like an old-fashioned plush family album, clasps and all, which are made from an old die from which the de luxest clasps of the old albums of the plush horse era were made. The die was dug out of obscurity by the publisher of the book, who also had the paper on which the reproductions are made as well as the end papers copied from an old family album.

Before he died last June Gaar Williams, beloved cartoonist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, chose the 166 plates to be included in the album and finished sixteen word sketches which make up the book. As John T. McCutcheon points out in his introduction, the drawings are more than merely amusing records of the gay nineties. They are practically source material, for every object that Mr. Williams ever drew existed in fact and he could name the original of almost any "antique" in his pictures. Many of them he possessed himself, for he was an ardent collector of the late Gen. Grant and early Pullman periods of household Americana, and his own home was filled with pricelessly amusing pieces.

This morning at 10:30 in the book section of Marshall Field & Co. there will be unveiled a replica of one of the rooms in the album, furnished from Mr. Williams' collection. Mr. McCutcheon will preside.

In Richmond, Ind., Mr. Williams' birthplace, an original "Folks in History" interior will be established in the Wayne County museum as a permanent memorial to Gaar Williams.

Richard Halliburton Back from Ethiopian Journey

Richard Halliburton, just back from Addis Ababa and what he calls "vagabonding" [surely ironically, for he travels as de luxe as a movie magnate], owns an amazing map which, he says, is only one of many widely distributed by Italy. It shows Abyssinia already conquered and a part of the new Roman empire. Mr. Halliburton's next contribution to the literature of jaunting is playfully called "Seven League Boots." [It will be published Nov. 15.]

Francis Hackett Reveals New Works on Visit to City

Francis Hackett, author of "Henry VIII," "Francis the First," etc., is the week's distinguished literary visitor. His visit is by way of being a homecoming, for Francis Hackett first made himself known as a writer and removed from Chicago the stigma of being purely "hog butcher to the world" by editing an internationally famous little literary supplement on the old Chicago Evening Post from 1909 to 1911. He was 26 years old then and smart for his age, but no smarter for his age than he is today.

For, although he talks about being made milder with the years, his native Irish wit and his erudition have been polished by the years into new and sparkling facets, and at 52 he has an urbane but even sharper pen and tongue than the one that made him a gleefully read critic at 26.

This trip is also by way of being a holiday, his first in many years, he says, what with the infinitude of research that the biographies demanded and the endless actual labor of writing and proof reading. "Francis the First" was five years in the making. "Henry VIII," six—a year for each wife! And before he came back to this country from his native Ireland he finished the first of a trilogy of novels. It is called "The Green Lion" it will appear in the spring. It deals with Ireland in the 19th century. The second volume will be called "The Galloping Horse" and it will have America as its background. The third, "The Red Dragon," will return to Ireland.

World War Rebellion.

"The Green Corn Rebellion," by William Cunningham [Vanguard], is based on the abortive and probably forgotten uprising of Oklahoma farmers against conscription and against America's entrance into the world war.

CHICAGO'S POOR MOURN AT BIER OF DR. MYERS

Hundreds Pay Tribute to Beloved Pastor.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The doors of the old Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue, were open yesterday, as they have been for the last 40 years, to the poor of Chicago.

This time, however, the thousands of shabby persons who passed through the doors had not come for bread and soup, as they have done since 1895. Instead, they came to see for the last time the Rev. Dr. Johnston Myers, who started the church breadline in 1895, seasoned it with courage, kept the hungry on as church members and declared "there are no bums in my world."

The Poor File Past.

From 9 a. m. until funeral time at 2 p. m. the body of Dr. Myers, who died last Tuesday at the age of 75 after a long illness, lay in state while the poor and the dirty and the unemployed of Chicago filed past. Before his death Dr. Myers had requested this, pointing out that the many poor persons in his once wealthy parish could not afford carfare to a point outside the neighborhood.

Above the casket was a giant floral piece of lilies and red roses, the gift of John D. Rockefeller Sr., many times a benefactor to the church. But for this splendor and for the towering mass of other floral tributes the sad-eyed mourners had no eyes. They looked instead at the benevolent face of Dr. Myers. A wan mother came by with her two children. Dr. Myers, she said later, clutching her red shawl around her head, had been "my only friend."

Their Grief Is Real.

A gray uniformed postman, his lether pack on his back and a bundle of letters in one hand, placed his cap over his heart and turned away, awkwardly wiping tears from his eyes.

"Sure, sure, and he was a father to the poor," cried aloud a shriveled little woman, her face convulsing as she paused before the casket. "May he rest—may he rest in heaven."

"For 40 years I heard him every Sunday," wept a ragged old octogenarian. "When you come to sum up life it doesn't mean much unless you spend it like that man."

"He Made a Man of Me!"

A lethery-faced man, his gray shirt darned until it looked like ragged embroidery, gazed intently down into the casket. "I knew him first in 1919," he commented. "He took me in and fed me and made a man out of me, and then he got me a job."

And so they came. Few were well dressed. Few were even warmly dressed. The women wore coats that were short and thin and trimmed with fur that was matted with age. The men wore round-toed relief shoes and trousers that were patched and ill fitting.

They came in a never ending line, and no one hurried them on. Some knelt at the casket to pray. Silently they plodded up one aile and down the other, which as they came away became a weeping lane.

"He Belonged to the People."

Dr. Myers' daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Hart of New York City, stood silently at the rear of the church, her eyes filling with tears. "It's just like dad would have liked it," she declared. "He belonged to the people."

This thought that Dr. Myers belonged to his people was brought out again and again in the simple funeral service to the vast congregation that so filled the church that even the ledges of the stained glass windows were used as seats.

There were no elegiac phrases at this service, nor was there loud lament. Instead, friends of Dr. Myers talked simply and naturally of the man they had known. The women's choir, known as the "breadline singers," sang such familiar hymns as "Just as I Am," "The Home Land," and "Not Half Has Ever Been Told."

"Johnston Myers not only had faith in God but in man," said Dr. A. M. McDonald, secretary of the Baptist executive council, in making the funeral address. "With him there were no bums, no hobos, no down and outers. They were all 'my men.'"

Burial was in Oak Woods cemetery.

MOTHER WINS CHILD; FATHER GONE WITH HER

Custody of Alberta Gray, 4 years old, was awarded yesterday to her mother, Mrs. Alberta Lieber Gray of Thornbrook, Ind., by Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort. Mrs. Gray did not receive her daughter yesterday because the child had been taken out of the state by Alberta's father, William B. Gray, 2748 Lake View avenue.

Mrs. Gray won a divorce in June, 1934, charging her husband with cruelty. Last week she filed a petition alleging that Gray kidnaped his daughter from Thornbrook two months before the divorce and refused to return the child.

Judge Desort issued a writ of attachment for Gray's appearance in court yesterday. When he did not appear Judge Desort gave the mother formal custody of her daughter and ordered Gray brought into court when he returns to the city with the child.

Frank Orth, East Chicago Inventor, Is Dead at 67.

Frank Orth, contractor and inventor, died yesterday in St. Catherine's hospital in East Chicago. He was 67 years old and had been a resident of East Chicago since 1902. News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The birth of broadcasting is generally dated Nov. 2, 1920, the night of the Harding-Cox election when station KDKA put on the air returns for the few scattered earphone owners. That was 15 years ago today. Now the days and nights are filled with music and talk for the 20,000,000 set owners of the nation.

Dozens of names then unknown have become household words because of radio. With the view that it might be interesting to turn back the pages 15 years a number of radio leaders were contacted and asked what they were doing on Nov. 2, 1920. There were some illuminating answers:

Wayne King was playing football for Valparaiso university; Horace Heidt for Culver. Rudy Vallee was just out of the navy, but hadn't started in at Maine university. Hal Totten was a freshman at Northwestern; Bob Elson was a choir boy and Pat Flanagan a student chiropractor.

Amos 'n' Andy, then plain Freeman Gosden and Charlie Correll, were rehersing an amateur show for the American Legion in North Carolina. Myrtle Vail of Myrt and Marge was playing in Jack Lait's "The Sixth Reel" in Cincinnati; her daughter, Donna, who is Marge, was learning multiplication tables.

Kate Smith, just 11, sang for President Wilson at the White House, and Speaker Longworth who heard her predicted a brilliant future. Next night she was paid $5 for winning an amateur contest at a Washington theater.

Graham McNamee was a concert singer. Harold Stokes was wrestling with French verbs in a St. Louis high school. Quin Ryan was editor of THE TRIBUNE'S family newspaper, The Trib. Richard Himber, barely out of school, was Sophie Tucker's accompanist. Ted Husing had just been fired from his job as a furniture salesman.

Seymour Simons was writing songs and had just turned out "Just Like a Gypsy." And Paul Whiteman had recorded it. It was his first disk—"Avalon" was on the other side. Whiteman was in Atlantic City. He had just come from San Francisco and New York was yet to hear him.

George Olsen was appearing with a 4 piece orchestra at the Oregon Grill in Portland and his wife, Ethel Shutta, was playing in "Town Scandals" at the Columbia theater here. Billy Mills was an arranger for Isham Jones, who was playing at the College inn. Joe Sanders was a bandsman in Kansas City, but the famous "Nighthawks" was not yet organized. Edward Davies was a choir singer in Denver; Don Ameche, struggling with long division; Morgan Eastman, conducting the Edison Symphony orchestra, as he still is, and Gene Arnold handling accident work for a packer. Betty Winkler was brightening the first grade in Akron, O.

George Burns hadn't met Gracie Allen. He was in vaudeville, Gracie was still in school. Wendell Hall was a xylophonist. The Lombardo Brothers [7 pieces] had just got started and were earning $25 on the nights they worked. Ben Bernie and Phil Baker were a vaudeville team. Bing Crosby was in Gonzaga college. Fred Waring's "Pep Boys" were playing an engagement at the Birmingham Girls' school. Jessica Dragonette and Ruth Lyon were both in high school.

Joe Penner was an immigrant lad from Hungary who had not yet discovered any commercial possibilities in ducks. Vivian della Chiesa was playing with dolls. Ireene Wicker was a schoolgirl. Jack Hylton was directing his orchestra at Queen's Hall Roof, London.

Lum and Abner . . . Chet Lauck and Norris Goff . . . were studying commercial art and geometry, respectively.

Your reporter, if any one is interested, had just enrolled as a freshman at the University of Iowa and recalls that "Margie" and "Whispering" were two of the favorites of dancing collegians that fall.

BUSTER KEATON RECOVERING; NO MORE WEDDINGS

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Quick-stepping along the road back to health and a hoped for new film fortune, Buster Keaton described tonight as "out of the question" a reconciliation with his former wife, who offered to nurse and help him.

Returned today from the National Military home hospital at Sawtelle, where he had been taken in a strait-jacket recently for treatment, the frozen faced comedian said his divorce troubles were "contributory to my nervous breakdown."

Apprised his ex-wife, Mae Elizabeth Keaton, had announced a few hours earlier that "if he wants help I'll go to him," Keaton answered:

"I'm not interested in marriage any more. I've got to go to work next week. I just folded up on account of all my troubles hitting me at once. Mrs. Keaton is a nice girl, but patching things up is out of the question."

Keaton, interviewed at his home, where he is living with his parents, said he would face the cameras next in an Educational comedy.

SEEKS $250,000 OF EX-WIFE; CALLS WEDDING ILLEGAL

Californian Says She Broke Trust Terms.

Elwood Riggs, a retired optical merchant of Los Angeles, filed suit in the Circuit court here yesterday to set aside a $250,000 trust fund he created in 1925 for his former wife, now Mrs. Enid P. Barrett of Santa Barbara, Cal. The bill alleges that Riggs and Mrs. Barrett never were legally married and that she violated the terms of the trust by remarrying.

Co-defendants in the action are Mrs. Kathryn Culver of Los Angeles, daughter of Mrs. Barrett by a marriage previous to that with Riggs; Ben B. Kitchen, whom Mrs. Barrett is alleged to have secretly wed before her present marriage, and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, trustee of the fund.

Second Action of Sort.

The suit filed yesterday is similar to one Riggs brought in 1928, except that Mrs. Culver was not a co-defendant at that time. Riggs alleges in the present suit that he was forced to drop the previous action when Mrs. Barrett threatened to "bring scandal and disgrace" on him.

He modified the trust in 1928 to provide that at Mrs. Barrett's death $75,000 should go to his adopted son, John, now 18 years old, and the remainder to Mrs. Culver.

The Riggses wedded in Omaha in 1919. According to the bill this ceremony was not legal because Riggs had not waited six months after divorcing his previous wife as required by Nebraska law. The couple separated in 1925. She told him, it is alleged, that Ben B. Kitchen, who is not further identified in the bill, was infatuated with her and wanted to support her and that she would entertain Kitchen's offer unless Riggs provided for her maintenance.

Question Public Policy.

Riggs then established the trust fund, guaranteeing his wife an income of $15,000 a year, with the agreement, it is alleged, that she would have nothing to do with Kitchen. On April 3, 1935, a Los Angeles court entered an interlocutory decree divorcing the Riggses, effective at the end of one year. But on May 17, 1925, six weeks later, Mrs. Riggs married Kitchen in Tia Juana, Mexico, Riggs' bill charges. Later she divorced Kitchen.

In 1926 Riggs married for the fourth time, the bride being Miss Mabel Anderson. Mrs. Barrett was the third Mrs. Riggs.

The bill alleges that Mrs. Barrett's conduct in forcing Riggs to provide for her was fradulent and against public policy. The suit is brought here because the trust is administered by the Continental bank.

E. W. HOWE, SAGE OF POTATO HILL, IS LOSING SIGHT

Atchison, Kas., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Ed Howe put aside forever today the pen of "The Sage of Potato Hill," because of approaching blindness.

His announcement he no more would write the pithy, pungent paragraphs that for years enlightened and entertained the American public with 'homey" bits of philosophy terminated a journalistic career that brought world wide fame to the editor of a newspaper in a small Kansas town.

N. H. Brown, Lake County Lumberman, Dies at 56

Norman H. Brown, vice president of the Chittenden Lumber company at Gurnee, Lake county, died on Thursday night in a hospital in Rochester, Minn., it was learned yesterday. He was 56 years old. Mr. Brown was formerly a member of the Warren Township High school board. His widow, Elsie, and a son, Charles, survive. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in Christ Episcopal church in Waukegan, of which Mr. Brown was a vestryman.

DEBORAH DYER, 91 KENDALL COUNTY PIONEER, IS DEAD

Mrs. Deborah T. Dyer, 91 years old, whose family emigrated from England when she was 3 years old and became among the first to settle in Yorkville, Kendall county, died yesterday in the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Herbert E. Dyer, 431 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park.

Mrs. Deborah Dyer, with her parents, five brothers and a sister, made the voyage to the United States in a sailing vessel. The ship was small enough to continue on through the Great Lakes, and was wrecked in a gale on a small island near the straits of Mackinac. The passengers spent a night of terror huddled around fires built to keep away wolves. In the morning they were rescued by another vessel.

Funeral services for Mrs. Dyer will be held Monday at 3 p. m. in a chapel at 720 Lake street Oak Park. Three grandchildren and four great grandchildren survive.

Mrs. James T. Morris Dies; Honorary Official of D.A.R.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. James T. Morris, honorary vice president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died here today of a heart ailment. Born in Evanston, Ill., she was active in the establishment of the battle ground at Yorktown as a national park and in discovering the names of Frenchmen who fought there.

KATERINA STUKEL, died Sept. 23. Estate, $4,500, to two sons and daughter. Joseph Stukel, son, executor.

Funeral of H. A. Thomas to Be Held in Wisconsin

Funeral services will be held in Trempealeau, Wis., today for Harley A. Thomas, 52 years old, 6939 Crandon avenue, president of the Aberdeen-Franklin Coal company, who died in a Rochester, Minn., hospital Thursday after an operation. Mr. Thomas was born in Trempealeau. He had lived in Chicago for 32 years. His widow, Fay, and a son, Charles, survive.

Attorney's Mother Dies in Fall from Window

Mrs. Esther Siegel, 51 years old, 2543 Division street, was fatally injured yesterday in a fall from a window of her apartment on the second floor. Police said that apparently Mrs. Siegel fell accidentally while removing the screens from the apartment windows. She is survived by a son, Gilbert A. Siegel, an attorney, and a daughter, who is the wife of Harry Ruskin, an attorney.

Thirty Millions to Go to Children, Kin.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Division of the $30,000,000 estate of the late Zachary Smith Reynolds, member of the Winston-Salem tobacco family, as proposed by his brother and two sisters, was approved by the North Carolina Supreme court today.

Young Reynolds died in July, 1932, a few hours after he had been found mortally wounded by a pistol bullet in a bedroom of the family mansion, "Reynolda," near Winston-Salem.

$750,000 for Widow.

The division of the estate as ordered by the courts provides $750,000 for Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, second wife of the tobacco heir after deduction of state and other taxes, 25 per cent of the estate or slightly less than $7,000,000 for Christopher Smith Reynolds, son of Libby Holman Reynolds; 37½ per cent to Anne Cannon Reynolds, second, daughter of the tobacco heir by his first marriage to Anne Cannon, estimated at a little more than $9,000,000; and 37½ per cent to R. J. Reynolds Jr., Mrs. Mary Reynolds Babcock, and Mrs. Nancy Reynolds Bagley, brothers and sisters of Zachary Smith Reynolds.

State Tax $2,000,000.

The court settlement also provides payment of a compromise inheritance tax of $2,000,000 to the state of North Carolina. The question as to federal taxes has not been established.

Included in the 37½ per cent for Anne Cannon Reynolds, second, is $1,000,000 given her and her mother in a pre-divorce settlement.

Chicago City Opera Season Opens Tonight

Box Holders to Entertain Many Guests.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Civic Opera house or the Civic theater will be the destination of many motor cars tonight, for in the former the five weeks' season of grand opera is opening and in the latter the Service club is repeating the revue it gave last night.

Not for some years has there been so much activity around the great building that houses the opera house and the theater, and it would seem that there might be some trafic congestion in Wacker drive with so many motors delivering formally clad occupants at the various doors.

Among those who will have parties of guests at the opera tonight, either in boxes or in blocks of main floor seats will be Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard [Muriel McCormick] who arrived Thursday for a visit with her father, Harold F. McCormick; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, who are sharing a box; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, the Ambrose C. Cramers, Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick who have a box together; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Miss Olga Menn, who headed the committee that sold the boxes this year; Mrs. Addison L. Gardner Jr., Mrs. Richard Sears, the Sewell Averys, Miss Narcissa Swift, the Samuel A. Ettelsons and the Leonard Ettelsons who are sharing a box.

After the performance Mr. and Mrs. Meeker are giving a supper party at their Lake Shore drive residence for Mme. Edith Mason, who is to sing in tonight's production, "Mefistofele." The Grahams will give a supper party at their home in Banks street tonight, also.

Parsons-Stanton Wedding Jan. 4.

Miss Louise Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Parsons, and Francis Rew Stanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stanton, have chosen Saturday, Jan. 4, for their wedding day. The ceremony will take place at St. Chrysostom's church, but plans for a reception and the list of wedding attendants have not been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hale have planned a dinner party for Saturday of next week for Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hackett of Ireland who are visiting Mrs. Hale's sister, Mrs. William G. Hibbard.

Mrs. Hibbard is an absent hostess this week-end, for she has gone to Bryn Mawr for the ceremonies today that will close the fiftieth anniversary celebration at the college, of which Mrs. Hibbard is an alumna.

Mrs. Philip W. Moore, Mrs. Stephen S. Gregory Jr., Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. John Reilly and Mrs. Howard R. Stone are among other Chicagoans there for today's ceremonies.

Harvest Brawl at Onwentsia.

The Onwentsia club is prepared for one of the gayest parties of its season—the annual Harvest Brawl—tonight, and to judge from the list of reservations there will be a very large attendance. Guests have been invited to come in gingham frocks and overalls to this final dance at which, according to the invitations, there will be "dining, dancing, singing, until the church bells start a ringing."

The club has not decided when it will open its skeet shooting season.

There will be a gay dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle club tonight, too, at which the Dudley Mudges, the Robert C. Orrs, Mrs. William H. Bush, and Earl Kribben will entertain guests.

The cooler, more seasonable weather is welcomed by hunting enthusiasts, especially by members of the Du Page, Wayne and Longmeadow Hunts, for the Du Page has invited the others to join in a drag hunt over the rolling fields near Wheaton tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, the M. F. H. of the Du Page, will entertain at tea at her home, Cantigny farm, after the hunt.

Mme. Dmitri Ivanenko will arrive today to spend several weeks with Mrs. McCormick.

The Wayne Hunt has invitations out for a hunt breakfast for the Longmeadow and the Du Page Hunts on Sunday, Nov. 10, at 12 o'clock at the Dunham Woods Riding club. Following the luncheon there will be a meet, starting at 2:30 o'clock, with the Longmeadow Hounds.

Luncheon Tomorrow for Debutantes.

The Donald F. McPhersons and their daughter, Miss Fanny McPherson, will entertain at a luncheon tomorrow for Miss Nancy Ryerson, Miss Clarice Hamill, and Miss Ethel Husband, three debutantes of the current season. After luncheon, which will be given in the McPhersons' Winnetka home, the young guests will play baseball, weather permitting.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne will give a cocktail party tomorrow afternoon from 5 until 7 o'clock in her residence, 1455 State parkway for Miss Juliette Crosby. Miss Crosby takes the part of Mrs. Dodsworth in the play "Dodsworth" now at the Erlanger theater.

Miss Crosby will be in Mrs. Hayden B. Harris' party at the tally-ho breakfast at the Tavern tomorrow. Well known dance teams in town, in-

Service Club Revue Wins First Audience

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

"It was so good I could see it again tomorrow night," is what every one was saying last night as they left the Civic theater after the first of two performances of the Service club's annual revue, the second of which will be given tonight at the same place. Every one in the audience was delighted with the show, which is the club's twenty-first annual effort. It ran quickly and smoothly from start to finish and sparkled with life and color all the way through.

There were few starring parts compared to previous years, and experienced girls had these, which perhaps accounted for the finish to the performance as much as the excellent costumes and staging. Among the stars were Miss Emily Goehst, whose lament, "I Married for Love," sung á la Floradora, nearly stopped the show, and Thelma Jensen Hereford [Mrs. Robert], leading lady of last year's production, who looked bewitching and sang divinely in the "Lucky the Bride" scene. Outstanding among the men were George Neise, a young man who sang opposite Mrs. Hereford and won the audience's hearts with his personality; David Campbell, whose "Bambucco" dance was a feature of the Mexican scene, and John Peter Theurer, who has been seen before on the stage of the Auditorium in Princeton Triangle club productions.

The young people who dined at the Casino club as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart at a party they gave for Miss Nancy Ryerson were sorry they missed the first few scenes of the revue. Miss Ryerson, debutante daughter of the Edward L. Ryersons, was lovely in a deep blue moiré gown with pink orchids pinned at one shoulder and a bandeau or rhinestone stars in her hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick were among those who enjoyed the show. Others were Mrs. John Goesht, whose two daughters, Emily and Margaret, and a son, John Goesht, were in the show. Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Kramer, whose daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, danced in nearly every chorus; Mr. Lamport, Mr. Hereford, Scott J. Dow Jr., whose lovely wife was featured in one song, and Mrs. Moisant Griffiths, just home from Paris, whose jet black hair with a purplish cast, the latest and newest fashion according to the fashion magazines, caused much favorable comment during the intermission, and Miss Gloria Griffiths in pink and tan chiffon, the latest in Paris.

Tells Methodists Americans Need Confidence in U. S.

The Rev. Dr. Merton S. Rice of Detroit last night told about 750 Methodists that what the country most needs is a new song which sounds the note of confidence in Americanism. He spoke before the fall meeting of the Methodist Social Union of Chicago at the Hotel Sherman. Dr. Rice declared that the country has become so accustomed to hearing pessimism and fears expressed that the American people have come to believe that something is fundamentally wrong with historic American institutions and ideals.

Get Scout Charter.

"Mefistofele" First Opera of New Season

The Chicago City opera company will open its season at 8 o'clock this evening with the presentation of "Mefistofele" in the Civic Opera house. Ezio Pinza, Italian basso, will sing the title rôle, Edith Mason, long a favorite with Chicago operagoers, will sing Marguerite, and Frank Forest, young American tenor, will make his Chicago operatic debut in the rôle of Faust.

Other members of the cast will include Eleanor La Mance, Mari Barova, Ada Paggi and Lodovico Oliviero. Gennaro Papi will conduct.

During its 1935-'36 season the opera company will give no performances on Thursday and Friday nights, to avoid conflicts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts. The company will present "Don Giovanni" on Monday evening, with Richard Hageman directing, "Carmen" on Tuesday, with Veloz and Yolanda appearing in the incidental dances. "Martha" on Wednesday, and next Saturday evening, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and the ballet, presenting "Gold Standard" and Ravel's "Bolero."

Mrs. B. F. Langworthy Ill; Unable to Give Address

Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, is ill in her home in Winnetka and was unable to appear last night at the opening of the Illinois Home Economics association's two day conference at the Hotel La Salle. She had been scheduled to deliver the principal address. Speakers last night were Miss Elizabeth S. Wood, secretary of the Illinois State Housing board, and Miss Elizabeth S. Wierick, in charge of Sears, Roebuck & Co. testing laboratories.

Good Morning!

[From the press sheet.]

"Shall one flaming, impulsive sin brand a too trusting woman? Bravely this defenseless girl, crucified by gossip, tries to rebuild her life. Far from the scene of her wrong—in a remote farmhouse—she hopes to be free from the scorpion tongues of scandal. Here, sheltered and secluded, she will fight for the right to love purely—and be loved. Shyly, tenderly, dreamily, a romance is born. A glorious son of the soil offers her the gift of his first love. Then the floodgates of envy break. She is homeless . . . friendless! Her life in ruins . . . her heart in despair, she courts death. In the thundering ice-break climax—that has earned for this story the title 'The Great American Melodrama'—wonder mounts in a crescendo of thrills, as fate and heroic youth battle for this lost girl."

Well, I'm here to tell you that "The Great American Melodrama" is as good as it ever was!

The "thundering ice-break climax" is quite terrifyingly realistic. The "too trusting woman" is portrayed appealingly and not too sweetly by lovely little Rochelle Hudson, who suffers bravely and succeeds most laudably in making you suffer with her. The "scorpion tongues of gossip and scandal" wag with appalling and convincing viciousness in the cruellipped mouths of hounding females, ably impersonated by ladies who, in real life are, I am certain, no such thing. The "glorious son of the soil" is wholesomely and nobly portrayed by handsome young Henry Fonda, whose romance with the "defenseless girl, crucified by gossip" is indeed a shy, tender, and dreamy thing. And when this "too trusting woman," this "defenseless girl" with "her life in ruins," her "heart in despair," courts death, you will not be disappointed in the promised "crescendo of thrills."

The story of ill-starred Anna Moore unfolds simply and believably against beautiful rural backgrounds, charmingly photographed. Interiors, costumes, customs, and amusements of New England of the '90s are fascinatingly presented, and you'll love the old songs that find their way so naturally into the action. The picture has both suspense and humor, and the admirable restraint and sincerity of the fine cast invest the quaint dialog and time-worn situations with dignity and newness.

As for Director Henry King—well—happy days to him!

Eyebrows Tell Temperament of Individual

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

The eyebrows, as you have seen, indicate important differences between people. Their condition establishes whether an individual is to go through life free to do what he wants and unconcerned by objections, or whether he constantly must suppress his natural desires and forgo the relief from an unfettered expression of emotions. However, the psychological effect is to some extent beneficial in regard to intelligence. Meeting with a dangerous problem the courageous person will try to break it down with force, while the fearful person will seek a roundabout way to settle a difficulty. The dark eyebrowed man will deal with an opponent directly and frankly, while the one with light eyebrows will be tempted to evade a showdown.

IRENE DUNNE.

This tendency of the timid person has the effect of improving and stimulating his imagination. An inventive mind usually is found in persons who have great desire for research [a pointed nose tip] and a rich flow of ideas [light eyebrows].

Irene Dunne might be sarcastic if she felt that you should be put in your place. Her ability to ridicule while appearing to pay a compliment is her protection against disagreeable people. She possesses a capacity for clear judgment of human values and a fairminded estimate of her fellow men.

Crockford's, Bridge Club, Opens Doors

Culbertson Is President of Organization.

Crockford's of Chicago, a club devoted to bridge, backgammon, and other indoor games of skill and relaxation, opened its doors last night in the Blackstone hotel. More than three hundred persons attended by invitation.

Ely Culbertson, famous bridge expert and editor of THE TRIBUNE's contract column, is president of the club and chairman of its board of governors. He and Mrs. Culbertson were present last night and participated in several bridge games.

The club, modeled after organizations of the same name in New York and London, occupies a suit of rooms on the first floor of the hotel. Mr. Culbertson declared that he believes it is the "most beautiful bridge club in the world."

There are four large cardrooms, each equipped with modernistic furniture and each with a different color motif in the decorations. The rooms, because of the individual colors, are known as the Lacquer, Gold, Orange, and Blue rooms. There are two smaller rooms for private parties.

In addition the club has a reception room, a restaurant, and a cocktail bar and lounge.

Candidates for membership must be proposed by two active members of the club and approved by the admissions committee before the governing board votes on their applications. Dues and initiation fees vary with the type of membership—resident, nonresident, junior, and family.

The club is open every afternoon and evening and members and their guests may play at any time. Table fees are charged in accordance with the game stakes involved. On Thursday evenings duplicate tournaments will be held with prizes awarded to the winning north and south partnership and the winning east and west partnership. Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson said they would participate in these tournaments whenever they are in Chicago.

"Crockford's is not merely an exclusive bridge club," Mr. Culbertson said, "it is a social center for relaxation and pastimes, especially in all intellectual card and other games of skill. The club will have the privileges of exchange memberships with Crockford's of New York, Crockford's of London, and other leading social clubs in Europe."

A few of those who attended the opening were Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rockwell Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin II., Mrs. Marjorie Letts, William Van Nortwick, the Stuyvesant Peabodys and their son Stuyvesant Jr., the Darrow Fultons, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins, Mrs. Charles S. Pearce, the Joseph T. Ryersons, the Oren Tafts, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thwaites of Milwaukee.

MENTION of the old south side mansion with nine marble baths reminded Kay Wesson, who lives in La Crosse, Wis., of some friends who built a beautiful new home. They had cousins living in England with whom they spent some time shortly after the house was finished. In describing it to them they included the statement that it had nine baths.

A FRIEND quotes an example of diplomacy, although unable to say definitly the source of the story. Perhaps a reader knows who tells the story or about whom it is told. It concerns a viceroy of India who sent a Hindu to accompany a distinguished visitor on a hunting trip. When he returned the viceroy made inquiry as to the success of the expedition. Was the sahib a good shot, he inquired.

"The sahib shot divinely, but Allah was very merciful to the game," answered the Hindu.

Pick Metallic Clothes with Care—Expert

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Plenty of people, both the men who pay the bills and the ladies who are playing with the idea of wearing dress parade clothes of lames and brocades have been a bit jittery over the avalanche of metallic outfits that glimmer and glitter from the hangers of most of the shop windows. One either likes or definitly dislikes this popular fabric and the clothes that are made from the colored stuff as well as the plain.

"Figuratively" speaking, it's hard to wear, unless the fabric has been cut, draped, and designed by experts. Likewise, if you think you can't pull through the winter without such an outfit, lots of distinctive looking get-to-gethers are available, but use discretion.

We saw one stunning deep brown-bronze suit combined with dark brown fur, a miracle of simplicity. And another greeny gold combined with accents of emerald green velvet to which could be added a gay green chiffon handkerchief if all the rest of the costume accessories are severely dark.

We are not wildly enthusiastic about any of the metallics; we admit we were impressed, and so were a lot of others, with some gun metal and pearl gray metallics for afternoon and Sunday night costumes. These, too, were marvelously cut and designed, puritan as to high neckline and long sleeve, absolutely devoid of any glittering clip or bejeweled buckle and other extras, so that they were good looking enough to suit the most carping of critics.

After listening to the comments of interested and disinterested the score is about even. If the metallics are good, quiet and distinguished as to streamline and detail, every one likes them. If the stuff is circus parade, shining like a tinseled tree, you get the gong for a bad buy.

BORDER BREED

By William MacLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS.

Young Dan Clifford is driving a mule team carrying freight when he meets and befriends 17 year old Milly Sutherland. She and a young brother and sister are en route to Los Pinos, wild border town of the untamed west. Their father died on the way. In Los Pinos, Dan, through Polly Dobie, gets Milly work washing, and Ah Sin, a Chinaman, to help her. Jasper Ford, gambler and killer, forces his attentions on Milly. Dan publicly humiliates him. Ford swears revenge. Trouble brews between the gambling element and Mexicans. The salt lakes, long public property, are claimed by one Zack Black, representing the gamblers. Black, Lou Stone, and a group of gamblers are besieged at the salt lakes by Mexicans. Dan and his friend, Sam Jones of the rangers, act as peacemakers and accomplish their rescue. Lou Stone breaks with Ford. Milly and Dan become engaged, but when Dan is appointed sherif Milly refuses to marry him, fearing he'll become a killer. Jonathan Edwards Hart, a famous killer, who was sent to prison 16 years before because of Ford's testimony, arrives in Los Pinos. He holds up the Last Chance. Dan, unarmed, arrests Hart. While Hart is out on bail, Ford shoots him, claiming self-defense. Because of Hart's record Ford is not prosecuted. Dan has an encounter with two outlaws, and is forced to kill one in self-defense. Two Mexicans are killed at the salt lakes.

INSTALMENT XLII.

THE ROAR OF THE MOB.

Ford became aware of a distant buzz of voices, borne to him by the evening breeze. The night life of the turbulent young city had got under way, no doubt. But as he drew closer he realized that this was something special. The humming was like that of a hive of angry bees, insistent and sustained.

He guessed there had been trouble. Perhaps some one had snuffed out a life in a saloon. It was a little early in the evening for that, but the unusual was likely to happen.

The clamor grew. He heard individual voices, though he could not make out words. Coming to the corner of the street, he looked up Houston. A mob that filled the street was moving slowly toward him. A swift dread caught at his stomach muscles. They were Mexicans.

He was standing under the street light of a store. A high voice shrieked out recognition. Fifty others took up his name and flung it savagely into the night. To Ford it seemed that the tide of humanity poured at him like a wave of water from a cloudburst.

Appalled by the fury of it, he turned to run. Fear winged his feet. But before he had covered fifty yards he knew they were gaining on him. He could hear the thud of the pursuing mob. The leaders were almost on his heels. Furiously his heart pounded. He knew that in the hands of the infuriated Mexicans he would not last three minutes.

A sharp command reached him. "This way, Ford."

Two men had just come out of a hardware store. One of them caught him by an arm and almost flung him through the doorway. "Keep going," he was told. The man was Dan Clifford, his companion Stone. They slammed the door shut behind him and stood in front of it.

Ford raced down the aile of the store to the back door. Looking back, he saw a jam of men at the entrance through which he had just come. They were piling up fast. He heard angry voices, shrieks of malediction, the sounds of struggle. Then he was out of the building, scudding down the alley.

The front door of the store must have crashed or been opened, because as he looked back through the darkness he saw a spate of dark figures pour through the back door. Some of them at least were following him. He heard excited cries and curses, knew they were gaining on him again.

He went over a fence like a cat, dodged in and out among the trees of a small orchard, and flung himself across another fence. His lungs bursting with the strain of his desperate flight. His legs were buckling under him. He could go no farther. Drawn by a light in a kitchen, he opened a back door to see a young woman standing by a stove with a skillet in her hand.

He cried, panting for breath, "Save me."

Yet the underflow of her thoughts was not on the work. She brooded over the unhappiness that had swept over her. The prophecy made by her had been verified. In the course of duty Dan had been forced to kill a man. She knew, as all Los Pinos did by this time, that the slain man had been an outlaw and that the marshal had been obliged to fire to save his own life. As an officer, no blame whatever attached to him. Nonetheless the crook of a finger had created an impassable gulf between them.

It was time, she decided, to call the children in from play to wash up for supper. The door opened behind her. Without turning her head, Milly started to give orders.

Milly whirled, skillet in hand. She stared in startled amazement. Jasper Ford was standing, his back to the door, ghastly fear staring out of his eyes.

"Save you from what?"

"The mob—outside—Mexicans," he gasped.

She asked no more questions, did not waste a second. An excited shout in the street confirmed what the gambler had said. Turning, she led the way into the bedroom and pointed to the homemade wardrobe which contained the spare clothes of the family. Ford was crossing the floor to burrow deep among the dresses as she hurried back into the kitchen.

A knock came on the door while she was reaching for the skillet. She opened the door, a pulse of excitement beating fast in her throat.

Three Mexicans were standing there. They hurled a spate of Spanish words at her.

"Pardon, señorita," one explained in English. "We look for a man—that villain Jasper Ford. Is he here?"

The girl made a pretty picture of indignant virtue. "A man in my house—above all the man who once insulted me. Why would he be here, sir? Do you mean that I am not a good girl—that I let such men visit my house?"

"I told you he was not here," one of the Mexicans said to his companions. "Do we not know about the trouble this girl had with him? Never would he come here to hide." He spoke in his native tongue, but Milly caught enough in words and gesture to make out what he was saying.

"Si, Pedro," another assented. "It is true, what Juan said. Vamonos."

After the door had closed on them Milly returned to the bedroom. Ford heard her coming, made sure she was alone, and came out from among the clothes. He tried to achieve a manner of dignity.

"Have they gone?" he panted.

"Yes." She stood near the bed, a small glass lamp in her hand, looking at him with a white face of cold distaste.

The eyes of the man darted to the windows, to make sure their shadows did not show. "Are the doors locked?" he asked.

"Not the kitchen door. If I locked that—and some of them came—they would know I was hiding you. Shall I lock it?"

He paid no attention to her mockery. "Better not. If they find me——" His lip twitched. He did not finish the sentence.

She was as empty of sympathy as a young Portia. "What have you done now that they are hunting you to put an end to you?"

He attempted a look of injured innocence. "Nothing, Miss Sutherland, upon my word. They and their friends break the law trying to cripple a legitimate business enterprise in which I am a partner. In an attack upon our property two of them were killed day before yesterday. I am in no way to blame. If you consider this fairly——"

"Hadn't you better consider a more urgent question?" she interrupted, with a little gesture that swept his defense out of consideration. "Soon—in a minute or two—the children will be here. What do you mean to do? You can't stay here."

"I must stay here, for the present," he pleaded. "You wouldn't throw me out to those wild beasts."

"No, I wouldn't. Probably it is what you deserve, but I don't want to be responsible for what would happen." Her pale face reflected the anxiety that still filled her bosom. "The point is that if the children know you are here, and if the Mexicans come back again, you would be discovered. They would betray you without meaning to tell."

Shakespeare Loses Role as Favorite Author of Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The movie colony is in a state of uncertainty about William Shakespeare.

For a time, when Warner Brothers announced "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Shakespeare was on the verge of becoming Hollywood's favorite writer.

His works were hastily thumbed. "Twelfth Night" and "Romeo and Juliet" landed on production programs.

Warner executives said today their plans for putting "Twelfth Night" in celluloid were temporarily stalemated. Max Reinhardt, the director, has gone to New York, and when he returns late in January he may do Offenbach's opera, "The Tales of Hoffman," rather than Shakespeare.

No progress was reported at M-G-M on plans to start "Romeo and Juliet."

Whether this sudden cooling had any connection with box office reports on "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was unknown.

Outdoors Full of Delights for Child's Leisure

Can Lure Him Away from Trashy Movies, Books.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you want to substitute something worth while for the wasteful ways in which your boys and girls, perhaps, spend their leisure—if you want to give them something to take the place of too much movie going, radio listening, trashy reading, and being constantly on the streets there are the suggestions we made a few days ago plus one that I didn't mention, but which I think ranks way up among the first.

This pleasure or activity or occupation—call it what you will—is free to all. Any one can have it—it costs nothing—it never stales.

It is—the outdoors. There it is, its clear blue skies, its sparkling air, its rolling hills, its russet or brilliant color—all calling, this lovely autumn weather. All to be had just for the taking. Riches that are yours if you want them.

Here's something that you can substitute for stale hours spent indoors—for aimless Sunday afternoons around the house—the outdoors.

Get into the habit of getting out under bright October [and November and December] skies with the children. If you have a car, use it only as a means to get you where you can leave it, and then use your feet.

If you live in a city apartment or a close packed suburban house, put on sturdy shoes and warm clothes and get out in the open. Riding won't do it. Your feet much touch the earth to get a real feel out of it all. Look up the old myth of Antæus—you'll see what I mean.

Get out with the children whenever you can—on long trips or short—hike, walk, cook, look, listen, tuck a handbook or a pair of field glasses, or some frankfurters, or hamburg patties and rolls in your sports coat pocket, and fare forth. Just enjoy the exercise, or learn something about the animals and trees you see, or picnic with a fire.

Here's a sport, a pleasure, a hobby, that is a source of health and delight which, begun early, never stales and never pales. A dozen vital interests may spring from it—but even if they don't it doesn't matter—it's an end in itself.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A lipstick with a healing base is a grand thing to have around when the cold weather comes. And when such a lipstick is a beautifier, too, what with good shades, stick-to-it qualities, and a beguiling texture, it should come under the heading of honest-to-goodness blessings.

There's such a stick in town at the moment—in two shops. It isn't expensive and every one of the willing women we asked to test it is positively noisy in singing its praises. We tried it on the chappel lips brigade first, then on those beauty-mad creatures who want shade beauty rather than healing qualities. Everybody was made happy.

There's almond oil in the base of this lipstick, and olive oil, too—but it is not so greasy that it's slippery. It's just a nice creaminess that feels good and does good. It's much like a good pomade, with the added attraction of lovely shades and a reasonable amount of indelibility.

Of these shades there are five, all of them rather dashing. There is one color, called "Boulevard," that makes us discontented with our coloring lot. It's so rich, so warm and so darned beautiful it makes us sad not to be brunette enough to wear it. It's got the lusciousness of those fat, darkly red cherries that you practically never see caught in a lipstick though dozens of people have tried for it.

Then there are gay shades, too, all bright and splashy, and with nice names like "autumn leaf" and "cocktail" and "dawn rose."

This has charm, this lipstick. The healing base to thwart peeling and cracking is only the half of it.

Salvation Army Women's Group Meets at Hospital

The women's division of the Salvation army, headed by Mrs. C. K. Corsant, held its annual all-day meeting yesterday at the Salvation army home and hospital, 5040 North Pulaski road. S. J. Duncan-Clark, editorial writer, was the principal speaker. The women's division, with a membership of 2,000, assists in the social and recreational activities of the various Salvation army institutions for women.

Chicago City Opera Season Opens Tonight

Box Holders to Entertain Many Guests.

cluding Veloz and Yolanda, Baron and Blair, Grace and Kurt Graff, and Georges and Jalna, will be among the especial guests at the breakfast.

North Shore Hocky Games Tomorrow.

Members of the North Shore Field Hocky association have put in their bid for a clear day tomorrow. Two Milwaukee teams are coming down to play the association's first and second teams at 2:30 o'clock at the Skokie play field on Elm street, Winnetka.

Afterward there will be a match between the Town and Country Hocky club and a picked team of young men, among them Bradford Whiting, John E. Baker Jr. and his brother, Bruce A. Baker, and Eugene S. Talbot III., and C. Conover Talbot. The association is promising any man who comes out a good, stiff game, since impromptu matches will be arranged for all visitors who have the wind and the will to participate.

Mrs. Walter Dill Scott will open her Evanston house this afternoon for the first of the teas which she gives every autumn after Northwestern university's home games for the trustees and associates of the university.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rice-Wray and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Budd will be guests of President and Mrs. Scott at the game.

Two Weddings on West Coast.

Many Chicagoans are wishing they were in Santa Barbara for the wedding today of Miss Barbara Bullard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sellar Bullard, to Charles A. Storke II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Storke of Santa Barbara. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at All Saints by the Sea in Montecito, and a reception will follow in the Bullards' home on Miramar avenue in Santa Barbara.

Miss Caroline Bullard will attend her sister as maid of honor, and one of the bridesmaids will be Miss Janet Bard of Highland Park, who yesterday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Bard, attended the wedding in San Francisco of Ralph A. Bard Jr. and Miss Nonabel Metzger. Another bridesmaid will be Miss Mary Louise Spaulding of Boston.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Charles Worcester, Mrs. Martin Kennelly, Mrs. Robert Farrell, Mrs. James Bowers, Mrs. James McKenna, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley are among those who have taken boxes for the Sunbeam league's annual charity ball tonight at the Stevens hotel.

According to CULBERTSON

"THE BEST PLAYER IN THE WORLD."

Any one who attempts to rank the superexperts of the bridge world in 1, 2, 3 order to indicate their respective merits is undertaking a ridiculous impossibility. "The best bridge player in the world" is nonexistent and always will be, results of all championship tournaments to the contrary notwithstanding. With just as much justification I can claim that I myself am not only the best player in the world, but the second best player as well.

The very nature of bridge makes individual ranking impossible. No one ever reached the top singlehanded. He had to have a partner on every deal, and what that partner did affected the outcome just as definitly as his own conduct. There might be a "best partnership," although even this would not of itself stamp its members as individual players No. 1 and 2. It would mean simply that, together, they produce the best results, and this is the real gauge of bridge supremacy. When any player has his name engraved on more championship trophies than any other over any specified period, it indicates he has been more fortunate in his partnerships than any other. If he were to play through a match with a weak partner the result would be much more apt to gauge the ability of the poor player than his own.

To be sure, there is a small group—not more than a dozen or fifteen—of "best players," but the term always must be used in the plural. These are the experts who always are to be found among the leaders in major tournaments. Each will win his share of "championship" events because he will play with equally good partners, although his final standing in any single match may well be determined by particular circumstances arising during its course. These players recognize that partnership efficiency is all important. Their brilliance is demonstrated most strikingly in the development of their partnership coöperation.

3 ♠	4 ♦	5 ♣ [2]	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

[1] With a freak, South did not expect the bidding to die and hoped to be doubled.

[2] After North's second free bid South counted on the spade ace as an entry for the heart finesse, which seemed sure after East's opening bid. He was tempted to go to six on this reasoning, but feared the eventual loss of a heart as well as the diamond.

At double dummy, South is obviously down one. In actual play, defeating the contract was more difficult, but perfect partnership discarding made it possible. After South took the opening heart lead with the queen he led out eight clubs to give his opponents a chance to make a mistake. But West immediately threw his three spades to give East a count on the hand, then discarded the diamond king to deny the ace while guaranteeing the queen. East coöperated by dropping the diamond ace on the ninth trick, saving two hearts, a low diamond, and the spade ace. If South now led a spade West would have won the remaining tricks with diamonds, so South cashed the heart ace and accepted his one trick set.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I was playing against a no trump contract. Dummy held ♦ A J 10 8 4 and I held ♦ K 6 2. Declarer led the queen of diamonds. Should I cover it with the king, hoping that my partner will hold four diamonds headed by the nine?

Answer: No. You should play low, for if your partner has four diamonds then declarer's queen is a singleton and he cannot lead through you in that suit again.

BY MARY MEADE.

From Iowa City comes a request for a recipe that's such a favorite with us we can't resist printing it. And along with the request comes a truly delightful dessert suggestion. So to Mrs. D. C. W. of that city we are doubly indebted—for bringing up the matter of Honey Apricot Marmalade and for her own novel Jellied Jelly Roll.

HONEY APRICOT MARMALADE.

Plunge dried apricots into hot water. Drain and run through the fine knife of the food chopper. To each cup of apricots, measured after grinding, add 1½ cups of honey. Beat thoroughly to blend the two, and store in sterilized jars for at least two weeks before using. The dried apricots and honey combine to form a spread of marmalade consistency.

And here's Mrs. W.'s suggestion, as she writes it: "A gelatin dessert that has caught the fancy of my family is one made with jelly roll. Prepare a flavored gelatin dessert according to directions, and let it stand until rather cool. In the meantime slice a rolled jelly roll, ¾ to 1 inch thick, and put in the bottom of a large dish. Pour the gelatin over the cake (being sure that each slice is fully covered) and serve cold with a spoonful of whipped cream on top. Almost any of the gelatin flavors work nicely this way, but lime and raspberry are our standbys. The lime is especially pretty when whipped cream or marshmallow is used as filling in place of the jelly. One also can use fruit-and-nut cookies in this manner."

We've been asked to publish a recipe for marble cake for one reader and the working plan of whole wheat waffles for Mrs. H. H. of Chicago.

Marble Cake.

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 square chocolate

Cream the butter, add half the sugar gradually, and beat until light and fluffy. Add the remaining sugar to the well beaten egg yolks, whip well, and combine the two mixtures lightly. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, and add alternately in thirds with the milk, beating well after each addition. Add the vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Then divide the batter into two parts, and into one gently mix the melted chocolate. Fill cake pan by spoonfuls, alternating plain and chocolate mixtures, and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F.

Whole Wheat Waffles.

1½ cups whole wheat flour
⅓ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sour milk
4 tablespoons melted fat
2 eggs

Mix the dry ingredients. Add the milk and egg yolks, beat well, and then beat in the melted fat. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in a hot waffle iron. Recipe makes six waffles.

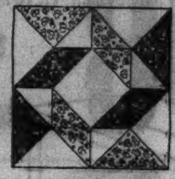
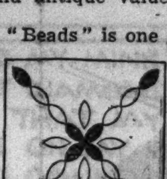
BEG YOUR PARDON

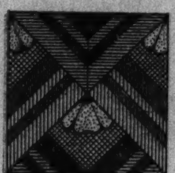
Illustrations were not accompanied by the proper text in quilt descriptions published on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. For that reason the illustrations are repeated here with the proper text.



"Windblown Star" was first found in a seaside town of Maine in 1778 and was made of blue, white and blue print material. By now the blocks are considerably faded, but these pale colors add to its sentimental and antique value.



"Beads" is one of the oldest members of the quilt society, dating back to the early days of exciting Texas history. A combination of print and plain material give the block a modern note. Combined materials utilize the stray pieces in the old scrap bag.



"Flowing Ribbons" is a pattern of exquisite beauty yet scarcely discernible in one single block. Used as an all over quilt design, portions of applique flowers peek from between the folds of the flowing ribbons.

Ambassador to Ask Spain to Delay Action on Film

MADRID, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Ambassador Claude G. Bowers of the United States said today he would visit the foreign office tomorrow in an effort to postpone the government ultimatum giving the Paramount Picture corporation until Monday to withdraw "The Devil Is a Woman" from Spain. The Paramount company desires time to see if the film cannot be edited to remove scenes the government considers objectionable. Spain has threatened to ban all Paramount films.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The original of this charming dress was made of bottle green novelty silk crêpe, and this is flattering to the woman of heavier build. The shaped cut of the bodice, with the weight of jabot frills, keeps it especially slim, and hides undue bulk in that portion of the silhouette. The front panel also suggests length.

The pattern, No. 2718, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

THE MORE ROBUST SIDE OF OUR FAMOUS WEAR-WEEV FAMILY

The Wear-Weev Town Ulster $44

The likable thing about this coat is its lack of cumbersome weight. At the same time it lacks for nothing that will provide comfort and warmth, and the qualities that a winter coat leans on to bear up under the gruelling grind of raw, cold days in the open. Tailoring and designing contributed generously in making this coat the outstanding coat it is, but they are deserving of no more praise than the texture, luster, and softness of the fabric to which this town Ulster owes its look of luxury and enviable reputation for wear.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Northwestern's Wildcats will endeavor to put over something new at Dyche stadium today as a fitting climax to the annual homecoming festivities. With the Illinois eleven as a possible stepping stone, the Wildcats will try to register a victory, a happening which would help to soothe the wounds inflicted when the Purple clad felines were punctured by successive loads of buckshot from Purdue, Ohio State, and Minnesota.

Whether the Illini, versed in all the tricks of the football trade, will agree to coöperate so that Northwestern can ascend to its maiden Big Ten triumph of the season is something else again. The Illini are fast and skilled in the passing game. But the Wildcats, against the Gophers last week, showed they, too, could pass as well as run and plunge. It's the power plays the Purple believe will make the difference this afternoon.

Items to Cheer Up Zuppke.

While the Wildcats have been pushed around thus far by three Big Ten opponents they haven't been disgraced. They lost to Purdue only by the margin of one touchdown. Ohio State rolled up a big score against them, but much of this was due to the Purple's own misdeeds. The Wildcats at least gave the Ohioans a battle, actually usurping the spotlight throughout one period. And against Minnesota the Northwestern lads, although beaten, proved they were beginning to click. All this is mentioned merely to cheer up Bob Zuppke, the Illinois coach.

The Purple may be forced to step into action today minus the services of two first stringers. The injury to Bob Swisher, the fleet footed left half, is supposed to be on the level and not a bear story devised to give Mr. Zuppke that contented feeling. Swisher may not even appear at any time. The other lad who may be denied a starting assignment is Quarter Back Steve Toth, who was roughly handled by the Gophers. He will be dragged in if the Purple gets into the kind of a jam where a good punt is important.

Heap Gets Opportunity.

The infirmities of Swisher will give Don Heap an opportunity to start at left half and Toth's absence will make room for Don Geyer at quarter. Sophomore Heap's passes to Sophomore John Kovatch, former quarter shifted to end, was the Purple's best aerial combination in the Minnesota game. Heap, along with Swisher and Cruice, also ran well against the Gophers. Geyer, is a reformed full back, more or less talented as a blocker.

The Illini will have to get along as best they can without the help of Ken Nelson, their flashy left end, who has a knee ailment. Nelson, when present, is a cog in the Illinois passing attack, both as a thrower and receiver. But the wily Zuppke has plenty of others handy in this particular feature of gridiron endeavor. Leading these is Les Lindberg, the triple threat operative. Two other backs, Henry and Spurgeon, are above average as passers and receivers. And all the Illini ends take a hand as receivers.

N. U.'s 50th Anniversary.

Today's struggle, besides marking the fiftieth anniversary of football at Northwestern, will be the twenty-seventh in a long series with Illinois which started in 1892. Illinois was victorious in 14 of these fights, Northwestern in 10, and two were ties.

Approximately 35,000 tickets have been disposed of, a large portion of them going to Illinois partisans, but 5,000 general admission tickets at $1.75 per will be placed on sale at the stadium today.

W-G-N Airs Buckeye-Irish, Illinois-N. U. Games Today

Radio station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will present two of the country's outstanding football games today. At 12:45 the Notre Dame-Ohio State game at Columbus will be aired exclusively in Chicago over THE TRIBUNE station with Red Barber describing the play. Immediately following that game, Quin Ryan will present the Illinois-Northwestern game from Dyche stadium at Evanston.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—"If they'll let us have the ball our share of the time, you'll see a great football game. Last time we were up here, they kept it about three-quarters of the game."

That was the answer of Coach Noble Kizer, who led 35 Purdue stalwarts into Minneapolis this morning for tomorrow's clash between two elevens unbeaten in western conference competition, to a query on the Boilermakers' chances in this all important contest. The implication was confidence in Purdue's offense, which has scored at least one touchdown against every conference opponent in its last 38 games, the last failure being against forerunners of these same Gophers in 1928.

It's Minnesota's Turn.

"We like to be the perfect hosts," replied Frank McCormick, Minnesota athletic director, "but I doubt if I could do anything with Bernie Bierman. You see we were too cordial the last two times. Purdue beat us 7 to 0 in 1932 and tied us 7 to 7 in 1933. It's our turn and the boys are especially anxious to win for Bernie because Purdue is the only eleven which has an advantage over him since he began his present coaching régime here."

Kizer, who coached THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE All-Stars to their scoreless tie against the Chicago Bears in 1934, does not belong to the moaning school of coaches. In fact, he is somewhat unorthodox. He does not go so far as to predict that the Boilermakers will overthrow the Gophers, who have not tasted defeat in twenty games, but one deducts he would not be greatly surprised if something just like that happened.

Respects Gopher Backs.

"Their line from tackle to tackle should be superior to ours," continued Kizer, "but I'm just loyal enough to those forwards to think no one is going to punch them full of holes. From scout reports we have great respect for Roscoe, this new chap Thompson, and Beise. On the other hand ——," Kizer hesitated, "we have a few backs of our own." Strong faith in those backs was implied in that hesitation.

"Will Tom McGannon, who has an injured leg, start?" this correspondent asked.

"Probably not," was the answer, "but he's likely to get into the game."

"What's the mental attitude after the Carnegie defeat?" we next propounded.

"Good," replied Kizer without a chest deep moan or even a sympathy arresting sigh. "They're confident, but not overconfident, just about how I'd like them to feel. We accepted the Carnegie affair as one of those things which may happen in football when any two good elevens meet and we have tried to forget it for the more important business at hand, which is to keep in the running for a share of the conference championship."

Limber Up at Stadium.

Purdue's gridiron representatives seemed to bear out this estimate as they loafed about the Curtis hotel, playing slot machines for merchandise with varying success in the morning, taking luncheon, and then limbering up at Memorial stadium in a final signal drill with the customary punting and place kicking demonstrations. Tonight they attended an early movie show and were

PENN RESUMES OLD SERIES WITH MICHIGAN TODAY

Wolverine Homecomers Swell Crowd to 35,000.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1.—One of those baffling problem plays, involving two of the enigmas of 1935 football—Michigan and Pennsylvania—will be presented at Michigan stadium tomorrow afternoon before a homecoming crowd which is expected to number 35,000.

Each of the principals has caused its following no end of fretting already, and there is reason to suspect that the fidgeting is only half begun. Barring a tie, the winner of tomorrow's battle will at least have the consolation of beating an ancient foe, for the rivalry of the Wolverines and the Quakers once was one of the strongest in the game.

After a single game in 1899 they picked up the series again in 1906 and played annually without interruption through 1917. During that time Penn won seven games to Michigan's four, with two being tied.

Wolverines Are Crippled.

If a favorite must be chosen it is Pennsylvania, which in recent weeks has displayed a power worthy of its size. It will be facing a Michigan team hampered by injuries, but one that has been following the old Ann Arbor credo of a punt, a pass, and a prayer with fair success after opening the season with a lambasting by Michigan State.

Big Harvey Harman, the Penn coach, brought his team in this morning and worked them out in a dismal drizzle immediately after arriving. Then they adjourned to Ypsilanti, where the rest of the day was to be spent in napping.

The railbirds who watched the workout came away convinced that the eastern guess that the Quakers have their best team in a decade is not far wrong. They saw a big first string back field which averages nigh onto 190 pounds. This quartet includes Full Back Bill Kurlish, 195 pounds, who is touted by Philadelphians as another Pop Kreuz; Lew Elverson, 178 pounds, and Eddie Warwick, 195, half backs, and Fran Murray, 190 pounds, a triple threat quarter back. The Penn starting lineup will include two seniors, one sophomore, and eight juniors.

Harvey Is Dissatisfied.

All of this would be sufficient to please most coaches, but not Mr. Harman, who doesn't think they're quite as hot as rated, if he does say it himself. They lost a hard opener to Princeton, 7 to 6, and then blew a 31 to 20 scoring orgy to Yale after holding a two touchdown lead. Brotherly love in Philadelphia was conspicuous by its absence after this latter defeat, but the team came back with a 34 to 0 rout of Columbia and last week rode over Lafayette, 67 to 0.

If Mr. Harman is not exactly bubbling over with optimism, neither is Harry Kipke, the Michigan boss, and probably with much more reason. One of his problems is Left Tackle John Viergever, who has been the heart of the Wolverine line. An injury to his left knee has handicapped him for two weeks, and although he may start tomorrow, he won't be in for long, since he will be more than useful in Michigan's remaining strug-

Iowa Fans Can't See How Indiana Can Triumph Today

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 1.—Bo McMillin, the old Ranger from Texas, doesn't seem to be enjoying the noise and the good clean fun that prevails here in the tall corn country tonight.

His Indiana university football boys are quartered 25 miles away from the scene of the annual Indiana-Iowa football game, which is to be played here tomorrow afternoon, yet he's as restless and as nervous as a quick trigger sentinel at a horse thief hanging.

The creaking of a loose board in the hotel hallway or an extra sudden screech from the whistle of a distant coast bound locomotive caused him to reach in the direction of the holsters Texas Rangers wear.

What a Ghost!

Still he put his Indiana boys to bed with an "I've been in tougher spots than this" assurance. Then he went to bed himself to toss and to dream and to be tortured by a ghost—not a white ghost, mind you, but of all things, a black ghost—that danced on Bo's tummy turned flip-flops on his chin, and ran for touchdowns around his ear drums.

Yes, suh! That boy Ozzie [Presto] Simmons, the Black Bullet of the corn country, has not only raised "Hail Columbia" with Coach McMillin's beauty sleep. He has the whole commonwealth of Iowa in a state of high glee.

There is so much glee, in fact, over this unbeaten Hawkeye team that 25,000 of these Iowans will drive into town tomorrow afternoon to see Ozzie Presto, his even more famous running mate, Dick Crayne, and the other Hawkeyes go to work on the Hoosiers.

Iowa Is Confident.

The Hawkeye rooters think it will just be like taking candy from a baby to whip Indiana's team. It will be a good polisher for the more important homecoming game with Minnesota a week later. That's their way of sizing up the situation.

However, a very small minority group, including Coach McMillin, despite the nightmare that has overtaken him this evening, and Coach Ossie Solem, who directs the destinies of the Hawkeyes, are not so sure about that being the case.

McMillin is so certain his team, which put up heroic battles against Michigan and Ohio State, is going to NEUSEL QUITS, SO CARNERA SCORES TECHNICAL K. O.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Primo Carnera took his first step along the comeback trail tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Walter Neusel of Germany at Madison Square Garden.

The former heavyweight champion of the world encountered little opposition from the Teuton, and outclassed him so badly that the German quit in the fourth round of what was to have been a ten round battle.

A left hook was the punch that settled matters in the fourth round. Carnera delivered the blow, which landed on Neusel's right eye. The punch opened a deep gash on the German's eyebrow, and he was plainly stunned. Carnera was disinclined to hit him again and looked at Referee Arthur Donovan in the hope that the official would stop the fight. Instead, Donovan waved to the men to continue, whereupon Neusel raised his right hand in token of surrender and walked to his corner, the loser by a technical knockout.

Neusel made his best showing in the first round. He rushed at Carnera with the opening bell and the force of his attack surprised the ex-champion. The German threw a barrage of lefts and rights to the head as Carnera, completely off balance, swung wildly in a futile effort to reach his foe.

Carnera Comes to Life.

Midway in the round, however, Carnera found himself, and from that point on it was a rout.

Tony Galento, 228½, Newark, lost to Eddie Mader, 185, New York, in the six round semi-final. A crowd of 12,768 paid $31,621.55 to see the program.

Max Marek, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, who once beat Joe Louis when both were performing as amateurs, lost a close decision to Bob Pastor, former New York Golden Glover, in six rounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—Tomorrow may be the second of November to you, but to 360,000 inhabitants of this Scioto valley city it is the day when Ohio State's Buckeyes will overwhelm the Irish of Notre Dame. Hour by hour a wave of civic hysteria sweeps higher.

Notre Dame's young men, the foils for Buckeye power, arrived this morning, two hours late because of a train wreck 75 miles from here, to receive cordial greeting from civic authorities and loyal adherents. The fact that the enemy now is encamped in their midst awaiting the battle's call served only to intensify the city's anticipation of tomorrow's game, already at a pitch which defies description.

Carnival at Its Zenith.

No detail of metropolitan madness, necessary props for football, has been omitted. There are rumors of counterfeit tickets. There are scalpers, professional and amateur, whose prices are said to fluctuate from $7.50 to $25, depending on the author of the tale. And lurking behind the scenes are supposed to be the big money men who have wagered or are willing to wager dollars and diamonds on tomorrow's decision.

Eighty thousand fortunates will see the game. Many times that number will hear it described. An army of reporters will write about it. This contest has stirred city and commonwealth so completely that a President might pass these boundaries unnoticed.

Newspapers on this war front have exhausted dictionaries in search for adjectives. Sports stories have captured front pages and forced earthquake and disaster to inside sections.

"Colder and Fair."

A vein of almost unbelievable confidence threads the work of local authors. Francis Schmidt, Ohio State's coach, is a man of genius, about to be crowned the nation's greatest coach. His picture, at breakfast with his wife, is page one news. The Buckeyes, object of highest praise individually and collectively, are said not only to be ready to defeat Notre Dame, but superior to any other football team of any time or place.

One columnist predicts an Ohio State victory by a minimum of 30 points. Even Elmer Layden's statement to eager reporters this morning that "we hope to hold the score to 40 points" is accepted as a serious estimate and headlined.

Controversies center on actual methods of piling up these points. And the weather, always a consuming American topic, now is paramount. Predictions are colder and fair, a satisfactory report notwithstanding today's gray skies with warm southern breezes, which carried a suggestion of rain to untrained observers.

Layden Is Apprehensive.

Gov. Davey, whose recent debate anent university budgets and the relative value of football to the educational program, in which he publicized state employment of athletes and indirectly coined the slighting phrase of the Buckeyes, "Ohio State's G-men," is Ohio's forgotten man. The governor is not expected to attend tomorrow's gala performance, or if he does attend, he hopes to receive a minimum of recognition from a hostile electorate.

The principals, Elmer Layden and Francis Schmidt, have been so restrained in public utterances that in the main their official words have been disregarded or more flamboyant sentences substituted. Both have agreed that the "game will be hard fought," a middle of the road thought, and are certain that victory will go to "the better team."

We do know, however, that Schmidt believes his team can win. It is not a wish father to the thought. Layden has definite fears. He is concerned over Ohio State's speed and flank attack, and the accuracy of Ohio State's passing, which has produced the remarkable record of near-

STANLEY WINS OVER KIRCHNER IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Lewis Beats McQuilian in Semi-Final.

Gene Stanley, Detroit, 161½ pounds, last night continued his winning streak by beating Ernie Kirchner, Chicago, 157½ pounds, in the eight round feature bout at White City. Stanley outfought his rival in every round, although an old cut was reopened over Gene's left eye in the sixth round.

Bob Tinsley, Chicago, 135½, and Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., 133, fought to a draw in six rounds.

Pat Murphy, 148½, protégé of Eddie Long, scored his third successive knockout here by stopping Eddie Steigal, 150, in the second round of a scheduled six rounder. Murphy scored a knockdown in the first round and two in the second. Ernie Kulasik, Chicago, 150, held Eduardo Duarry, Havana, Cuba, 148, to a six round draw. In other matches, Harry Smith, [illegible], stopped Bob Cook, 197½, in the first round, and Young George Dixon, Chicago, 123¼, beat Jack Knight, Detroit, 133 [6].

Fanis Tzanatopoulos, 173 pound Greek fighter from Lynn, Mass., showed impressively in his first Chicago drill yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium before a large crowd, some of whom were attracted by the appearance of James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion.

Tzanatopoulos is a slugger in every sense of the word. He tore into Williams as if the latter was a novice instead of Louis' chief partner, the only one said to be able to give Joe a workout without tumbling to the canvas from potent wallops.

◆

Champion Braddock stopped off here to do some loosening up exercise preparatory to continuing his journey to Seattle, Wash., where he will open an exhibition tour Tuesday by boxing several rounds with an old playmate, Jack McCarthy, Boston heavyweight. Braddock, who at 215 seemed heavy and slow, will appear in twenty cities on the Pacific coast, Vancouver, B. C., Spokane, Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento, and San Francisco being included in the itinerary.

Supporting bouts to the ten round windup involving Moon Mullins and Willie Davies at Marigold Gardens Monday were completed by Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun yesterday. They are as follows:

Bus Breese vs. Bob Tinsley [6], lightweights.
Jackie Sherman vs. Gus De Salvo [5], welterweights.
Harold Brown vs. Danny Milillo [4], welterweights.
Paul Miller vs. George Jonasen, [wrestling].

George Dusette, Boston light heavyweight wrestler, yesterday was signed to appear in the main bout at Marigold Gardens next Wednesday. . . . Walter Palm will meet Herman Goldenberg in a middleweight feature of the amateur boxing show at Coulon's gymnasium Monday. . . . Harold Schimmer is paired with Orrie Schow, Nick Gallotte will meet Robert Murphy, and Al Owens is matched with Charles Rodriguez in other contests. . . . Aldo Spoldi, one of Italy's prominent lightweights, will appear at the Stadium next Friday. . . .

◆

CASSOLA WINS MEDINAH CLUB FEATURE BOUT

Charlie Cassola pounded out a three round victory over Orville Eighney in the headline match of the boxing and wrestling show at the Medinah club of Chicago last night. In the three round semi-windup Russ Nyberg beat Owen Woods. Other results:

Bill Powers knocked out Jerry Lucas [1].
Ted Pauline stopped Bernie Berle [2].
James Scorza beat Bob Murphy [3].
Wendell White beat Burnell Johnson [3].

Chicago Heights Gets Suburban C. Y. O. Ring Tests

Chicago Heights will be the scene of preliminary matches of the suburban section in the fifth annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament tonight at Bloom High school gymnasium. Twenty-five bouts are scheduled.

The suburban section trials will bring the preliminary competition to the half way mark. Last week the north section trials were held at Loyola university gymnasium, the winners qualifying for the quarter final round to be staged on Nov. 19, 20, 21, and 22.

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights of this week the south section preliminaries will be held at St. Bernard's gymnasium, after which the fourth and last of the sectional trials—the west section—will conclude all preliminary hostilities at the 132d Infantry armory, Nov. 13, 14, and 15.

Alumni Paper Attacks Tiger Sport Policy

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Princeton alumni weekly, in an editorial in its current issue, today assailed the university athletic authorities for scheduling football games with Army for 1938 as well as arranging other major games.

The weekly, while not objecting to the rivals, Army, Navy, and Chicago, in particular, comes out strongly in defense of the old Princeton policy of playing natural rivals and protests that the trend of schedules is away from it.

Condemn General Trend.

"The scheduling of Army in football for 1938 and 1940 is regrettable," the editorial says, "because of the disparity between Princeton and West Point interests, methods and fundamental purpose.

"It is possible to entertain the highest regard for Army and still say this: 'The military academy was founded to train military leaders, and if it fulfils this office none should cavil at its failure to be something it was never supposed to be—a liberal university.'"

The objection is made "not so much to the specific action as the general trend. Alternating arrangements with Army and Navy extend to the year 1940, which makes it appear that Princeton is determined to stay in the big time circuit, at whatever cost to the 'natural rivals' idea toward which we were supposed to be moving. At a time when certain universities are trying to check the exploitation of football Princeton should not move in the opposite direction.

Boys Are Disillusioned.

"Until recently many alumni thought Princeton was about to rediscover football as an undergraduate sport. The scheduling of Chicago for 1937 was a disillusionment. Chicago's standards are comparable to Princeton's, but, so far as we can learn, the intersectional venture the year after next will be undertaken primarily for the sake of publicity—and this is pretty late in the day to suppose that football publicity can be of value to an educational institution."

DAWSON REACHES SEMI-FINALS OF MEXICAN GOLF

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Three American aces and Percy Clifford, an Englishman born in Mexico, fought their way into the semi-finals of the Mexican Amateur Golf championship tournament today.

After winning his preliminary matches easily, Johnny Dawson of Chicago was carried to the 18th hole this afternoon before Howard Creel, Colorado, succumbed to Dawson's sub par 170. Reynolds Smith, Dallas, Tex., and Edward White, intercollegiate champion from the University of Texas, were other semi-finalists.

Clifford was carried to the 18th hole by O'Hara Watts, former United States intercollegiate champion, while Smith squeezed out a victory on the final green over W. A. Billstrom of Tampico. White defeated W. B. Kennedy three and one.

Coroner Jury Clears Louis' Trainer in Brawl Shooting

Jack Blackburn, 52 years old, 4238 South Michigan avenue, colored trainer for Joe Louis, the boxer, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday in the inquest into the death of Enoch Houser, colored, 69 years old, of 329 East 58th street, who was shot Oct. 18 during a street fight between Blackburn and John Bowman, colored, 24 years old, 365 West 57th street. Blackburn was charged with assault to kill after the fight and is at liberty on $5,000 bond. Hearing on his case is set for Nov. 19 in Felony court.

Lewis Has Title and Silver Cup, but No Money

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—John Henry Lewis, colored boxer from Phoenix, Ariz., stared sadly at a silver cup today, which he gained by defeating Bob Olin for the light heavyweight championship last night. Lewis had no earnings to show, for the bout was not a financial success.

The colored champion was to receive 12½ per cent over $15,000, which was guaranteed Olin. The former champion also suffered financially, for Olin received only $10,000.

Cardinals End Drill Today for Detroit

A long drill on signals and a canvass of the injured, which number among others a regular center and guard, will wind up the league leading Chicago Cardinals' preparation today for their home debut at Wrigley field tomorrow against the Detroit Lions.

Coach Milan Creighton intimated last night he would stand by his previous decision to start Pete Mehringer, professional wrestler and former All-American guard from Kansas, at guard in place of Howard Tipton, who suffered a fractured arm in an automobile accident last Monday.

Harold Pangle, blocking half back, who sustained severe leg bruises and abrasions in the same crash, was released from the Garfield hospital by Dr. W. C. Meacham yesterday, but Creighton said he did not believe the former Oregon State star would be able to put on a uniform tomorrow. He will be given an opportunity to workout today, however. Pangle says he feels ready to oppose Detroit.

Detroit will come here fresh from a 14 to 0 victory over the Boston Redskins on Wednesday night, with a full contingent of players. Ox Emerson, veteran lineman, who missed a number of early season games because of an injury, is back in the lineup. His return has bolstered Detroit's line.

BEARS LEAVE CRIPPLED

The Chicago Bears, six of them ailing from last week's game with Green Bay, departed for New York yesterday in two special cars on the New York Central's Commodore Vanderbilt.

The cripples are Jack Manders, Reds Pollock, Bill Hewitt, Fred Crawford, Bob Dunlap, and Art Buss. Manders' ankle, sprained last Sunday, is not fully healed, and he may get into the game only when kicking opportunities present themselves.

FEE RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SKATING GROUP

Wallace Fee was reëlected president of the Illinois Western Skating association at its annual meeting at the Sherman hotel last night. He defeated Harry Berz in the balloting.

Members in attendance adopted a unanimous resolution favoring the sending of a United States skating team to the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin. Other officers elected, all new, were:

First vice president—William Steinmetz.
Second vice president—Harry Hahn.
Third vice president—Eddie Murphy.
Secretary-treasurer—Edward Bloom.

Peter Andrews Beats Reed in Five Round

Wheaton Plays Today in North Park Homecoming

North Park college's football team will play its Homecoming game today with the Junior Varsity of Wheaton college at Loyola field. Five thousand alumni are expected to see the game.

Dartmouth Up Against a Jinx at Yale Today

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Dartmouth's nineteenth attempt to break the jinx that is said to prevent it from winning a football game from Yale will be made in the bowl tomorrow before about 45,000 spectators.

Successive games with Pennsylvania, Navy, and Army have swept Guard Jeff Snavely and Tackle Tommy Wilson aside, and are reported to have left Yale's plunging half back, Clint Frank, less effective. Lineup:

YALE.		DARTMOUTH.
Train	L. E.	Camp
Weed	L. T.	Camerer
Dickens	L. G.	Joe Handrahan
Herold	C.	Ray
Davis	R. G.	McCray

PRINCETON AWAITS NAVY

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Princeton's undefeated football team will oppose the Navy in Palmer stadium tomorrow afternoon. Smarting from successive defeats at the hands of Yale and Notre Dame, Navy will enter the contest determined to knock the Tigers out of the select group of the nation's undefeated teams.

Princeton will be at full strength, except for Homer Spofford, left half back, who is handicapped with a weak ankle.

The Navy eleven will arrive tomorrow at noon and will be accompanied by two divisions of midshipmen, who will parade in Palmer stadium before the game. Lineup:

PRINCETON.		NAVY.
McMillan	L. E.	Fike
Stoess	L. T.	Ferrera
Weller	L. G.	Cole
Bliss	C.	Robertshaw
Montgomery	R. G.	Morrell

Kiefer Sets World Record in 100 Meter Backstroke

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Adolph Kiefer of Chicago tonight bettered the listed world record for the 100 meter back stroke swim, negotiating the distance in 1 minute 7.2 seconds. The listed record of 1:08.2 was set by George Kojac in 1928.

Hawks to Break Camp and Leave for Home Today

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Manager Clem Loughlin sent the Chicago Blackhawks through a long practice at the University of Illinois rink today. His reason for the lengthy drill was to cut short tomorrow morning's workout so the team could get a short leg limbering drill, break camp, and leave for Chicago before noon.

Loughlin plans to have four daily workout sessions at the Chicago Stadium prior to meeting the New York Americans in the league opener next Thursday. The first stadium practice will be held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Workouts thereafter will start at 11.

Today's drill was confined to shooting at Rookie Goalie Mike Karakas, who will guard the nets in the opener because of the knee injury which has Lorne Chabot in the hospital.

Indiana Hopes to Get Going at Iowa Today

click at some time or another this season that he's willing to wager everything except his crimson suspenders and his pink flannel night shirt. He has sort of a creepy hunch that it will happen tomorrow.

Solem Is Afraid.

The more reserved Coach Solem of the Hawkeyes, unafraid of what Coach Bob Zuppke might think about it, says his boys haven't met up with a good football team yet this year and that he has sort of a creepy hunch that Indiana might be a very good football team tomorrow afternoon. That makes this game almost a prevalent malady of the creeps.

There will be much pomp and ceremony at the game because it is American Legion day at Iowa stadium. Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana and Gov. Reed Herring of Iowa, will be in the crowd.

MIDWEST CHAMPIONS PLAY.

20,000 to See Leo Battle St. Rita Preps

Leo, Catholic league champion, and St. Rita will clash tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock before a crowd of 20,000 at Soldiers' field in the annual benefit game for the Loretto convents in Woodlawn and Englewood. The contest will be the feature of the Catholic High School league schedule.

Both Leo and St. Rita are neighborhood rivals and their games in past seasons have been replete with thrills and old fashioned powerhouse football. There never has been more than two touchdowns margin in their annual battles.

Art Heil, Leo's hard hitting full back who has been out with injuries, definitly will return to the lineup for tomorrow's game, while Pete Thomas, St. Rita's ace ball carrier, will be ready, he also having recovered from his injuries.

The contest tomorrow will be the third charity game Leo has participated in this season, and Coach Whitey Cronin expects his boys to add their third victory. Coach John Connelly of St. Rita has his team keyed for the game.

BELOIT FROSH TRIUMPH, 13-7, AT LAKE FOREST

Outgaining the Wisconsin team six first downs to three, Lake Forest lost because of three fumbled punts. Three times Beloit recovered fumbled punts inside the Lake Forest five yard line and twice scored touchdowns.

In the second quarter Beloit recovered a Lake Forest fumble on the five yard line of the Gold Coasters and Degunther caught a pass from Hayes in the end zone. In the final period another fumbled punt gave Beloit the ball on the Lake Forest two yard line. Anderson carried the ball over.

Chicago's prep elevens are nearing the end of the trail. The sectional races in the Chicago Public High School league will not come to an end until next week, but today's contests may decide the winners who will compete for the league championship and later oppose the Catholic league titleholder for the city crown at Soldiers' field Nov. 30.

Marshall, leading the west section parade with four victories and one tie, will attempt to clinch the title against Kelvyn Park at Spencer field. Schurz, already assured of at least a tie for the north division title, drew a bye in this week's schedule, but a defeat for the second place Lane Tech team at the hands of Amundsen today will give Schurz the right to participate in the final playoffs.

Lindblom Faces Hyde Park.

In the central division, Lindblom will seek to increase its lead against Hyde Park at White City. Lindblom has won three and tied one, while Hyde Park has won two and tied two. Both teams have one additional game to play.

Parker and Bowen, tied for first place in the south section, will be after their fourth victories. Bowen will oppose Morgan Park at 95th street and Calumet avenue, while Parker will meet Hirsch at Shewbridge field, 64th and Aberdeen streets.

One Game in Catholic League.

Only one game is scheduled in the Catholic league. St. Patrick will meet Weber at St. Philip field, Van Buren and Albany streets. Six games are scheduled for tomorrow.

The suburban schedule will be featured by Maine's contest with West Chicago on the latter's field. Maine is undefeated in the West Suburban conference, winning four straight games.

HORACE MANN BEATS WALLACE PREP ELEVEN, 2-0

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Horace Mann of Gary all but clinched the western division championship in the Northern Indiana High School conference today, defeating Lew Wallace of Gary, 2 to 0, for its fourth straight victory. Horace Mann has one game to play, against Emerson of Gary next Friday night, and victory or tie will make it the champion.

The safety was scored in the second quarter when Marrs, Mann guard, broke through and downed Spicer, Wallace half back, in the end zone.

Froebel High of Gary scored a touchdown in the last two minutes to tie Roosevelt of East Chicago, 12 to 12, and Washington of East Chicago played Whiting, Ind., to a scoreless tie.

St. Hedwige of South Bend lost, 6 to 0, to Elkhart, and La Porte defeated Plymouth, 19 to 0, in the eastern division games.

U. C. L. A. BATTLES CALIFORNIA FOR LEAD ON COAST

100,000 Watch Unbeaten Rivals Meet Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Battle lines were drawn tonight for the civil football war of the Californians. Tomorrow University of California and California at Los Angeles meet at Memorial coliseum to determine which shall continue as the west's lone undefeated eleven.

The largest gathering ever to witness a game west of the Mississippi, more than 100,000, is expected for the struggle, which promises to go a long way toward deciding the Pacific Coast conference title and first call at the Rose bowl New Year's day.

Experts Pick Bears.

Most of the football coaches on the Pacific slope pick California's Golden Bears, mainly on the basis of their great defensive record and superior strength, but what little betting there is on the outcome is at even money.

The U. C. L. A. team, built around a fast 170 pound left half back, Chuck Cheshire, appears to have a superior offensive. Whether its defense can match that presented by California is a question.

To match Cheshire, California has little Don Fowler and Floyd Blower as the chief offensive threats. Fowler ran with the ball and passed his team to victory over Southern California a week ago while Blower largely was responsible for California's victories over St. Mary's, Oregon, and Santa Clara.

Both Teams Pass.

Less than 5,000 reserved seats were unsold when the ticket offices closed tonight. Lineup:

CALIFORNIA.		U. C. L. A.

COCHRAN BALKS AT TITLE CUE MEET REFEREE

Welker Cochran, present 18.2 balk line champion, yesterday notified officials of the world three cushion billiard tournament, which will open in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman on Wednesday, that he will withdraw as one of the ten entrants if Charley McElligott of Chicago is permitted to referee. The National Billiards Association of America, sponsor of the tournament, received Cochran's protest as he was leaving San Francisco yesterday.

During the 1934 tournament at New York, where Johnny Layton won the championship he will defend against leading exponents of the angle game during the next three weeks, Cochran had a run-in with McElligott and has been harboring a grudge ever since.

Since Cochran is reported to be on his way to Chicago, C. A. Storer, president of the National Billiard association, yesterday was not worried by the Californian's objection to McElligott. He indicated he will pacify the 18.2 balk line champion when he arrives. McElligott has been designated as one of the two referees who will handle the world tournament that will continue until Nov. 19 at the Sherman.

Epps, Pirate Catcher, Reported Resting Easy

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Aubrey Epps, 21 year old catcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, critically ill of pneumonia, was reported today as resting easily. A relative said "we are hopeful he will soon pass the crisis." Epps rejoined the Pirates near the end of last season after playing with Birmingham in the Southern association and Fort Worth of the Texas league.

DE PAUL MEETS HEAVY CATHOLIC MACHINE TODAY

Play Homecoming Game at Soldiers' Field.

De Paul university's Blue Demons will meet the undefeated Catholic university football team of Washington, D. C., this afternoon at Soldiers' field before a homecoming crowd. De Paul is in its best condition of the season.

The Catholic squad, coached by A. J. Bergman, a former Notre Dame star, has defeated La Salle college of Philadelphia, Duquesne university of Pittsburgh, Detroit U., and St. Mary's of Texas.

Fiske Will Get In.

Max Fiske, colorful sophomore left half back of De Paul, out since the Texas Tech game, will see action in part of the game. Max is by far the best punter on the squad and the north side team may resort to a kick, pass, and pray attack.

The visitors are a heavy aggregation, with the line scaling some 15 pounds to a man more than De Paul. To offset that the Demons point to their great stand against Northwestern, when they outplayed the heavier Wildcat team for three periods.

Since then De Paul has defeated St. Ambrose, Dayton, and Western State by topheavy scores and has played a scoreless tie with Texas Tech.

Kein Given Chance.

Les Kein, who broke a finger in the Texas Tech game, is ready. Kein is a half back from Evanston high. Both teams employ a variation of the Notre Dame system, but De Paul has adopted a special punt formation. Lineup:

CATHOLIC.		DE PAUL.
Mulligan	L. E.	Sullivan
Karpowich	L. T.	Carlson
Anthonavage	L. G.	Baffin
Gemlo	C.	Cowhey
Lajousky	R. G.	Roberts

Coroner's Jury Blames Jocky in Death Ride

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Blame for the auto ride death of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski was placed by a coroner's jury today on Jocky Willie [Smoky] Saunders and his pal, Walter J. Schaeffer, race track exercise boy. Saunders is awaiting trial on a charge of accessory to murder and Schaeffer on a charge of murder in connection with her death.

At an inquest today a verdict was returned that Mrs. Sliwinski died as a result of a "beating received from Jimmy Smith," later identified as Willie Saunders, and from being run over twice by a car driven by a man who gave the name of "Tommy." Schaeffer has admitted he was the driver of the car, but denied running down the woman.

Partial verification of the statement of Mrs. Agatha Mackison, one of the occupants of the death car, that Mrs. Sliwinski was struck and knocked down by Saunders several hours before her body was found, came from Edward Baxter, 18.

Baxter testified that while walking home he saw Mrs. Sliwinski, whom he had known for several months, appear as if to be leaving the group, and say, "I'll be seeing you." One of the two men, he said, struck her and sent her sprawling into the street.

She appeared unconscious and the two men picked her up and put her into the car, Baxter said.

Mrs. Mackison refused to testify on advice of her counsel.

MURPHY IS THIS WEEK'S 'BUYER' OF THE BRAVES

Boston, Mass., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The Boston Braves may be purchased by Maj. Francis J. Murphy, millionaire New England shoe manufacturer and a heavy stockholder in the club, according to rumors today.

C. F. Adams, acting president of the Braves, will retain his interest, but because of his heavy business activities he has not sufficient time to devote to running the ball club.

Maj. Murphy is said to favor Bob Quinn, former president of the Red Sox and present business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, as the boss of the Braves. Murphy refused to comment upon the report that he would buy the club, but admitted interest in the reorganization of the outfit.

"Any statement at this time would be premature," Maj. Murphy said. "I will say nothing except that Mr. Adams, myself, and a few associates are working out a financial reorganization of the club."

CLASSIC LEAGUE LEAD AT STAKE IN DUEL TONIGHT

The Classic league will bowl at the Lorraine Arcade tonight with the feature match pairing the Monarch Beers, last year's champions, and the Pabst Blue Ribbons. These teams are tied for the lead. The Moulding-Brownells will meet Edelweiss, the Ben Bey Cigars will roll the Oak Leaf Motors, and the Baby Ruths will shoot against the Miller High Life Beers.

Standings:

	W.	L.	Avg.		W.	L.	Avg.
Monarch	16	8	988	Edelweiss	11	13	952
Pabst	16	8	986	Ben Bey	10	14	941
Moulding	14	10	951	Baby Ruth	9	15	964
Miller	13	11	986	Oak Leaf	7	17	931

Adolph Carlson again is leading with an average of 207. This is the third season he has topped the individuals. Ed Kraft has 205; L. Faetz and Jerzyk, 202; Morrison, 199; Fuller, Pagel, Schanz, and Zajac, 198.

Notre Dame to Battle Ohio Before 80,000

ly 50 per cent completions in four games.

Before the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game, when the outcome was as questionable as in tomorrow's clash, Layden told us: "I believe we can take Pitt." In that game Notre Dame had an idea where to strike when opportunity came and Full Back Fred Carideo smashed through center to set the stage for the tying score.

Now Layden and his assistants have no knowledge of any loophole in Ohio State's defense. It may be Notre Dame can gain over the Buckeye tackles. Passes may be completed, but only the game itself will answer whether the Irish can breach the Buckeye's defenses.

Notre Dame's players, who worked out this afternoon at St. Charles' Seminary field, are in excellent physical condition with the exception of Mike Layden, right half back. Layden has nearly recovered from a leg injury suffered in the Carnegie Tech game. He can play; indeed, he played against Navy last week, but he still lacks one step of being as fast in dashes for forward passes, a vitally important item, as Notre Dame's offense is rigged.

Buckeyes Are Favorites.

Charles Hamrick, Ohio's left tackle, and Jim Karcher, left guard, are the semi-invalids in the Buckeyes' starting lineup. Hamrick's leg is injured and Karcher has a bruised shoulder, but both will play.

Casting accounts, it seems that Ohio State should be favorite in tomorrow's test. Superior replacements, advantage in weight, in preparation, and in schedule would be sufficient without mention of Joe Williams, whose achievements as an open field runner mark him as capable of beating the Irish if given fair blocking support.

So far, it is pointed out, Ohio State has had this disadvantage in attack. Its passers, Pincura and Dye, are not runners. Its runners, Heekin and Williams, have not forward passed, and the kicking duties have been assigned to other men than those mentioned. This division is an aid to smart defenders. Williams can kick. He did against Northwestern, but it is not likely that the task will be his tomorrow. He can pass and may against Notre Dame, for that ability is complement to his running. But Pincura's accuracy makes it logical to assume he still will be No. 1 thrower.

To The Winner, The Title.

Rumor has it that Ohio State will abandon many of its lateral trick passes for a sounder running, forward passing game. Notre Dame, it is assumed, will continue to depend on blocking power and the speed of its runners in reaching the line of scrimmage.

Notre Dame had only one line which could dent Pitt's defenses. But Pitt was hurled back consistently in the fourth period. If Notre Dame"s line can do as well against Ohio State, you can throw the 30 and 40 point predictions out of the window.

Of this you may be certain. Tomorrow's victor will find few to question its claim to national supremacy.

Notre Dame's special, which will bring 800 students and the university band, will arrive tomorrow morning. A score of other special trains will swell the growing throng now crowding all hotels, which have capitalized on demand by doubling and trebling rates. Taxi services have upped fares.

The Celebration Is On.

Hotels have stored their lobby furniture. Cheap plain chairs have replaced stuffed divans. Early arrivals have already begun their evening revels. Tonight Columbus is a Louisville before a Derby Day, a scene of gargantuan homecoming, a legion convention, and all because the undefeated Irish of Notre Dame are meeting the undefeated Buckeyes of Ohio State at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

DE KALB HOLDS LEAD TO DEFEAT WHEATON, 20 TO 13

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Displaying a versatile attack for one quarter, De Kalb Teachers today rolled up 20 points on Wheaton college and then had a hard time protecting the lead as Wheaton scored twice. The final score was De Kalb, 20; Wheaton, 13. It was the first time this season the De Kalb goal line has been crossed. De Kalb's touchdowns were the result of a 68 yard run by Chester Davis and two shorter dashes by Reino Nori.

Wheaton recovered a De Kalb fumble on the 40 yard line and marched down the field with Gilman scoring on a one yard plunge. Merritt plunged for the extra point. Gilman scored Wheaton's second touchdown in the last minute of play after a drive down the field had followed another De Kalb fumble.

NORTH CENTRAL MEETS UNBEATEN ELMHURST TODAY

Several North Central regulars will watch their positions played by reserves. Paul Shoger and Paul Hartman have forced Marquardt and Littleford to the bench and will start at guard, flanked by Jim Breen and Lloyd Wunsch at the tackles. Wunsch is just rounding into condition after a slow start due to a nervous breakdown last summer. Steinhebel, at center, Breen, at tackle, and Thumley and Dotlich at ends, will remain at their regular jobs.

In the back field Paul Lewis, 190 pound full back, has replaced Mike Adler. Co-Capt. Al Ditman and Hippo Spiegler will be at half back with Russell at quarter back.

Alekhine Gets Draw in Title Chess Match

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1.—Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris, defending champion, and Dr. Max Euwe, Amsterdam, drew in their thirteenth game of the title match after 50 moves today. The score now is Alekhine, 5; Euwe, 4; drawn, 4.

Oklahoma and Kansas to Clash in Big Six Today

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Kansas Jayhawkers, the only undefeated and untied football team in Big Six conference competition, will risk their record tomorrow against the Oklahoma Sooners, while the Nebraska Cornhuskers, title favorites, meet the Missouri Tigers.

Oklahoma, rich in reserves, promises to be a tough proposition on its home field at Norman, Okla., for the Jayhawkers, but anything but a Nebraska victory at Columbia, Mo., would be a stunning upset.

Nebraska's Cardwell is in good shape for Missouri, but the Tigers, making a comeback under a new coach after three lean years, are handicapped by injuries.

Kansas State, also badly crippled, will play Tulsa university at Tulsa, and Iowa State will meet undefeated Marquette at Milwaukee. Both are nonconference games.

KANSAS STATE DROPS CAPTAIN FOR MISCONDUCT

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Capt. Dean Griffing of the Kansas State football team has been dropped from the squad for his conduct during the Kansas game, athletic officials announced today. Griffing also violated training rules, Athletic Director M. F. Ahearn added.

Coach Wesley Fry said he would appoint captains for the games remaining on the Kansas State schedule. Griffing last week was expelled from the Kansas game for his fight with Tom McCall, Kansas center.

Injured Indiana Player Reported to Be Improving

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Improvement was reported at Bloomington hospital today in the condition of Leonard Cecil of Somerset, Ky., Indiana university reserve center, who received a ruptured kidney in scrimmage Wednesday. Although he still was suffering from hemorrhage, physicians expressed belief an operation would be unnecessary.

Boilermakers See Chance to Whip Gophers

Tomorrow the Boilermakers will engage in a hearty breakfast at 8 o'clock. They will rest until luncheon, scheduled for 11 o'clock. Somewhat to our surprise we learned that this meal is not the baseball players' lunch of soup, ice cream, and a beverage, but a tenderloin steak, with zweiback or dry toast, and tea. It was explained that a small bit of meat was desirable because the game begins at 2 o'clock and is not over before 4 o'clock, about five hours from the noon day meal, too long to go without some bottom to the food supply.

Dad's Day for Gophers.

Minnesota followed the Boilermakers in use of Memorial stadium, took dinner together and remained all night at the Nicollet hotel to follow the same general diet program as their guests. Following the game the Gophers will appear at a Dad's day celebration while the Boilermakers will be guests of local Purdue alumni at a dinner and dance before departure of their train for Lafayette via Chicago.

Downtown quarter backs, without consulting Coaches Bierman or Kizer, have mapped out the strategy in advance. Here it is:

Minnesota will depend largely on its line, using Beise, powerful driving full back, more than previously when his talents have been applied to blocking. With supposed line superiority, they will attempt to break loose Tuffy Thompson, sophomore sensation against Northwestern, and elusive George Roscoe for their running game. Both as a threat and gains, Roscoe will drop back for passing. Against Purdue's aerials the ends, Dwight Reed and Ray King, will charge in fast to hurry the passer.

No Weight Advantage.

Purdue, say these self-appointed strategists, will not attempt a line piercing game, but principally will rely upon its puzzling forward pass attack, in which nearly every member of the Purdue double back field is proficient at both hurling and receiving. Purdue's line, they think, is underrated.

Purdue's men looked big, surprisingly big, to the welcoming delegation which met them at the train. There is practically no avoirdupois advantage in either line or back field.

Indiana Cross-Country Team Faces Michigan State

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The Indiana university cross country team, paced by Don Lash, Tommy Deckard, and James Smith, will meet the Michigan State squad, led by Bechtold and Gardner, here tomorrow.

CORNELL DENIES IT SEEKS WARNER AS HEAD COACH

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Reports that Glenn [Pop] Warner, Temple university coach, would succeed Gil Dobie as head coach at Cornell university, were denied by both Warner and James Lynah, Cornell athletic director, today.

"The reports are untrue," Lynah said. "We are not planning any changes in our coaching staf for next season."

PREPS ARRESTED, FOOTBALL COACH CANCELS GAMES

Crossett, Ark., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—There will be no more games this season for the Crossett High school football team. Coach Lester Mason canceled the remaining contests on the schedule after five members of the team broke training last night. The youths were arrested for Halloween pranks and remained in jail several hours.

Michigan and Penn Resume Old Rivalry

gles with Illinois, Ohio State, and Minnesota.

Schuman Replaces Sobsey.

Another blow fell last night when Sol Sobsey, right guard, came down with a collar bone separation. He will be replaced by Stan Schuman, a Winnetka boy. Farmer Lincoln, a sophomore, probably will be Viergever's understudy, although Jesse Garber and Tiny Wright also are possibilities.

The Michigan back field will consist of Capt. Bill Renner at quarter back; Chris Everhardus, brother of Herman, and Johnny Smithers at the halves, and Cedric Sweet at full back. The principal Wolverine weapon is Renner's right arm, which pitched three touchdowns against Wisconsin.

Against Penn's attack, based on sheer power, Michigan's only hope appears to be through the air, for Everhardus is the only consistent ground gainer in the back field. Sweet, who has improved after an erratic beginning, will handle the punting chore.

Michigan Still Up There.

Regardless of the outcome of tomorrow's game, the Wolverines still will be in the position of being tied for first place in the conference. After losing their opener to Michigan State, 25 to 6, the Wolverines came back to win from Indiana and Wisconsin, and last Saturday, with a couple of breaks early in the game, beat Columbia, 19 to 7, although observers stated they were no great shakes in winning over the team which Penn had trampled 34 to 0.

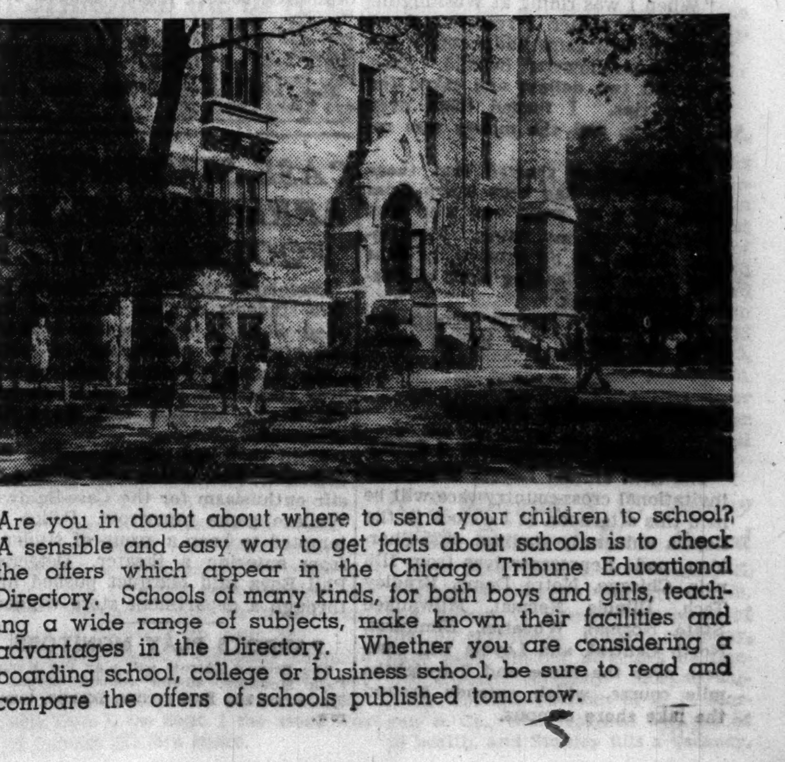
TO GET FACTS ABOUT SCHOOLS!



Are you in doubt about where to send your children to school? A sensible and easy way to get facts about schools is to check the offers which appear in the Chicago Tribune Educational Directory. Schools of many kinds, for both boys and girls, teaching a wide range of subjects, make known their facilities and advantages in the Directory. Whether you are considering a boarding school, college or business school, be sure to read and compare the offers of schools published tomorrow.

Grand Slam Heads Field in Futurity Today.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Eight colts and one filly have been named for the $55,930 Pimlico futurity which will be revived here tomorrow after a lapse since 1932 when the depression forced a change in the Maryland Jocky club's stake program. It is estimated that at least 20,000 will turn out for the mile and a sixteenth event, which is the longest distance two year olds have been asked to go this year.

Grand Slam, owned by the Bomar stable from Detroit and a triple stake winner, is the favorite due to his record and to the fact that he is an excellent mudder. The outlook is for a track not at its best, and probably a deep one if more rain falls. It was in such footing that Grand Slam swept to victory in the Arlington futurity and the Kentucky Jocky club stakes.

Whitney Racer Is Entered.

Even on an off track Grand Slam faces a difficult task, as those named include Hollyrood, Snark, Jean Bart, and Ned Reigh, all potential winners. The field is completed by Delphinium, Mad Mahdi, the filly Beanie M., and Bright Plumage. The last named is from the C. V. Whitney string and is a doubtful starter, depending on the going. He wants a fast track.

If Bright Plumage is scratched it will have an important bearing on Grand Slam's chances, as it will release Raymond [Sonny] Workman for the mount on the Bomar colorbearer. Richards has the Grand Slam mount contingent upon Workman not being free to ride.

There were eight races this afternoon, the extra one being the steeplechase which the Maryland racing commission permits to be put on in addition to seven flat events.

Three Jockys Injured.

This steeplechase, the Montpelier, brought injury to three riders when their horses came down in the slippery footing. Jockies R. Williams and J. Eaby were removed to the South Baltimore General hospital.

An examination at the track showed Williams had suffered three broken ribs and probable injuries to his back. Eaby has a broken shoulder and several cuts. Fred Bellhouse, considered by many the best of the professional riders, sprained his ankle and suffered cuts on his nose.

After the horses had gone down, Carleton H. Palmer's Matar galloped on to an easy eight lengths victory, and returned $7.90 for $2 to his backers.

Horse.	Jocky.	Weight.	Prob. odds.
Beanie M.	Meade	119	6-1
Grand Slam	Workman	122	2-1
Hollyrood	Coucci	122	3-1
*Brt. Plumage	No boy	122	20-1
Delphinium	Woolf	119	10-1
Jean Bart	Arcaro	122	5-1
Mad Mahdi	S. Renick	122	15-1
Snark	Kurtsinger	119	7-2
Ned Reigh	Wright	119	15-1

New York Race Ruler Is Called by Grand Jury

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(AP)—In a surprise move, Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. today subpenaed John Sloan, member of the state racing commission, to appear before the Saratoga county grand jury investigating race track racketeering.

Sloan yesterday challenged Herbert Bayard Swope, commission chairman, on future policies of that body after Swope had said that changes in administrative detail only were needed to clean up racing, rather than changes in basic policy. Sloan declared the racing public needed more protection from gangsters and other objectionable elements frequenting race tracks.

Tells of Fake Tipsters.

Meanwhile Frank Kopel and Eddie Arcaro, jockies summoned to testify, declared they did not know what "this is all about." The attorney general's office said the jockies had figured at Saratoga Springs last August in races which alleged "fake tipsters" told clients were "fixed."

While awaiting his turn to go before the grand jury, Arcaro said he had learned of an instance of a fake tipster service in Chicago.

Capitalize on Arcaro's Name.

"When I was riding at Washington park this summer I received about 50 letters that came addressed to me from track followers," he said. "Each contained two dollars and asked for betting tips. I turned them over to a judge, and the money was refunded.

"Investigation showed that these people's names had been taken from sucker lists by some one who was capitalizing on my name. The tipsters claimed to be Arcaro. At that time I was the leading rider of winners at the track."

Arcaro did not further identify the judge to whom the letters were given.

Cross-Country Teams Race at Loyola Today

The fifth annual Loyola university invitational cross-country race will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Loyola university stadium, 6525 Sheridan road. Representatives from Illinois, Chicago, Notre Dame, Bradley Tech, Illinois Normal, Milwaukee State Normal, Wheaton, Elmhurst, North Central, and Loyola will compete over the three and five-eighths mile course, which extends around the lake shore campus.

Pheasant Army Keeps Illinois Hunters Busy

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Huron, S. D., Nov. 1.—There was snow on the ground, ice on the rivers and a biting north wind whipping across the prairie when our squad of Illinois and Huron hunters hiked through the yellow cornfields to find pheasants. Although this winter setting was not desired for the hunt, it didn't prevent the pheasant rodeo from carrying on as usual.

From noon until a blazing red sun went down behind the snow covered hills the 12, 16 and 20 gauge guns were cracking at big pheasant roosters flushed from heavy cover. To add to the color of this exciting hunt, with its abundance of shots for everybody, mallard ducks swung over the pheasant country during the afternoon.

Farmer Joins Hunt.

The hunt on the land of a hospitable farmer who picked up his shotgun and joined us involved just about every type of shooting that could be asked for by a sportsman who likes to down the big pheasant roosters. There were organized drives through cornfields with extra beaters in line so that the hunters had shots all the way down the field. With a 25 mile an hour wind behind the flushed birds, they came down wind at terrific speed to give us high overhead shots as well as plenty of tricky angling birds to shoot at.

Then there was regular upland game hunting with dogs. Two setters and a springer spaniel gave us the thrill of exploding birds out of thick cover. Early in the afternoon during a lull in the program of cornfield drives three of us worked a narrow patch of weeds next to the river for a few hundred yards. This provided one of those unforgettable minutes of rapid fire shooting with 15 to 20 birds flushing in threes or fours from the thick vegetation.

During one of these pheasant waves, Barney Weir of Huron, the leader of the afternoon's hunt, stood in one spot and dropped three husky pheasant rosters as fast as he could shoot.

Plenty of Birds.

The hunt on a ranch next to the Jim river showed that Illinois upland game hunters must be prepared for an attack of pheasant fever when they get out here to hunt. Part of our gang swept through a stand of heavy cover about 3 o'clock in the afternoon expecting to pick up a few birds before we moved into another cornfield.

Before they finished their hike through the thicket between 125 and 150 pheasants had roared out of the weeds and the willows. The Illinois hunters came out of this pheasant den with eyes popping, guns hot and expressions of amazement at the number of birds found out here.

Illinois hunters are advised to bring hunting dogs if they have them because a dog to retrieve down birds is a tremendous help. Any breed of dog that can mark a bird, chase a cripple and hunt in heavy cover will be an asset.

Hunting Dogs to Compete in Field Trials

Several breeds of hunting dogs will be tested in field trials to be held near Chicago today and tomorrow, including springer spaniels, pointers, setters, and coonhounds.

The Springer Spaniel Field Trial club of Illinois will stage a puppy and a nonwinners stake today on the grounds of the Aurora Hunting and Fishing club at Montgomery, just below Aurora on the west side of the Fox river.

Springers to Work.

Tomorrow the open all age stake will be held on the Crane estate near St. Charles. Between 22 and 30 springers will compete in these stakes, with the judging to be done by Martin Hogan, E. J. Whelan, and Francis Squires.

The fall field trial of the Northern Indiana Coonhound Field Trial club will be staged tomorrow at Lake Village, Ind., 50 miles south of Chicago. The trials will start at 8:30 o'clock and will last through most of the day. A number of coons have been liberated on the field trial grounds, and more than 60 dogs will compete.

Huber, Harrison to Judge.

The Western Pointer and Setter club will hold its fifth anual shooting dog field trial today and tomorrow near Glen Ellyn, with Otto Huber, Chicago, and Dave Harrison, Owensboro, Ky., as the judges. The trial headquarters will be located at Stanton's Riding academy, Glen Ellyn. The puppy and Derby stakes will be run today, with the all age stake scheduled tomorrow. Club officers expect an entry of more than 50 dogs.

REBOLI IS TEAMED WITH TESTA IN SIX DAY RACE

Tino Reboli, Italian youngster and one of the most promising six day cyclists competing today, will be paired with Eddie Testa of Los Angeles, Cal., also an Italian, in the six day race which starts a week from tomorrow night in the Stadium.

Cecil Yates of the south side, and Tony Schaller of the north side, will make up the Chicago team. Yates won a recent race in Louisville, Ky.

Reboli is well known in Chicago. John M. Chapman always said Reboli had the greatest pair of legs in cycling and that he figured the Newark boy would become one of the greatest of six day riders. Reboli is only 21 years old and while he has never won a six day race, he has always been near the top. Two years ago he and Edoardo Severgnini led the Chicago race until the last five minutes when Torchy Peden and Tony Schaller lapped the field to win.

Testa made his first appearance in the east last season. He competed in and won several races on the Pacific coast. He came east on the recommendation of Reggie McNamara.

EXPECT LARGEST HOLIDAY TRADE IN FIVE YEARS

Dun & Bradstreet Report Preparatory Buying.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today in its weekly trade review an outlook for a gain in Christmas business. Orders placed with merchandising wholesalers, the indices showed, foretell the largest holiday buying since the stock market tumble.

In spite of the adverse influence of continued unfavorable weather in some parts of the country, retail distribution turned upward last week, with the broadest trend apparent in manufacturing districts, the survey shows.

Sales Exceed Previous Week.

"With cooler weather a stimulating factor in many districts," the report adds, "retail sales averaged 2 to 7 per cent larger than a week earlier, while estimated totals were ahead of those for the corresponding 1934 week by a range of 4 to 15 per cent.

"The chief increase in wholesale volume was contributed by the enlarging holiday commitments. The assemblage of Christmas merchandise apparently has started in earnest, and, based on orders thus far placed, retailers are planning for the largest holiday business since 1930.

"Buying of toys is far from being completed, but orders already range from 10 to 12 per cent above the 1934 total, with reorders expected to be heavy, as some merchants plan to open toy departments around the middle of the month.

Industry More Active.

"The general level of industrial operations rose, with the automobile divisions strongly in the lead. The average, on the whole, was close to 50 per cent above that prevailing at the close of October, 1934.

"Electric output entered new high ground, a gain of 1.8 per cent boosting it above the all-time peak established two weeks ago and 13 per cent above 1934 total."

Tangible evidence of the improvement in brokerage house commissions in the last three or four months as the result of the substantial pickup in stock trading was furnished today. At least two large Wall street houses announced in each instance a bonus of one week's salary to all employés and indications are that many more will fall in line before the year ends.

BUTTER MARKET STRONG; EGGS ALSO CLOSE HIGHER

Favorable statistical news was again a factor in the butter market yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Prices moved up ¼ to ⅜ cent, December selling at a new high for the year. Closing trades were about the top, with November at 28½ cents per pound. The four leading markets reported withdrawals from storage of 250,000 pounds in excess of the corresponding period last year. Profit taking and hedging sales checked the advance.

Colder weather over the west increased the demand for cold storage eggs yesterday, and for the first time in many days withdrawals exceeded those of a year ago. Chicago alone took out 30,000 cases. While the big movement was brought about to some extent by the fact that seasonal storage rates expired at the end of October, the news was sufficient to lift futures ⅜ cent, November closing at 23⅞ cents per dozen. Sales of butter futures were 174 cars and eggs 161 cars. Deliveries of butter on November contracts were 10 cars. Prices:

COTTON FUTURES WEAKEN UNDER HEDGING PRESSURE

Cotton futures were slightly higher at the start yesterday in sympathy with Liverpool cotton and on the forecast for freezing weather in Oklahoma, but the fractional upturn brought in hedging pressure. A recession followed and Chicago closed 2 to 6 points lower while New York was unchanged to 6 points lower. New Orleans had a holiday.

There was a fairly good business in spreading operations between the various deliveries, especially in the way of buying December and selling October, and the spread at New York widened to 41 points or $2.05 per bale.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE IN LARGEST TRADE OF WEEK

Twenty Issues Touch New Highs for Year.

Shaking off the irregularity which had prevailed earlier this week, Chicago stocks turned upward again yesterday on a broad front. Volume reached 100,000 shares, the biggest day's turnover this week.

Fifty-two of the 115 issues traded advanced, with 20 making new highs for the year. Thirty-four were steady and 22 declined. A score of issues went up a point or more.

Motor, steel, utility, radio, building, and specialty shares had a part in the rise. Cities Service, in a turnover of 12,500 shares, advanced fractionally.

Several Utilities Rise.

Gains of a point or more were scored in the utility group by Central Illinois Public Service, Central and Southwest prior lien, Southwest Gas and Electric, and Southwest Light and Power. Penn Gas rose to another high. Edison and Public Service were about steady.

Houdaille B was the pacemaker of the motors, with a rise of 1¼ points and a new high in brisk trade, while Borg-Warner advanced a point. Bendix and Cord were off fractionally. Continental showed the way for the steels, winding up a 4,000 share day at 37⅜, up ⅞ point, after touching a new high of 39. Keystone moved up 1½.

Bruce Shows Advance.

In the buiding field E. L. Bruce advanced 2 points and touched another 1935 high in a 4,800 share turnover. Crane pushed up 1¾ points in an active day. The radios saw Zenith and Ken-Rad both making new tops in heavy trading.

Others making new highs, each with at least a full point gain, included McCord Radiator, National Battery preferred, North West Engineering, Williams Oilomatic, and Jefferson Electric.

Great Lakes Dredge led its group with a new high and heavy trade. Packers were about steady, while merchandise shares were weak compared with the rest of the market.

CREDIT CONTROL PROVES PUZZLE TO NEW DEALERS

Treasury, Reserve Board 'Pass Buck.'

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

B. M. ANDERSON.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—What to do with credit controls to prevent the New Deal "easy money" and government spending program from generating a runaway stock market boom is as much a puzzle to the treasury department and the federal reserve board as it is to President Charles R. Gay of the New York Stock exchange and Chairman James M. Landis of the securities and exchange commission, it was learned here today.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. admitted that a memorandum on the matter had been forwarded to him by the federal reserve board, but he also disclosed that he had "passed the buck" back to the board. It is, he contends, a matter that should be handled directly by the board and not by the treasury.

Not Ready to Act.

Members of the federal reserve board, however, protesting that the situation is not sufficiently acute to require emergency treatment, say that they have adopted a "do nothing" policy for the time being.

That a dangerous market situation exists was first pointed out by President Gay of the New York Stock exchange about three weeks ago when he explained that the pressure of unprecedentedly high excess bank reserves might easily cause an aboritve inflation boom in the stock market. He expressed fears that once started such a boom might not be controlable.

At a press conference the following day Chairman Landis of the Securities and Exchange commission, indicating that he shared Gay's apprehension, admitted that the SEC would not be able to check such an inflation boom.

Will "Wait and See."

Federal reserve authorities at the quarterly meeting of the "open market committee" here last week, it was learned, discussed possible action under the enlarged powers granted them under the banking act of 1935, but decided to "wait and see."

Unlike the SEC, the members of the federal reserve board do possess important powers over the entire structure of bank credit. Because of possible political effects, however, and because they themselves do not know just how great the threat of an inflation boom really is, they hesitate to exercise these powers—preferring to drift along a little longer and see what happens.

Another important and largely personal consideration being taken into account by the members of the federal reserve board is that most of them are not sure just how long their jobs will last.

Under the provisions of the banking act of 1935 the federal reserve board will be revamped on Feb. 1, 1936, when President Roosevelt will appoint the members of the new "board of governors of the federal reserve system."

Idle Funds Disturbing.

The thing that worries the managements of the stock exchanges is the vast accumulation of idle bank funds. Bank deposits have been rising ever since the moratorium, as a result of the steady expansion of the government debt. During the last few weeks the situation has been made more acute by heavy shipments of gold to the United States from war frightened European capitals.

This increase in bank deposits has occurred during a period in which banks have been unable to find employment for their increased deposits because of a lack of demand for loans by commercial borrowers. As a result the idle money has simply been piled up. The amount of reserve funds carried with the federal reserve system by commercial member banks in excess of legal requirements has risen to three billion ten million dollars, a sufficient base for a thirty billion dollar expansion of bank credit.

The consequent competition for business between banks has pushed interest rates to all time lows and has driven money into the stock market.

Anderson Offers Solution.

Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson, economist for the Chase National bank, speaking before the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America on Wednesday, urged that the federal reserve board adopt a positive policy of removing the danger by reducing the excess reserves.

This could be done in two ways, Dr. Anderson said, either by increasing the percentage of their deposits which the commercial member banks are legally required to carry with the federal reserve system, or by having the federal reserve banks sell some of their vast holdings of government bonds and letting the commercial banks buy them with some of their idle funds.

Asked to comment on the Anderson proposals, Secretary Morgenthau declined, saying there was too much "dynamite" in these proposals to risk public discussion of them.

Seek to Use Traction Fund for Extensions

A suggestion that the city's traction fund be used to finance street car extensions and improvements was contained in the proposal for reorganization of the street railway companies of the city, filed yesterday with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the companies are in receivership.

Judge Wilkerson authorized the reorganization committee, headed by W. Rufus Abbott, chairman of the board of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, to seek approval of the plan by the various protective committees representing various classes of security holders of the present companies.

Security Groups Represented.

The reorganization committee is made up of spokesmen for the various security groups. The fact that the consent of the committee is fairly well assured was indicated by the fact that the Abbott committee will report back to Judge Wilkerson next Friday. If the security holders' committee assent, the Abbott committee will then circularize the individual security holders, seeking their consent, which will make the plan operative.

The traction fund is under the jurisdiction of the city and the suggestion that it be used for improvements was not an integral part of the plan.

"A traction fund to be accumulated out of the revenue derived from fares paid by surface lines riders was created under the 1907 ordinance and is now in the possession of the city of Chicago," the report stated. "This fund on Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to approximately $63,000,000. As it was contributed by surface lines car riders it should be used for their benefit in coöperation with the new company in amplifying, extending, and perfecting the present system."

Would Form One Company.

There are at present four street car companies, with unified operation as the Chicago Surface Lines, but independent financial structures. The reorganization provides for the exchange of all their securities for the first mortgage bonds and preferred and common stock of a new company, the Chicago Surface Lines, Inc. The details of the exchanges offered for each type of present security were printed by THE TRIBUNE last Monday.

The indenture for the first mortgage bonds is to be of the modern "open end" variety, permitting borrowing of new capital for extensions and improvements by means of bonds which would rank with those first mortgage bonds to be exchanged for senior liens of existing companies.

Chicago Grain Board Seat Sells for $6,400, Up $400

STREET CAR AND 'L' TRAFIC BELOW 1934; DUE TO WORLD'S FAIR

Two local companies yesterday reported declines in trafic during October as compared with a year ago, the World's Fair of last year still being largely responsible for the let down in 1935.

The Chicago Surface lines reported a total of 56,947,804 passengers, including those using the new rapid transit-street car transfers where the transfers originated on the street car lines. This was a decline of 5.54 per cent from a year ago.

Although there was an increase of 5,448,846 passengers over the 51,498,958 for September, the gain was said to be seasonal and not caused entirely by the new transfer system. It was pointed out that trafic usually is heavier in October due to the opening of schools and the end of the vacation season. Improved industrial conditions and weather also contributed to the gain.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company announced a decline of 4.33 per cent in trafic from a year ago, exclusive of passengers using the new transfers, figures for which are not yet available. For the first ten month of the year the "L" showed an improvement of 0.17 per cent over 1934. Bus figures will be announced within the next few days.

RADIO CORPORATION'S NET PROFITS HIGHER; GROSS RISES SHARPLY

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A net income of $511,987 was reported by the Radio Corporation of America for the third quarter of 1935, in a statement issued today by David Sarnoff, president. This equaled 10.5 cents a share on 767,275 class B. preferred shares after class A preferred dividends for the period. A year ago $406,190, or 82 cents a share on 495,597 class A preferred shares, was earned.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30 net profit was $2,801,123, or $1.95 a share on the class B preferred shares after dividend requirements on class A preferred shares, compared with $2,177,771, equivalent to $1.14 a share on the B shares, in the same period of 1934.

Income from operations for the third quarter was $19,433,642, compared with $16,492,887 a year before, an increase of 17.8 per cent for the nine months, gross income from operations was $59,096,963, against $52,648,007, an increase of 12.2 per cent.

REPORT URGES NEW YORK BUY TRANSIT LINES

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Purchase of the combined rapid transit properties of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Interborough and Manhattan Railway companies by the city for a gross price of $430,751,000 and a net cost of $416,861,000, was recommended in a report submitted to Mayor La Guardia and the board of estimate today by Attorney Samuel Seabury and City Chamberlain A. A. Berle Jr.

Consummation of the unity plan, as recommended in the report, will mean the issuance of $109,968,000 of city bonds; $109,968,000 of first mortgage bonds of the proposed board of transit control; $187,362,000 in second mortgage bonds of the same body, and the assumption of $22,423,000 of mortgages on the Brooklyn-Manhattan Elevated lines. The outstanding mortgages on the Manhattan Railway Elevated lines of the interborough system will be extinguished.

Seabury and Berle estimated municipal purchase of the interborough system and its operation by the proposed board of transit control, based on trafic figures for the 1935 fiscal year, would result in a net gain to the city of $4,700,000 annually. The net gain from the combined operation of the Brooklyn-Manhattan and Interborough systems under unification was estimated at more than $9,000,000 a year.

BONDS OF FIRMS REORGANIZING TO BE TRADED "FLAT"

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Adoption of a general policy that trading on the New York Stock exchange shall be "flat" in all bonds or other direct obligations of corporations in reorganization under sections 77 and 77B of the bankruptcy act, was announced by the committee on securities of the exchange today.

The exchange made known its change in policy coincident with the announcement that all bonds of the New York, New Haxen & Hartford Railroad system would be traded "flat" effective today as a result of a court order to the company suspending payment of interest due.

Rulings as to specific issues will be made by the committee on securties under its new general policy as soon as possible after the exchange receives official notice that a petition for the reorganization of the issuer has been approved by a district court of the United States, it was stated. However, it is not contemplated any change will be made in the method for trading in bonds of corporations in reorganization upon which continued interest payments have been made.

Auburn Reported Planning Issue to Finance Expansion

Reports circulated in financial circles here yesterday asserted the Auburn Automobile company was planning new financing to cover expansions planned for next year. The reports indicated the company would shortly file a note issue with the securities and exchange commission. Officials referred inquiries to E. L. Cord, who is in New York. Advices from there said Cord could not be reached.

New Building Shows Gain in October

BY AL CHASE.

Building construction in Chicago during October increased in number and dollar value over September and a year ago, Richard E. Schmidt, building commissioner, reported yesterday. A total of 115 building permits were issued last month for construction valued at $1,866,125. During October, 1934, 68 permits had a dollar value of $1,062,940. In September of this year there were 100 permits with a dollar value of $1,326,200.

For the first ten months of 1935 permits were issued for 821 projects involving a reported expenditure of $11,605,596. This compared with 429 permits for the same period last year with a dollar value of $6,919,501.

Home Building Decreases.

Home building decreased slightly in number of projects last month as compared with the preceding month, but a gain in business buildings was registered. Permits were issued for 44 single family dwellings as compared with 47 in September. Permits for 61 business buildings were issued, compared with 37 in the preceding month.

The Standard Statistics company yesterday reported residential building activity through the country registered further contraseasonal expansion during the first two weeks of October. Contract awards during that period were about 66 per cent larger than the first half of the preceding month and 140 per cent ahead of the totals a year ago. Nonresidential construction also increased.

Wilmette Block Sold.

The Rockhold store and office building at the southeast corner of Central and Wilmette avenues, Wilmette, one of the largest structures of its kind on the north shore, was purchased by a syndicate yesterday from Katherine M. Rockhold of California, for an undisclosed consideration. The property had been held at $225,000, according to John J. Downey & Co., who represented the buyers. Fred Breitling was broker for the seller.

John R. O'Connor, real estate operator and member of the Chicago Real Estate board, yesterday was installed as district director of northern Illinois for the Federal Housing administration.

It was announced that the Northern Illinois district of the FHA handled the largest volume of business so far reported under the mutual mortgage insurance provisions of the national housing act during the two weeks ending Oct. 30. The total was $850,876.

Mortgages accepted for insurance numbered 74 and totaled $399,575. Of these, 61 were for $307,375 for refinancing on existing property and 13, for $92,200, were for new home construction.

GOLD DUST WILL SHARE PROFITS ABOVE DIVIDENDS

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Gold Dust corporation revealed today a plan for permitting executives and employés to share in profits in excess of dividend requirements.

Under the plan, approved by voting trustees for common stock, there will be set aside each year from June 30, 1936, to June 30, 1940, inclusive, from consolidated net profits, in excess of dividend requirements on the preferred and $1 a share on common, 20 per cent up to $1,000,000 and 10 per cent of the excess from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 as extra compensation to officials.

The president, with approval of the board chairman, will designate the officers who will participate and the amount of the bonus. For the year ended June 30, 1935, the company's earnings were equivalent to 97 cents a common share.

Chicago Curb Becomes Registered Exchange

The Chicago Curb exchange yesterday became a fully registered national stock exchange under the securities and exchange act of 1934, officials of the organization announced. Twenty-two stock and two bond issues listed by the exchange have obtained permanent registration with the SEC, and 26 stock and 6 bond issues have been granted temporary trading privileges.

STOCKS SURGE AHEAD; COPPERS AND AUTOS LEAD

Rumors of Dividend Increases Spread.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 1.—Stocks pulled further ahead on a wide front today in spite of week-end profit taking tremors here and there. Gains of 1 to 2 points were the rule for the pacemakers of nearly every division.

The market seemed completely recovered from its recent sinking spell and went ahead easily in the absence of nearby offerings. Tape observers were of the opinion that the technical position of most stocks had been fully corrected and that the list could again reflect bullish influences in the business situation. They pointed out, too, that inflation pyschology was still a factor in accelerating the advance because basic industry issues were among those most in favor.

Copper and Motors Lead.

Copper and motor shares, seconded by steels, accounted for the bulk of activity. Chrysler and General Motors were both conspicuous most of the session. The "street" heard that several of the copper companies were getting set to resume or increase their dividends, including American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, and Kennecott, and this stimulated buying in the shares of the group. Kennecott sold to a new high, American Smelting crossed 60 for the first time in five years and U. S. Smelting rose more than 2 points. International Nickel was strong.

Reports of higher earnings by leading oil companies and expectations of some extra dividends on the nearby future encouraged fresh speculation for the rise in shares of this industry. Net gains, however, were of a fractional nature in the main.

Larger Oil Dividends.

Announcement that the Standard Oil company New Jersey had fulfilled popular expectations by declaring an extra 25 cents a share on top of its regular semi-annual dividend of 50 cents, just as it did last year, and predictions that Standard of Indiana may declare an extra in view of its exceptionally good earnings year helped the group.

National Steel was another issue to capitalize a better earnings report in the approved market fashion. It rose 2 points, but was not able to hold all its newly won ground in the face of late afternoon profit taking.

American Telephone and Western Union were prominent in the communications sector, each winding up a dollar a share or more to the good. Rails made fractional gains.

Tape watchers were diverted by some broad moves by independent performers. Coca Cola, with a dividend meeting coming on, rose 6 points on one sale. Erie and Pittsburgh, an inactive rail, advanced more than 12 points on one sale. Sharp gains were made in both classes of McKesson and Robbins, Owens Glass, Thatcher and Crown Cork.

U. S. BOARD HALTS UTILITY MERGERS TO CLARIFY RULE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A temporary suspension of action on all applications for federal power commission approval of mergers, consolidations, sales, or other disposition of public utility facilities, as well as requests for approval of utility security acquisitions, was announced by that agency today.

The commission gave as the reason for its action the need for working out of a coöperative procedure between itself and the securities and exchange commission. The latter agency is given general jurisdiction over provisions of the law relative to utility holding companies with the power commission dealing exclusively with operating facilities.

Notwithstanding this cleavage of jurisdiction as provided in the statute, the SEC is accorded priority of jurisdiction in event of any confusion as to which agency should properly function in a given instance. Officials of both commissions scouted suggestions that a controversy between them might have arisen in connection with the operation of the act.

CHICAGO PHONES IN USE CLIMB TO TWO YEAR PEAK

Telephones in service in Chicago during October showed a sharp increase to the highest total in more than two years. The total was 842,256, an increase of 4,966.

In September an increase of 5,502 phones was reported, and in October of last year a gain of 4,654 was recorded. In the first ten months of the year there has been an increase of approximately 18,000 stations over 1934, when the increase amounted to 18,150 over 1933.

The present number of phones is 48,710 larger than the depression low reached in August, 1933, and 151,134 less than the peak set in April, 1930.

National Steel Earnings Sharply Higher This Year

The National Steel corporation and subsidiaries report for the September quarter net profit of $2,287,763, equal to $1.06 a share, against $347,199, or 16 cents a share in the September quarter a year ago. Net profit for nine months was $8,603,758, or $3.99 a share, against $4,582,896, or $2.12 a share in the like period of 1934.

A CHEVROLET MODEL FOR 1936

Cook County Motor Sales Show Upturn

Sales of new automobiles in Cook county during October were ahead of both the preceding month and October, 1934, aggregating 4,836 cars as against 4,691 and 4,111, respectively, according to figures compiled yesterday by R. L. Polk & Co.

Two factors were largely responsible for converting into a gain what otherwise would have been a decline because of the in-between-seasons aspect of the month, with most manufacturers at low ebb production as they started production of 1936 models.

Auburn's sale of 556 new Checker cabs put it in third place with 572 unit sales, contrasted with 194 in September and 48 in October, 1934. The second positive factor was Buick's sharp spurt following announcement of its new models several weeks in advance of most others. It hopped from ninth to fourth place in Cook county sales, with 541 cars, compared with 137 in September and 243 a year ago.

Ford and Chevrolet Lead.

Ford and Chevrolet held their one-two position, although sales fell off nearly a third from September. Ford was ahead of last year's figure, but Chevrolet slipped behind.

The Auburn and Buick gains sent Plymouth, Dodge, and Oldsmobile back two notches, though the three maintained their relative standings. Oldsmobile was ahead of both September and a year ago, while Dodge was ahead of last year. Other comparisons were unfavorable.

Packard enjoyed one of the sharp gains, both over the preceding month and a year ago totals, to hold eighth position. Pontiac was back three notches to ninth, although its sales were ahead of September.

Another sharp rise was that of Cadillac-La Salle, up four notches to tenth place, with sales nearly double the preceding month and year ago totals.

Sales of Groups Shown.

Eleven of the 21 car groups showed gains in sales over September and nine were ahead of October, 1934. Seven of the first 10 in sales, however, were among the gainers over last year. Figures follow:

RFC'S PROFITS TOTAL $110,000,000, JONES ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—An operating profit of $110,000,000, was claimed for the Reconstruction Finance corporation today by Chairman Jesse H. Jones. Of the $5,700,000,000 of non-federal loan disbursements through loans and investments, 64 per cent have been repaid, he said.

Speaking before the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer association, Jones reiterated his conviction that, except for continued acute unemployment, "the depression is substantially a thing of the past" and that "recovery has been attained."

Jones asserted that "we want to get the government out of business just as rapidly as we can, but we do not want to get out until we should. We still have the problem of unemployment and I am afraid we shall have that problem much longer than any of us are willing to admit."

REED RESIGNS ARMOUR POST TO JOIN SUBSIDIARY

Philip L. Reed, vice president and treasurer of Armour & Co. for the last ten years, has resigned to become vice chairman of Winslow Brothers & Smith, Boston, a subsidiary in the wool and sheep lether trade, R. H. Cabell, president, announced yesterday.

L. E. McCauley, assistant treasurer of Armour, has been named acting treasurer. He will begin his duties at once and will be formally elected treasurer and vice president at a meeting of directors Nov. 22.

Cabell said contemplated expansion by Winslow Brothers required additional executive direction and Reed was chosen for the post because of long experience in the wool business.

RISE IN STEEL PRICES, UNCHANGED FOR YEAR, PREDICTED THIS MONTH

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Advances of as much as $2 a ton on the various classifications of semi-finished and finished steel products were reported today in Wall street as being under serious consideration by leading steel makers.

No official announcements from steel corporations were made on prices, but there were declarations that the "tendency" has been toward higher prices for several weeks. In Cleveland steel circles it was reported that a rise was probable within a few days. Figures from that source were $1 to $2 a ton on semi-finished steel and $1 on finished steel products.

Authorities in New York anticipated an announcement by the fourth week of this month, since under the abandoned NRA code it was customary to make public the new price schedules about one month and a week before they were to become effective for the coming quarter. Steel men have adhered to the old code "in principle."

There has been no material advance in semi-finished or finished steel since July 1, 1934, it was said here, although pig iron prices have been marked up recently on a wide-spread scale.

Under the NRA code, no prices quoted by producers could be in effect for more than three months in advance, but it was asserted by some steel men that no provision now exists for limiting quotations to that length of time.

AUTO DEALERS' RULES VETOED BY FEDERAL BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today disapproved trade practice conference rules for retail automobile dealers proposed by representatives of the trade.

In announcing the disapproval the commission said that four of the six proposed rules embodied an illegal price fixing arrangement and would tend "unreasonably" to restrain trade in violation of the federal anti-trust laws. The commission advised the industry that the other rules would be approved if revised in conformity with certain suggestions.

The commission in September advised counsel for the National Retail Automobile Dealers' association that the commission had no discretionary power to approve trade rules if they conflicted with anti-trust laws. The industry was given thirty days in which to revise them, but did not do so.

One proposed rule provided that all dealers be required to sell new automobiles at the factory suggested delivery price. The commission said this would provide unlawful retail price maintenance. Another proposal would have provided a plan to fix the trade-in value of used cars. The commission held that also would constitue price fixing which would eliminate price competition.

School Board to Redeem $3,265,625 of Tax Warants

The board of education yesterday called for payment an aggregate of $3,265,625 of 1933 and 1934 tax anticipation warants. Warants bearing the 1933 serial numbers, called for payment, are B-11886 to B-12350, P-2008 to P-2016; warants bearing the following 1934 serial numbers: E-192 to E-871, B-26 to B-1050, and P-1 and P-2. Approximately $261,675 in accrued interest will be paid. Holders may bring them to room 412 at 228 North La Salle street on or before Nov. 5.

STANDARD OIL OF N. Y. PAYS 25 CENTS, TIMKEN $1 IN EXTRA DIVIDENDS

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today declared an extra dividend of 25 cents, payable Dec. 16. A similar extra payment was made a year ago.

Timken Roller Bearing company voted an extra dividend of $1 and a quarterly payment of 50 cents, both payable Dec. 5. On Sept. 5 the company paid an extra of 50 cents and a quarterly of 25 cents. The quarterly payment places the stock on a $2 annual basis against $1 previously.

McWilliams Dredging company voted a special dividend of 50 cents, payable Dec. 1. On Sept. 1, the company paid a special of 25 cents.

Brown Fence and Wire company declared a dividend of 30 cents on the class B stock, payable Nov. 15. This compares with an initial payment of 50 cents on Aug. 31.

Phoenix Hosiery company declared a dividend of 87½ cents on the 7 per cent cumulative first preferred, payable Dec. 1. On Sept. 1 the stock was in arrears $15.74 a share.

NEW CARS MAKE DEBUT TODAY AT NEW YORK SHOW

First Display Ever Held Before Jan. 1.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 1.—The National Automobile show will open in the Grand Central Palace here tomorrow afternoon. It is the kick off of a new trade year for America's largest manufacturing industry. It marks the formal début of 1936 motor models.

This is the first time in the thirty-six years of automobile shows that the annual display has not been held shortly after the start of the calendar year. The change in dates was arranged to level seasonal employment in the industry by stimulating sales during winter months that without new models have been dull for dealers.

Tried as Recovery Aid.

Such a result—the leveling of seasonal employment—might benefit the nation's general economic welfare, it was believed, because the manufacture and sale of automobiles and their allied industries are credited with contributing directly and indirectly to the livelihood of a tenth of America's gainfully employed. The production of motor cars is the country's largest single customer for raw materials.

Barlow H. Curtice, president of the Buick Motor company, in an address before dealers and salesmen here tonight, predicted that the November introduction of new models will be successful in stimulating automotive activity throughout the winter. He said that the car factories already have enough orders on hand to maintain production schedules near plant capacity until after the turn of the year.

Simultaneous with the opening of the automobile show, 1936 models will be placed on public display in dealer's rooms throughout the country. The new cars will be assembled for inspection under one roof in Chicago at the annual motor exhibition there Nov. 16 to 23 in the International amphitheater.

Chevrolet Changes Revealed.

Of more than usual interest, due to the larger number of owners of this make, was the announcement tonight describing the 1936 Chevrolets. This volume producer has adopted hydraulic brakes. Horse power has been stepped up by increasing the compression ratio.

Style changes on the Chevrolet Master line are moderate. The radiator grille is higher and narrower, and there is a new treatment of hood louvres. The standard, the lower priced line, has been completely redesigned to resemble the Master more closely. The overall length has been increased 12 to 13 inches. Spoke type compressed steel wheels are used.

Chevrolet Announces Prices.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The Chevrolet Motor company today announced that, effective with the introduction of its new passenger car models tomorrow, prices of three of its six Master De Luxe models will be reduced below the levels of the 1935 prices, the other prices in this line remaining unchanged.

Prices for the new lines follow:

UNITED AIR LINES WILL FLY 1,250,000 MILES PER MONTH

United Air lines will fly schedules of 1,250,000 miles a month during the fall and winter season, a quarter of a million miles larger than any previous corresponding seasons, W. A. Patterson, president, announced yesterday.

The schedules call for nine 4¼ hour flights between Chicago and New York, six services daily to Washington, D. C., via a Cleveland connection, four daily from New York and Chicago to the Pacific coast, and additional flying on the Pacific seaboard over last winter.

Patterson said that in anticipation of holding the 25 per cent increase in trafic so far this year over 1934, the company's entire fleet of 55 transport planes will be kept in service.

The average price of accepted bids on the 131 day treasury bills, maturing March 16, 1936, and offered on Oct. 30, was 99,966 yielding about 0.095 per cent annually, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced yesterday. The accepted bids ranged from 99.972, or a rate of 0.077, to 99.964, or 0.099 per cent. For the 273 day treasury bills, maturing Aug. 5, 1936, the average price was 99.878, and the average yield about 0.161 per cent. Bids ranged from 99.887, or 0.149 per cent, to 99.874, or an annual rate of 0.166 per cent.

H. S. Morgan, R. C. Stanley Join General Elec. Board

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Henry S. Morgan of Morgan Stanley & Co. and Robert C. Stanley, president of the International Nickel company, have been elected directors of General Electric company. Morgan succeeds Thomas Cochran of J. P. Morgan & Co., who resigned because of ill health, and Stanley fills a vacancy.

FREIGHT SETS 4 YEAR HIGH FOR LATE OCTOBER

Total Is Below Preceding Week, However.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Freight trafic last week totaled 707,826 cars, the highest level for late October in four years, despite a more than seasonal decrease of 25,121 cars from the preceding week, according to figures released today by the Association of American Railroads.

Declines in miscellaneous freight and coal loadings were largely responsible for the drop from a week earlier. The week's total was 83,018 cars above a year ago and 65,403 cars more than 1933.

The total since the start of the year to Oct. 26 was 26,020,342 cars, compared with 25,897,392 in the corresponding period of last year and 24,247,161 in 1933.

Miscellaneous Trafic Dips.

Less than carlot merchandise took 166,189, a decrease of 299, but 4,485 above 1934 and a drop of 5,544 from 1933.

Other loadings were: Coal, 128,692, a decrease of 9,743; increase, 8,939 above 1934 and decrease 3,690 below 1933. Grain and grain products, 37,451; increase, 1,333; 5,287 above 1934 and 7,294 above 1933. Live stock, 21,289, a decrease of 1,674; 4,254 below 1934 and 857 below 1933. Forest products, 30,675, a decrease of 701; an increase of 8,752 above 1934 and 6,501 above 1933. Ore, 31,461, a decrease of 864; an increase of 16,806 above 1934 and 11,544 above 1933. Coke, 6,691 cars, a decrease of 736; an increase of 1,748 above 1934 and 283 above 1933.

URGES 3 CLASSES OF RATES FOR MOTOR CARRIERS

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday recommended to motor truck freight haulers a three class system of rates to comply with regulations required in the new federal motor carrier act. Rates are scheduled to be placed in effect Dec. 1.

Under the plan, a basic class would include a general list of less than carload articles. A second group would cover light articles or bulky ones with a low weight per cubic foot—these with higher than basic rates. Somewhat lower than basic charges would apply to a third group of exceedingly heavy commodities weighing more than 30 pounds per cubic foot.

The plan was suggested to fleet operators after study by the association's transportation committee and industrial trafic committee. It was put forward as a means of bringing order out of rate chaos, and hope is held for their adoption. The plan also provides for simplification of packing requirements and elimination of much expense now placed on industry in billing, rating, packing and handling of trafic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 1.—New life entered the market for domestic corporation bonds today. Under the leadership of local tractions and certain power and light issues, prices moved forward over a fairly broad list on a heavier turnover. Total transactions expanded to $11,908,000, as compared with about $9,000,000 on Thursday. The increase was due solely to the resumption of trading interest in the domestic corporate issues.

United States government loans turned strong during the afternoon and closed at gains ranging from 1-32d to 8-32ds point. Sales of those issues, however, continued relatively light, amounting to $1,266,200.

Tractions Rise Sharply.

The market for local traction securities clearly discounted the announcement after the close of the market that a tentative agreement has been reached on unification of the city's rapid transit facilities. Only minor points are left to be adjusted, it is understood. Interborough 6s and 6 per cent certificates responded to the brisk demand with gains of 2⅜ and 3 points, respectively.

Some of the utilities turned in substantial gains. Rails, which have tended to lag in recent seessions, gained strength, net upturns ranging as high as 2 points.

Foreign List Is Dull.

Foreign dollar obligations were dull and held mostly within narrow price limits. Italian issues were a shade easier. German 7s advanced ¾ point. Return to the market of those members who had been attending the investment bankers' annual convention at White Sulphur Springs were believed by observers to have had a part in bringing about increased interest in bonds. Most all of this week, it was recalled, the market had shuffled around in uncertain fashion without showing any important change.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

If you wish information about investments or insurance write to The Tribune Investors' Guide. Inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply. Answers of public interest are published, but inquirers' names are never revealed. Please do not ask for information on more than one company in each letter. A 1927 Account Revived.

Investors' Guide: My March statement from Logan & Bryan in 1927 showed 10 Domes Mines and cash of $11.25. This statement was forgotten until I located the papers a few weeks ago. I cannot now find Logan & Bryan. Have I any equity in this matter?—H. C. F.

Answer: Although the brokerage firm of Logan & Bryan has withdrawn from active business in this section of the country, an office is still maintained in the east. If you will write to the firm, attention M. W. Washburn, 42 Broadway, New York City, they will inform you just how to make application for what is due you and will remit the stock, accrued dividends and cash balance.

Canada Atlantic Railway 4s.

Investors' Guide: Does Dominion of Canada guarantee Canada Atlantic railway sterling 4s, due 1955?—D. E.

Answer: Canada Atlantic railway consolidated first sterling 4s, due 1955, are guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada. They are guaranteed by Canadian National Railway company and are secured by a first lien on 394 miles of track from Depot Harbor, Ont., to the international boundary line. Canadian National, which is controlled by the Canadian government, had a profit and loss deficit of $789,041,000 on Dec. 31, 1934.

All Liberty Bonds Called.

Investors' Guide: I have heard from a friend that some time ago it was written in the paper about the President's wanting to buy all the Liberty bonds. As I did not read this myself I am wondering if you could help me in any way by informing me if this is really so. Any little help will be highly appreciated.—U. Z. E.

Answer: All United States Liberty bonds have been called for payment. They no longer bear interest. If you have your Liberty bonds in you will receive face value for them.

Goldfield Big Bonanza.

Investors' Guide: We have in our possession stock of Goldfield Big Bonanza Mining and Milling company issued in 1905 and are wondering whether it has any value.—Mrs. B. V.

Answer: Goldfield Big Bonanza Mining and Milling company had capital stock of $2,000,000 and was classed as a stock selling scheme. The stock is worthless.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet again today and as no sales were reported prices were unchanged and based on last sales were 3.60c per lb for spots and 3.28c for overquota sugars.

After an inactive opening, sugar futures became more active and prices advanced on a renewal of covering in December and increased trade and commission house buying, which seemed to come principally from houses with Cuban connections. Final prices were 1 to 5 points net higher. Trading in next November was inaugurated, with that position selling initially at 2.36c.

According to European advices, a prominent crop expert there estimated the European beet sugar production at 6,488,000 metric tons, exclusive of Russia, against his previous estimate of 6,607,500, and last year's outturn of 7,074,600 metric tons. Sales were 9,900 tons.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close	Prev. close.
December	2.51	2.52	2.48	2.48	2.49
January	2.21	2.22	2.20	2.20	2.18
March	2.18	2.20	2.18	2.19	2.14

July	2.25	2.29	2.25	2.29	2.24
September	2.28	2.33	2.28	2.33	2.28

Refined sugar was unchanged, with refiners listing at 5.30c per lb for fine granulated and resales available at 5.15c to 5.20c, with a good inquiry reported for the latter.

GREAT NORTHERN PLANS ISSUE TO MEET MATURITY

107 Millions Involved; Vote Dec. 20.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—An initial step to enable the Great Northern railway to meet the maturity of $107,000,000 of 7 per cent general mortgage bonds on July 1 was taken today when the directors of the company decided to call a stockholders' meeting Dec. 20 for the approval of an issue of convertible bonds to refinance the obligation.

W. E. Kenney, president, said that no decision had been reached as to the rate of interest on the new bonds nor the price at which they would be convertible into stock. Holders of 75 per cent of Great Northern stock must approve the proposed financing for its ratification.

Expect to Get Premium.

When the financing was under discussion with Reconstruction Finance corporation officials, it was said that the new bonds would command a premium over par. The RFC has been prepared to lend as much as $50,000,000 to enable the Great Northern to meet its obligation. However, if the management's plans carry, this aid will not be required.

The Kansas Power and Light company of Topeka, Kas., a subsidiary of the North American company, today filed under the securities act of 1933 for the issuance of $30,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, 4½ per cent series, due 1965, to be used chiefly for refunding, acquisition of properties of subsidiaries, and purchase of properties of the Public Service Company of Kansas.

Eastern Utility Finances.

A syndicate including the First Boston corporation, Blyth & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Paine, Webber & Co. will offer on Monday $22,000,000 of first and general mortgage bonds, 4½ per cent series, due 1960, and $7,500,000 of 6 per cent debentures, due 1965, of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service company.

The state of Kentucky awarded today a new issue of $1,800,000 of bridge revenue bonds, project No. 10, to a banking syndicate headed by B. J. Van Ingen & Co., Inc., on a price of 100.17 for 3s. The bonds are dated Nov. 15, 1935, and mature on July 1, 1950.

COAL CHIEF FUEL, SAYS WITNESS IN U. S. CONTROL SUIT

Washiongton, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The supremacy of coal as the chief source of power for many years to come was predicted today by a government witness in the suit to invalidate the Guffey coal act.

Despite frequently heard assertions that coal mining is a "dying industry," Frederick G. Tryon, a bureau of mines economist, testified in the District of Columbia Supreme court that energy requirements of the United States will have to be met in the future "principally by bituminous coal."

Tryon was the government's first witness in the suit of James Walter Carter, president of the Carter Coal company, challenging the constitutionality of the coal act. Tryon submitted.

While the trial progressed through a maze of data outlining the industry's statistical history, the bureau of internal revenue issued rules and regulations governing collection of the 15 per cent "compliance tax" on soft coal imposed by the Guffey act. It became effective today.

Producers who have accepted the code prescribed by the act are entitled to a rebate of 90 per cent of the tax.

Stiff penalties for violations of the law included addition of 25 per cent of the tax for failure to file returns within the prescribed time and a 50 per cent penalty for false or fraudulent returns. Conspiracy to evade the tax would be punishable, under the criminal code, by a fine of $10,000, imprisonment for two years, or both.

SHORT COVERING BOOSTS PRICES OF LARD FUTURES

Short covering, induced by a rally in the hog market, lifted lard futures yesterday as much as 27½ cents over Thursday's close, but the aggregate trade was not large and profit taking and commission house selling wiped out part of the advance. The close was at net gains of 7½ to 20 cents.

The big premium prevailing for cash and loose lard as compared with the December delivery is attracting some attention, the cash article being quoted at $1.85 and loose at $1.25 per 100 pounds over the future.

Cash lard closed at $14.10, loose $13.50, leaf $13, and clear bellies at $18 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods sales were light but prices were steady today. Colored goods were in good demand. Wash goods sales were heavy. Wool goods sales were slowed by warm weather, but mills were running nearly at full capacity on existing contracts. Rayon yarns were in good demand. Raw silk was unchanged. Japanese markets were closed by a holiday. Burlaps were slightly firmer.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was firm, closing 7 to 12 points higher on local covering and commission house buying, influenced by the firmness of lard and the better tone in hogs. Sales, 38 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal. December closed 10.22c per lb; January 10.20c; March, 10.29c; May, 10.33c.

LIVE STOCK SUPPLIES GAIN, BUT TOTAL FAR BELOW OTHER YEARS

A seasonal increase in the movement of live stock to market swelled the October receipts at Chicago to the largest total since January, but they were smallest for the month in more than fifty years, official figures at the stockyards revealed yesterday.

During the month 13,387 carloads arrived, compared with 11,456 in September and an all time low for any month on record, 8,996, established last June. In October last year 18,651 carloads were received, and the ten year average for the month stands at 19,979.

In the first ten months of 1935 Chicago handled only 111,028 carloads of live stock, the smallest on record. Official records on carloads go back to 1881. A new 63 year low for October hog receipts was established when only 308,504 head arrived during the month. The ten months' total at 2,864,714 also goes back to 1872 for a lower figure.

In the first ten months of 1934 Chicago received 5,186,229, and two years ago the ten months' total was 6,438,633. Hog receipts for all of 1935 are expected to fall short of 3,700,000 head. Back in 1873 the year's total was 4,437,750.

The ten months' cattle total of 1,627,137 was the smallest since 1886, and compared with 2,308,472 a year ago. October cattle receipts of 219,898 were largest since October, 1934, but, excepting 1932 it stands smallest for that month since 1915.

Sheep receipts, 252,705, were smallest for the month since 1892, and compared with 392,958 a year ago. The ten months' total was 2,554,529, smallest since 1894, except a year ago.

BREAK IN HOGS IS HALTED BY REDUCED SUPPLY

Farmers sharply curtailed marketing of hogs yesterday as a result of the recent drastic slashing of quotations, and the two weeks' break was halted. Prices rallied 5 to 10 cents, and trading was fairly active at the higher level rates, although most of the principal buyers remained practically out of the market in anticipation of a resumption of the selling wave next week.

Only 8,000 head arrived yesterday, the smallest daily total, excepting Saturdays, since Oct. 11. The top was $11.70 and the average at $11.30 showed a gain of 10 cents, but was 40 cents below a week ago and 95 cents less than two weeks ago.

The small supply of cattle was hardly enough to test quotations. Trading was practically at a standstill due to the unsatisfactory bids made by a few bargain hunters. Commission men locked up most of the cattle to be carried over for next week. Bids and a few sales were weak to unevenly lower, considering quality.

Stronger prices were paid for the limited sheep and lamb supply. Big packers absorbed the bulk of the best grades at $9.25 to $9.50.

HIDE FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The Endicott Johnson corporation is reported to have bought 134,000 branded cow hides in Chicago on Thursday, paying 11½c per lb, or ½c under the high point of the season. Futures were affected by the good demand for spots, and prices advanced sharply, closing 27 to 28 points higher with sales of 68 lots, or 2,720,000 pounds. Closing bids in cents per pound: December, 11.81c; March, 12.14c; June, 12.50c; September, 12.80c.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—SILK—Raw: Futures closed firm 2½ to 4 cents higher; sales were 1,050 bales. Dec., $2.05 per lb bid; March, $2.02; May, $2.02. Open market quotations [60 day basis]: Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, $2.05; Canton double extra A 14-16s, $1.55; Japanese special crack double extra 81 per cent seriplane 13-15s, $2.13.

ADMITS PLANNING TO 'FOOL' PUBLIC ON CUBAN BONDS

New Yorker's Proposal Irks SEC Counsel.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—William Rosenblatt, New York financier, testified at a securities commission hearing today that he proposed to the Cuban government that it buy back its defaulted bonds from American holders at depression levels prior to the announcement of a plan that would increase the value of the bonds.

Rosenblatt was a promoter but not a member of a committee formed for the protection of the American holders. The committee was first headed by the late Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico and its present chairman is Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota. Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana is an associate counsel.

The commission's hearing is one of several being held under congressional direction to investigate the activities of protective committees of all kinds.

Rosenblatt Is "Representative."

Rosenblatt testified his plan, prepared in company with prominent Cubans, was not authorized by the committee, and was entirely his own, but William O. Douglas, commission counsel, introduced letters in which Albert F. Coyle, committee secretary, identified Rosenblatt as "our representative." Coyle testified the committee disapproved the plan and there was no testimony that Cutting or Wheeler knew of it. The plan, prepared last March, was never adopted.

Douglas characterized it as "insufferable" after a heated exchange in which the witness sought to justify the program as similar to the purchases by other foreign governments of their defaulted bonds in this country.

Concerned Over U. S. Interests.

Douglas said he was not concerned so much with the propriety of what a foreigner did, but rather with what Rosenblatt proposed to do while purportedly working for the interests of American bondholders.

Rosenblatt's plan would have had the Cuban government buy the bonds on the American market, without disclosing to American holders that the government was buying, or that a plan was in view which would enable resumption of interest payments.

When Douglas introduced Coyle's letters describing Rosenblatt as "our representative," Coyle testified that the phrase was informal and that Rosenblatt was supposed primarily to establish social contacts for the committee in Cuba.

FRANC AND POUND STEADY; CHINESE MONEY DECLINES

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—With the Paris bourse closed because of the All Saints' day recess, foreign exchange markets were extremely dull today. Sterling opened at $4.91, rose to $4.91⅝, held close to that figure until midafternoon, and then closed at $4.91¾, unchanged. The franc opened at 6.59, unchanged, and closed at that price. The dollar was worth $1.0066 against francs.

Hongkong dollars dropped another 35 points to 44.40 cents, and Shanghai dollars dipped 37½ points to 31.12½ cents.

The guilder was unchanged at 67.95 cents. The Swiss franc eased 1 point to 32.51 cents.

No engagements of gold abroad were reported today. Actual receipts of $10,993,300 gold were reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

South Side Housing Plan Awaits Decision of Court

Action on the Public Works administration's condemnation suit for land for the South Side Gardens, a federal housing project for colored families, apparently will await decision of the United States Supreme court in the Louisville case. Judge Walter C. Lindley, sitting for Judge Philip Sullivan in the United States district court, yesterday continued generally all motions in the suit. The land involved is bounded by 37th and 39th streets, Cottage Grove avenue and South Park way.

Judges Selected to Hear Commission Charge Suit

Federal Judges John P. Barnes, Samuel Alschuler, and James H. Wilkerson will hear Nov. 8 a motion on behalf of 200 stock yards commission men to restrain federal officials from interfering with collection of a new schedule of charges for selling live stock. United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, one of the defendants named along with Sec. Wallace, assured the court no action would be taken against the plaintiffs until after Nov. 8.

Railway Business Group to Meet Here on Nov. 7

More than 1,600 persons are expected to attend the twenty-seventh annual dinner of the Railway Business association in the Stevens hotel, Nov. 7, Harry A. Wheeler, president of the organization, announced yesterday. Dr. W. T. Jackson, professor of political science, University of Toronto, will discuss problems of railroad economy.

Fewer Favorable Dividend Changes Noted in October

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Favorable dividend changes in October totaled 101 against 130 in September, and 80 in October, 1934, acording to Standard Statistics company. Unfavorable changes numbered 20 against 21 in the preceding month and 27 in October a year ago.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—RUBBER—Crude: Futures closed steady, 4 to 9 points lower. Dec., 13.32c bid per lb; March, 13.54c @13.56c; May, 13.69. Smoked ribbed spot closed 13.25c nominal.

WHEAT LOSES EARLY UPTURN; WINNIPEG WEAK

Corn and Oats Also Sag; Rye Advances.

Wheat prices moved fractionally lower here yesterday, inspired almost wholly by weakness in Winnipeg, which offset the early stimulating effect of higher prices at Liverpool. Initial dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade carried prices about half a cent a bushel above Thursday's close, but the advance attracted sufficient selling, much of which was furnished by local professionals, to erase the advantage.

In addition, eastern speculators, liquidated considerable quantities of futures, but this was offset to some extent by purchases of millers who were removing hedges on wheat going into consuming channels.

Corn and oats duplicated the action of wheat, but rye countered the trend by turning in a net gain.

Rye Market Sensitive.

Trading in rye was exceedingly thin and modest sized orders exerted an effect on the price trend entirely out of proportion to their relative size.

Corn staged a modest rally at the start as the result of overnight rains throughout the belt, which will hinder harvesting and movement of grain to market, but the bulls were unable to make the advance stick.

Closing prices of principal December futures in Chicago, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$0.97⅞	$0.98¼	$1.00½
Corn	.58⅛	.58⅜	.61
Oats	.26⅞	.27	.26⅞
Rye	.50½	.50¼	.50⅝

Wheat in Winnipeg declined nearly a cent, while Liverpool lost ⅛ to ⅜ cent and Rotterdam closed unchanged. The Buenos Aires market was closed in observance of All Saints' day.

Corn Crop Estimate Raised.

The United States corn crop this year is estimated at 2,203,929,000 bushels by Mrs. E. H. Miller, crop statistician for James E. Bennett & Co. A month ago she placed the total at 2,186,923,000 bushels, while the government predicted 2,213,000,000 as of Oct. 1. Estimates of acreage sowed to winter wheat for harvest in 1936 were 45,440,000, an increase of 2½ per cent over the 44,336,000 acres reported seeded a month ago. Abandonment last year amounted to 12,947,000 acres, leaving only 32,389,000 acres for harvest.

Broomhall reported Europe is not taking the amount of Canadian wheat previously anticipated.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in fairly good demand yesterday and the market was firm at unchanged prices. Receipts were 2,682 cases. Butter was unchanged to ½c per lb. higher. Receipts were 7,682 tubs. Live hens were steady to ½c lower; turkeys, unchanged to 1c higher, and ducks and geese, unchanged to 1c per lb higher. Receipts were 35 trucks. Potatoes were in light demand, but sound stock was firm. Receipts were 88 cars, with 364 cars on team track.

MARINELLO

ONE DAY LAST SPRING A GIRL just like you read our ad, mailed the coupon, and from our reply learned of the wonderful opportunities offered Marinello beauticians in the beauty profession.

IMMEDIATELY she enrolled in our school and found the work so interesting and delightful, in the large sunny class rooms equipped just like regular beauty shops, that the time quickly passed and before she realized it graduation time had arrived. How thrilled she was when she received her certificate. Now she is earning a GOOD SALARY as a successful Marinello operator and has already made plans to open a shop of her own this winter. You can do the same.

Now! Marinello Offers

Easy pay-as-you-learn plan. Complete instruments, textbooks, uniforms, and all cosmetics furnished without charge if you enroll for day or evening classes now forming!
